SMITH APPOINTED TO SENATE; FIGHT TO KEEP HIM OUT OF SEAT IS BEGUN

Ashurst Introduces Resolution to Bar Illinoisan Pending Action on Campaign Fund Report.

HE WILL DEMAND VOTE TOMORROW

Reed Submits Evidence — Gov. Small Declares That His Nominee Is the Choice of the Voters.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The enate had no sooner convened at oon today than Senator Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona opened the fight keep Frank L. Smith of Illinois t of the Senate. Word had ached Washington during the orning that Gov. Small of Illinois, efying the advice of Republican aders close to the administration d designated Smith as Senator to rve out the unoccupied term of e late Senator McKinley.

Ashurst had prepared a resolu-n for use in this contingency. introduced it as soon as he uld get the floor today. It reads: "Resolved, That the qualifying th be not administered to the on. Frank L. Smith, the member signate, and that the special mmittee appointed under and by thority of Senate Resolution 195, ixty-ninth Congress, first session, and it hereby is directed to re-rt to the Senate at the earliest nvenient date such recommenda- in the premises as may by said ecial committee seem warrant-."

Glum Faces on G. O. P. Side.

There were glum faces on the publican side as the resolution ecipitating the Smith fight was ad. Senator Curtis of Kansas, G. P. leader, was a picture of dis-. Curtis and his colleagues had ped the contest over the seating Smith would be postponed to the xt Congress, to which Smith was ected in November.

The appointment by the Govern- threw into the present short ses- the whole controversy over the ght of the Senate to go beyond formal constitutional require-nts as to age, residence and citi-nship in passing upon the quali-ations of its members.

The same question arises in the se of Senator Gould of Maine, ho has been accused of bribing e Premier of a Canadian province 5 years ago, and the case of Sena-r-elect Vare of Pennsylvania.

Events moved fast as soon as it became known that Gov. Small, ful-lling a political obligation to mith, had tendered him the ap-ointment.

Reed Speeds Up His Report.

The Reed investigating commit-e, which dug out the evidence pon which the attack on Smith based, went into session and merged soon with the announce-ent by the chairman that the re-ort relating to the Illinois primary ould be presented to the Senate once. Reed said that this re-ort would contain merely the facts the case, with explanatory para-aphs where necessary. He said at it would contain no recom-endation. The report was made ady at this time in order that its embers might have official nowledge of the Smith case, on hich to predicate any action they ay take.

Ashurst and the others who ould kick Smith off the doorstep raw a distinction between his case d that of Truman Newberry, who as admitted to the Senate and ter investigated. In the present e, they point out the investiga-on has already been held by an fficially appointed committee, so hat it is not necessary to follow he usual course of referring the atter to the Standing Committee Privileges and Elections.

Resolution Lies on Table.

Ashurst, after the reading of his solution, asked that it lie on the ble under the rule. Remarking at the matter was one of great portance, Senator Dill (Dem.) of ashington made the point of no orum. This had the effect of inging a large attendance of Sen-ors to the chamber to respond to e roll call.

Ashurst, resuming his remarks, id that in view of the record in e case, he could not believe that ith would accept the appoint-nt by the Governor.

"I hope he will not," he added.

RATTLESNAKE VEST SENT TO PRESIDENT

Kentuckian's Christmas Gift Is First of Season at the White House.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The first of the usual run of Christmas gifts which annually flow into the White House is a snakeskin vest for the President, home tailored, the gift of Joe Stinson of Rumsey, Ky.

The creation consists of strips of rattler hide, neatly pieced together. Herpetologists estimate that the snake was 7 feet long and 5 years old. Five rattles were tucked away in a pocket of the vest.

$96,500,000 PAID TO U. S. ON ACCOUNT OF WAR LOANS

Eight Foreign Governments Meet Principal Installments and Interest.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Eight foreign Governments made payments to the United States yesterday on account of war loans, principal installments and interest totaling $96,518,417.98.

The regular payment from Great Britain, the eighth it has made on its debt, accounted for most of the foreign receipts. Of its $92,950,000 payment, $67,950,000 was for interest, the balance going to reduce the principal.

Great Britain paid the total amount in the form of treasury certificates of the United States which have been purchased by that country's bankers on the open market.

Czecho-Slovakia paid $1,500,000 in cash, all applying on the principal of its debt, while Belgium paid $1,000,000, all of which was credited to interest. Esthonia paid in $50,000; Finland, $181,945; Hungary, $39,672.98; Lithuania, $46,800, and Poland, $750,000; the amounts applying variously to interest or to principal or both in accordance with the terms of debt settlements.

The treasury certificates paid in by the British bankers have all been canceled and the public debt of the United States reduced accordingly.

Birger on Trail, Loot Is Returned.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

CARBONDALE, Ill., Dec. 16.—Most of the valuables taken in a holdup of a resort at Ward, north of here, a few nights ago have been returned. Charles Birger, Williamson County gang leader, who dropped in the next night, told the proprietor of the place that he would get back the loot, which consisted of rings, jewelry and women's coats as well as money taken from the proprietor. The place is known as Murphy Smith's.

$100,000,000 WHISKY COMBINE BILL READY

Congress Will Be Asked to Authorize Private Medicinal Liquor Corporation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A bill authorizing the creation of a $100,000,000 corporation to control the manufacture of medicinal whisky has been completed by the Treasury for presentation to Congress, in line with the plans of Lincoln C. Andrews, prohibition enforcement chief.

No Government funds will go into the enterprise, Secretary Mellon said today, but he expressed the opinion that there would be no difficulty in obtaining subscriptions for $60,000,000 of stock in the corporation and $40,000,000 of bonds or notes.

All the 14,000,000 gallons of legal liquor now in storage would be taken over by the new corporation. holders to receive pay in cash and in securities of the new company. Thereafter the corporation would have a monopoly of the supply of whisky for drug stores.

Two distilleries would be established, one for the manufacture of corn whisky and the other for the manufacture of rye whisky, to supplement the existing stock.

Mellon said the company would be a "going concern" from the moment of organization, and "would be able to make profits to maintain the value of its securities."

PLANE THAT FOLDS ITS WINGS LIKE A BIRD, IS NAVY'S NEWEST

Assistant Secretary Warner Tells Also of Progress in Making Collapsible Aircraft.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 16.—Airplanes which fold up their wings like birds, or collapse altogether to fit neatly into pigeon holes in enormous floating hangars were called a development of momentous importance to the navy's air program by Edward P. Warner, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for aeronautics, speaking last night before the Engineers' Club.

Great strides were being made, he added, in perfecting planes of three classes, those with folding wings, those with removable wings, and those which could be entirely knocked down and their parts stacked together. The last was held a development of greatest efficiency and strategic gain. These are designed to be used on huge aircraft-carrying ships.

RADIO ANNOUNCER STRICKEN FROM NEW YORK JURY LIST

He Is Alleged to Have Broadcast Prejudices Against Jews and Catholics.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Franklin Ford, radio announcer, was stricken from the jury lists of General Sessions today for broadcasting alleged prejudices against Jews and Catholics.

His dismissal came after both the District Attorney and counsel for the defense in the case requested that he be relieved from duty.

The station for which Ford acts as announcer is WHAP, sponsored by Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, expelled several years ago from the Christian Science Church and since a free-lance exponent of her own version of that faith. Ford said 30 to 40 per cent of his announcements over the radio had been directed against the Catholic church. He denied being a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

TWIN CITIES DROP QUARREL

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 16.—The first intercity banquet since a census controversy broke up the original Twin Cities Good Will Club 35 years ago, was held last night, and leaders of St. Paul and Minneapolis agreed to combine their efforts toward development of the "hub of the great Northwest." A metropolis of 2,030,000 was predicted from the present cities, whose combined population is about 900,000. As a starter the meeting agreed to end competition between the two cities for big conventions.

KILLEFER OFFERED HORNSBY'S PLACE AS CARDINAL BOSS

Declares Breadon Twice Asked Him to Manage Team and Loyalty to Rogers Caused Refusals.

ONCE 24 HOURS AFTER WORLD SERIES

Says He Told President He Would Not Return to Champions Unless Hornsby Was Retained as Chief

By J. ROY STOCKTON,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Rogers Hornsby's job as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the baseball universe, twice has been offered to William Killefer, Hornsby's first lieutenant during the victorious campaign of 1926, Killefer admitted this morning.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, made the first offer on a train traveling from New York to St. Louis within 24 hours after the Cardinals had defeated the Yankees in the seventh game of the world's series, thereby gaining the championship. Killefer declined the position then and again emulated Caesar by turning down the kingly crown Tuesday in New York when Breadon, attending the National League's annual meeting, again offered it to Killefer.

Killefer was reluctant to make the admission, but when confronted with reports from reliable sources he said that it was true that Breadon had made the offers. Rumors to the effect that Breadon was seeking a manager to succeed Hornsby in case he failed to reach an agreement with Rogers, were circulating freely around the Congress Hotel yesterday afternoon, but until last night they were vague and no individual's name was mentioned.

Killefer Refuses Offer.

Killefer said Breadon summoned him to his compartment on the train going from New York to St. Louis after the world's series and asked him if he would accept the management of the Cardinals for 1927.

St. Louis at that time was wildly celebrating the Cardinal victory; the great triumph of Rogers Hornsby and as the Cardinal train sped on its way to St. Louis baseball fans gathered at every station and cheered Hornsby and his victorious warriors. The cheers were still ringing in Killefer's ears and he told Breadon that he would not even consider the proposition. He had not changed his mind Tuesday when Breadon saw him again, in New York and Killefer again said that he would not take Hornsby's job.

"I told Mr. Breadon when I signed last year that I was signing to work for Rogers Hornsby and that at the end of the year I wanted to be free to go elsewhere if I could better myself," Killefer said this morning. "After the world series there were rumors, without basis, that I had been offered a job as manager in the American league.

Killefer Is Emphatic.

"On the train after the close of the series, within 24 hours after the last game, Breadon called me to his compartment and asked me if I was planning any move for the next year. I reminded Mr. Breadon that I had signed with the understanding that I would be free after the end of the season to accept any offer I might get if I thought I could better myself. I told him, however, that I had not considered any offer seriously. He asked me if I wolud accept the management of the Cardinals. I told him I would not. He then asked me if I would return to the Cardinals in the capacity of assistant manager and I told him that I would return to the Cardinals only under the condition that perfectly friendly relations were established between him (Breadon) and Hornsby.

"He asked me to consider the matter further and to see him before I did anything else. I told him I would do that and so I went to New York during the National League meeting. I saw Mr. Breadon again and he again asked me if I would accept the management of the Cardinals. I told him that I would not take the position under any circumstance or for any salary. I would not take Rogers Hornsby's job for any money. There is more in this life than money and there certainly is not enough money in this world to make me accept a position made vacant by the ousting of Rogers Hornsby."

Killefer's statement confirming rumors which were circulating in the Congress Hotel during the closing sessions of the American

FALL AND DOHENY ACQUITTED; JURY ONCE EVENLY DIVIDED

ALLAN A. RYAN SETTLES DEBTS AT 18 CENTS ON $100

Bankrupt New York Stock Plunger Pays Off $9,000,000 at 186-Thousands of a Cent on $1.

HIS $7 HAT COST HIM JUST ONE CENT

Clears $4,202,495 Claim for $7816 — Receiver Never Heard of So Small a Settlement Before.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The final chapter in the story of the spectacular failure of Allan A. Ryan, one-time rocketer of Stutz stock, and son of Thomas Fortune Ryan, was written yesterday in the office of Peter B. Olney Jr., referee in bankruptcy.

It was in the form of an order for settlement of unsecured claims aggregating about $9,000,000 at terms amounting to approximately 186 one-thousandths of a cent on the dollar—about 18 cents on each $100—one of the most complete big failures this city has known.

Under this order—the best settlement the meager assets permitted—the Guaranty Trust Co., in which Thomas Fortune Ryan is heavily interested, receives $7816 in settlement of a claim of $4,202,495; the Chase National Bank receives $3848 in settlement of a claim for $2,068,830; the Chase Securities Corporation gets $284 for a claim for $152,834.

A $7 Hat for One Cent.

Many of Ryan's wealthy friends also receive comparatively paltry sums. Samuel Untermyer, his counsel in his fight against the New York Stock Exchange, gets only $83.70 on an allowed claim for $45,000 for legal services. Charles M. Schwab, whose claim for $339,210 was approved by the referee, gets $630. Harry Payne Whitney and Elizabeth F. Sinclair receive $351 each on allowed claims for $188,733 apiece.

There are numerous smaller claims, some of which appear humorous. For example, Ryan goes on record as the only man ever known to have purchased a Knox hat for 1 cent. One cent is all the Knox Hat Co. gets in settlement of a bill for $7.

Before his bankruptcy Ryan ate noonday meals at the Savarin in the Equitable Building and ran up a bill of $20.65. This claim is settled by payment to the Equitable Building Restaurant Inc. of 3 cents.

Clothing worth $1095 which Ryan purchased from Brooks Bros. costs him actually $2.04 by this settlement. Arnold Constable & Co. gets 26 cents for a claim of $137; Bonwit, Teller & Co. $1 for a claim of $540.

Francis G. Caffry, former United States Attorney and receiver for Ryan, said he had never heard of another case in which a claim against the estate of bankrupt was settled for so small a sum.

Allan A. Ryan filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy July 21, 1922. He was discharged from bankruptcy Dec. 13, 1922, after he had turned over all his assets to the court. His liabilities were listed originally as $32,435,477, much of which was secured by stock deposited as collateral. When the big financial institutions which held this stock tried to realize upon it, it did not bring enough to cover the amounts they had advanced.

The fall of Ryan was attributed generally to his action in incurring the animosity of powerful men in Wall Street through his corner of Stutz stock in 1920, when he drove the price up to $700 a share, and caused heavy loss to the shorts. He also had done other things to offend men of considerable influence on the street.

Following his Stutz corner Ryan was expelled from the New York Stock Exchange and brought a suit for $1,000,000 which finally was withdrawn. He got into financial straits which forced him to pledge the Stutz stock and other securities he had at only a small fraction of the inflated value they had reached.

Following his discharge from bankruptcy Ryan resumed business at No. 111 Broadway but has done nothing spectacular since re-entering the financial field.

At one time Ryan's wealth was estimated at $35,000,000.

BOY, 14, DRIVING $90 AUTOMOBILE, KILLS AGED MAN

Charles Foster Jr. Taken After Fleeing From Scene of Striking Moses Dayen, 76 Years Old.

ACCIDENT WAS ON EVENING OF DEC. 7

Lad Two Years Under Legal Age for Drivers, Denies Operating Car Fast and Reckless.

A 14-year-old boy driving his father's second-hand automobile—purchased on the installment plan for $90, of which $17 had been paid—has killed a 76-year-old man and is under arrest after a flight from the scene. The law forbids persons under 16 to operate motor vehicles.

The driver, Charles Foster Jr., eldest of five children, living with his father in the rear of 1905 Blair avenue, is held at the House of Detention pending an inquest tomorrow in the case of Moses Dayen, a former street cleaner, of 2012 North Fourteenth street, who died at City Hospital at 1:30 a. m. today of fractured ribs and internal injuries suffered at 6:30 p. m. Dec. 7 when he was struck by Foster's car at Fourteenth and Chambers streets.

Jumped From Car and Ran.

Dayen, a widower who made his home with his son, Louis, had made an unsuccessful search for employment that day, and was accompanying his son's wife, Rosa, home from Biddle Market when he was struck by an automobile which turned west into Chambers from Fourteenth as he was crossing. The boy driver jumped out and ran away. The license was traced, and young Foster, arrested at his home, admitted he was the driver and had fled because of fright.

Since then the boy has been at the house of detention. The automobile was parked in front of his home by his father, and was still there today.

The boy's parents are separated. His mother and one child live on Delmar boulevard; he and the other children and their great-aunt live with the father, a stationary fireman for the Union Electric Co. When he attained the age of 14 last Jan. 20 he quit school and obtained a permit to work. He is employed as a stock clerk at $11 a week.

Bought Old Touring Car.

He and his father wanted an automobile to take the family riding. They inspected used cars at the Knight Motor Co., 1512 Locust street, Dec. 1, and selected an old Gardner touring car for $90. The elder Foster paid $12 and signed notes for the rest of the purchase price.

But later, when the car was demonstrated, Foster Sr. was not satisfied and sent it back. Then Charles Jr. conceived the idea of reselling the car, to relieve his father of paying the notes. He took a 16-year-old friend to the automobile company and sold him on the idea of buying the car. The transaction was not completed, but the youth made a $5 time payment, and they drove the car away.

The car was parked in front of the Foster home pending completion of the resale. Young Foster drove it about the neighborhood occasionally and was doing that when he ran down Dayen.

Dayen's son and daughter-in-law say "something should be done" in this case, and they consider the boy's parents at fault for letting him use the car. Mrs. Dayen charges young Foster was driving fast and recklessly.

The boy denies the charge. He says he was driving carefully and that Dayen ran in front of the car after Dayen's daughter-in-law had stepped back to let the car pass.

The automobile bore a license issued to William Gelvin, 1623 North Leffingwell avenue, for a Ford touring car. Young Foster said this had been loaned to his father by the automobile company until a new license could be obtained.

A. A. Knight, president of the Knight Motor Co., said the car had been sold to Foster Sr. in the ordinary course of business and the company was unaware young Foster was to drive it.

LARNED, FORMER TENNIS CHAMPION, ENDS HIS LIFE

Valet Finds 54-Year-Old Ex-Star Shot to Death at Knickerbocker Club in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—William A. Larned, former national tennis champion, committed suicide by shooting in his room today at the Knickerbocker Club in Fifth avenue. He had held the championship in 1901 and 1902 and for five years from 1907.

A nervous breakdown from which he had been suffering for the last two years was believed to have caused his act. His last appearance in a tennis match was at Forest Hills, N. Y., in 1922, during the Metropolitan championship play.

Mr. Larned also had been suffering from rheumatism for some time. He was rated as a man of considerable means, and was formerly a member of the New York Stock Exchange, selling his seat in 1922 for $98,000. He was one of the closest students of tennis in this country.

Body Found by Valet.

The body was found in bed by a valet this afternoon. Mr. Larned apparently had shot himself several hours before. The wound was in his right temple.

For the last two months, Mr. Larned, who was 54 years old, had lived at the Knickerbocker Club. His home was at Far Hills, N. J.

In his last important tennis match, Mr. Larned was paired with H. H. Hackett in the Metropolitan doubles tennis championship play for veterans. They lost to Sam Hardy and W. A. Campbell.

Mr. Larned was succeeded as titleholder by Maurice E. McLoughlin, the California "Comet."

Only one other champion in American lawn tennis history rivals Mr. Larned's record. R. D. Sears, the first titleholder, won the tournament seven years in a row, 1881 to 1887, inclusive.

"Big Bill" Tilden, with six straight titles to his credit, failed in an attempt to equal the achievements of Sears and Larned when he was eliminated this year in the national tournament by a Frenchman, Henri Cochet.

On Four Davis Cup Teams.

Mr. Larned was a member of four American Davis Cup teams, in 1902, 1903, 1905 and 1911. Only one of these teams was victorious in the international play, however, Mr. Larned teaming with Malcolm Whitman, Dwight Davis, now Secretary of War, and Holcombe Ward, to repel the British challenger, three matches to two.

Known as the first of the modern "net stormers" and volleyers, Mr. Larned was essentially a singles star. He never shared in holding the doubles crown.

VERDICT FINISHES CONSPIRACY CASE OVER LEASING OF ELK HILLS RESERVE

Youthful Jury of Clerks and Mechanics Impressed by Age and Repute of Defendants.

OIL MAGNATE "GOT WHAT I DESERVED"

Bribery Charges Still Pending and Fall Faces Arraignment With Sinclair Tomorrow.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A verdict of acquittal was returned by the jury today in the case of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and Edward L. Doheny, millionaire oil magnate, who were charged with having criminally conspired to defraud the United States in the lease which Fall secretly gave Doheny on the Elk Hills (Cal.) naval oil reserve in 1922.

The youthful jury, composed almost entirely of clerks and mechanics, containing not one man who could even be called well-to-do, filed smilingly into the jury box at 9:07 a. m. (St. Louis time) after having been out since 1:59 p. m., yesterday—a total of 19 hours 17 minutes.

While the jurors asserted afterward that they had entered a compact not to disclose what happened in the jury room, the report was current among court attaches that the jury stood 9 to 3 for acquittal on the first ballot. At one time it stood 6 to 6, but when the jury retired late last night the vote was 10 to 2 for acquittal. The remaining two were won over at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Doheny Impressed the Jurors.

The advanced age of the defendants (Doheny is 70 and Fall is 65), the excellent impression made by Doheny on the witness stand, the exalted reputations previously borne by both men, and the testimony of former Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby, who took full responsibility for the lease, were reported to have been the deciding factors with the jury.

A long afternoon and an interminable evening of suspense had frayed the nerves of everyone connected with the case, and there were times when Fall seemed on the verge of collapse. Doheny was perhaps the coolest man who paced the long marble corridors while the sluggish hours dragged painfully on.

Haggard faces and red-rimmed eyes showed this morning that there had been little rest last night for any of those vitally concerned. Fall was gray-faced and feeble; Doheny's eyes were bloodshot; defense counsel were worried, and the strain of waiting was upon the faces of the large circle of women whose ties of blood and family center around these two old men.

Report Decision Is Reached.

Several minutes before the hour for Court to reconvene, the report circulated through the corridors, and spread over the courtroom that a verdict had been reached. Frank J. Hogan and Wilton Lambert, defense attorneys, whispered together and smiled.

Doheny and Fall sat inside the enclosure, with their backs to the railing, one chair removed from each other. Fall was trembling violently from head to foot. Even the hardy little oil magnate moistened his lips and stared hard toward the door through which the jury would enter. Back of them, and to their right, occupying two front benches in the courtroom were the women, whose fashionable gowns, fur coats and jewels could not mask the concern which possessed them.

Among them were Mrs. Fall, angular woman from the New Mexican mesa country; her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Chase, a replica of her mother; Mrs. Edward L. Doheny Jr.; Hogan's wife and daughter, Mrs. Edward McLean, wife of the owner of the Washington Post, and others of more remote connection.

The sly smile upon hte faces of the jurors as they swung briskly

FREED OF KILLING BUT CONVICTED ON LARCENY CHARGE

William Borman Gets 2 Years in Prison for Theft in Which Detective Benz Was Shot Down.

JUROR SAYS VERDICT WAS A COMPROMISE

Motion for New Trial Filed—Defendant Pleaded Loot Was "Planted" in His Pockets by Police.

A two-year term in the penitentiary is the punishment fixed by a jury for William Borman, who admitted, after his arrest two years ago, that he committed the burglary which resulted in the killing of Special Policeman Fred W Benz. He did not admit shooting Benz, and was acquitted last year of a first-degree murder charge.

Borman's trial for burglary and larceny ended yesterday afternoon after a jury wrangle, in a verdict acquitting him of burglary, but convicting him of larceny and fixing the two-year term The State had asked the maximum term for burglary and larceny, 15 years

Articles stolen from the house at 1424 Amherst terrace were found in Borman's overcoat pocket after he was shot, in a pursuit which began with the fatal shooting of Benz. Members of the jury said their verdict was a compromise, seven of the jurors having favored acquittal.

Said Evidence Was "Planted."

In the murder trial, Borman's lawyer, Verne Lacy, succeeded in overcoming the evidence as to the finding of the stolen articles, by arguing that police must have "planted" them to make a case He made the same plea yesterday, and dwelt on Borman's testimony that he was not only shot in the stomach, but stunned by a spent bullet which he said struck his head This, the lawyer argued, gave police an opportunity to "plant" the stolen articles. How police might have obtained the articles he did not indicate.

Lacy did not file a motion for a new trial after announcement of the verdict. Such motions often are filed immediately. If a new trial were granted, another jury might give Borman more than two years. There is still time for such a motion.

D. E. Klyce of 4968 Cote Brilliante avenue, foreman of the jury, said that, while a majority favored acquittal, the argument finally prevailed that the state should not be required to try the case again and that Borman should have some punishment. This was the ground for the compromise verdict

Circumstances of Crime.

Five policemen surrounded the Amherst terrace house the night of Nov. 22, 1924, after the occupant reported that a burglar was there. A man jumped out of one of the windows, struggled with Benz and shot him, inflicting a wound from which Benz died The man ran into an alley, was pursued and fired on and fell seriously wounded. At City Hospital, Borman admitted the burglary, saying it was his first. Later he denied the burglary and in his murder trial he testified that he was on his way home from Saturday night confession in a neighboring Catholic church.

In the recent trial, the state was prepared to prove that Borman was not a Catholic. He said nothing, this time, about having been at church, but said he was walking in the alley, on his way home, when a fleeing man dashed past him, and a policeman shot him One of the points argued by Lacy in his appeal to the jury, was that the state did not disprove Borman's statement that another man ran out of the alley.

WEDDING ENDS LONG PURSUIT

Attache of Spanish Embassy and Virginia Girl Married at Peoria.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Dec. 16.—The end of a journey half way across the continent ended at the altar here today with the marriage of Gustavo de Medino, said to be an attache of the Spanish Embassy, and Dorothy Brumback, 21 years old, of Cherrydale, Arlington County, Virginia.

It was said parents of the girl opposed the marriage and to stop the courtship removed the girl from Washington, D. C., where De Medino is employed. A trip westward was arranged to her sister's home here, but he followed the girl to St. Louis and thence to Peoria.

Survivors in Mexican Land War

Smith Appointed; Senate Fight to Bar Him Is Begun

diana asked whether he thought it was in order to bring up the matter before Smith presented his credentials.

"I think it is fairer to Mr. Smith to make the objection now," replied Ashurst.

Ashurst said that he would move consideration of the resolution tomorrow. Later he asked that unanimous consent be granted for its immediate consideration. The request failed when Curtis objected.

"Let the resolution go over under the rule," he said.

Ashurst read to the Senate a prepared statement reciting the main features of the evidence taken by the Reed committee in Illinois.

Rehearses Illinois Evidence.

This evidence showed that of a total of $253,000 known to have been expended in the Republican primary on behalf of Smith, and with Smith's knowledge and consent, $125,000 was contributed by Samuel Insull, over whose large public utility enterprises Smith had a general jurisdiction as chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The Ashurst statement, quoting from the evidence before the Reed committee, set out that Insull was responsible for and was the manager of an investment in public utilities totaling $650,000,000. The statement named a number of the Insull properties, including the Commonwealth Edison Co., People's Gas, Light and Coke Co., Chicago Rapid Transit Co., Central Illinois Public Service Co., Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois, and Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee Railroad.

Ashurst pointed out that the expenditure of $253,000 for Smith was made in the face of the Senate's warning in the Newberry resolution, which condemned the expenditure of a lesser amount, $195,000, "as harmful to the honor and dignity of the Senate and dangerous to the perpetuity of free government."

The statement declared that the testimony of Smith, Insull and Allen F. Moore, Smith's campaign manager, before the Reed committee was in some instance "evasive and disingenuous."

Declares Senate Has Power.

Ashurst contended that the question that the Supreme Court did not pass upon the right of Congress to control primary elections was not pertinent to the present case. The Senate, he said, is not attempting to enforce a penal statute but is attempting to employ its constitutional and inherent power to keep itself clean.

"The United States Senate has plenary power to protect the purity of the elections whereat its members are to be chosen by refusing membership in the Senate to whosoever willfully and knowingly countenances and permits bribery, corruption or fraud, or who knowingly and willfully permits and countenances the expenditure of excessive sums of money to promote the candidacy of the person claiming membership in the Senate," the Senator said.

"The Senate is the sole judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and the Senate has the power to exclude from its membership any person whose election or processes of whose election or appointment may be vitiated by fraud, corruption, or by the expenditures of excessive sums of money."

Reed Report Submitted.

The report of the Reed committee, submitted to the Senate this afternoon, is in effect a digest of the hearings on the Illinois primary.

The committee arrived at a grand total expenditure in the Illinois primary of $993,766, all of which with the exception of $18,000 collected for George Brennan was on the Republican side.

The expenditures for the late Senator McKinley, who was defeated by Smith in the Republican primary, were estimated at $514,143, of which McKinley himself gave $350,000.

McKinley kept no itemized account of expenditures, and the committee's figures were derived from the testimony of Henry I Green of Urbana, the general State manager of his campaign.

The direct Smith expenditures were placed at $253 547, to which the committee added in arriving at its total $33,735 contributed by Insull for "anti-world court propaganda" and an estimate expenditure of $171,500 by the Crowe-Barrett faction in Cook County.

Gov. Small Explains Appointment as Will of People of Illinois.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 16.—Frank L. Smith, United States Senator-elect from Illinois, early today was appointed by Gov. Small to the Senate seat made vacant by the death of Senator William B McKinley

In announcing the appointment of Smith to serve out McKinley's un-expired term, Small said he was acting in response to an expression of the people of Illinois at the polls in November, declaring that "the large vote cast for Smith shows conclusively that he is the choice of the voters for Senator" Smith defeated McKinley in the last primary when McKinley was seeking the nomination to succeed himself

"At the general election Nov. 2," Gov. Small said, "after an exhaustive public campaign, the people of Illinois chose Frank L. Smith by a decisive vote for United States Senator. In the six weeks that have elapsed since that date not a charge of suspicion or undue influence of corruption at that election has been made. It was a fair and general election The large vote cast for Smith shows conslusively that he is the choice of the voters of this State, and in obedience to that expression I appointed him for the unexpired term of the late William B. McKinley."

Smith declined to say what his action would be when told that the Governor had announced his appointment.

State Auditor Favors Road Bonds.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 16.—State Auditor L. D. Thompson, in an address last night from the State radio station WOS, urged the submission and passage of the proposed $100,000,000 bond issue to complete the State highway system. The State Auditor said the bonds should be issued, instead of doubling the 2-cent State gasoline tax and the State automobile license fees.

ROSALIE EVANS' SISTER KEEPS UP FIGHT IN MEXICO

Mrs. Daisy C. Pettus Visiting St. Louis Enlists State Department Aid to Hold Property.

Mrs. Daisy C. Pettus of Charleston, W. Va., who inherited the 3000-acre hacienda in the State of Puebla, which Rosalie Evans protected from seizure by the Mexican Government at the cost of her life, is in St. Louis as the guest of her niece, Mrs. Claxton E. Allen, of 4915 Argyle place.

It is recalled that Rosalie Evans, after defying the Mexican Government over a period of six years, was assassinated by Indians Aug. 2, 1924. At the time her death caused wide comment in the United States and the publication this year of "The Rosalie C. Evans Letters From Mexico" revealed Mrs. Evans as an intrepid, courageous woman who fought order after order for the seizure of her land, engaged in pitched battles with armed forces and eventually was shot down from ambush.

Irrigation Water Cut Off.

Mrs. Pettus said today that in the two years succeeding her sister's death, she has planted the hacienda, but as yet has not been able to harvest a crop. One year there was a boycott—the withdrawal of the farm hands. The next year, the irrigating water essential to the crops was withdrawn.

However, she has persuaded the American State Department to recognize American ownership of the land and the department is in negotiation with the Mexican Government. Mrs. Evans, as the widow of a British subject, was compelled to make her fight through English diplomatic channels.

Mrs. Pettus said today an offer of payment for the hacienda by the Mexican Government had been revealed to be in bad faith because the refusal of the Government to pay in gold, the payment offered being in agrarian bonds of no value. She said that she was determined to continue the fight as an inspiration to other small American property owners, most of whom surrendered their lands under orders, such as Rosalie Evans resisted.

With Mrs. Pettus is Modesta Calderon, Mrs. Evans' Indian maid, who, when Mrs. Evans was besieged in her hacienda by armed men, made her way through their lines on foot 12 miles and thence to carry word of the danger of her mistress to the nearest British representative. Mrs. Pettus also has Mrs. Evans' two dogs which were with her when she was killed—Ginger, a terrier, and Brunhilde, a Belgian police dog.

Dog to the Rescue.

It is related of Brunhilde that when the fusillade from the roadside—100 shots or more—was poured into the buggy in which Mrs. Evans was riding, killing her, wounding her German foreman and felling one of the mules, that Brunhilde bit the wounded mule until it arose and, with its mate, carried the buggy out of range of further shooting. Then, when Indian villagers gathered about the buggy, Brunhilde stood guard and kept off all persons for an hour until Modesta, the maid, was summoned to quiet her.

Fall and Doheny Acquitted of Oil Conspiracy

through the door indicated plainly what the verdict would be. They did not wear that grim, unseeing mask which jurors put on when they have resolved upon a verdict which will bring great pain to those in the courtroom.

Justice Adolph Hoehling, the black-robed, austere and impartial figure who had presided over the trial, wanted it over with as quickly as possible.

"Gentlemen, have you reached a verdict?" he asked. "We have," replied the foreman.

Justice Hoehling addressed the courtroom generally, saying: "I trust that you will all do now, what you have done so well throughout this trial—preserve the dignity and order of the court while the jury announces its verdict."

Defendants Ordered to Rise.

"The two defendants will please rise," he continued.

"What is your verdict in the case of Edward L. Doheny?" Justice Hoehling asked the jury. "Not guilty in case of Edward L. Doheny," was the reply, the words tumbling one another, as the foreman's voice rose nervously, and with a slight defiant accent.

From the group of women on the right side of the room there was a choking sob from Mrs. Edward L. Doheny Jr., then a low, swelling wave of screams struggling for utterance, but muffled by handkerchiefs.

It seemed that it would explode in a moment into some terrific outburst, and Justice Hoehling hurriedly asked: "What is your verdict in the case of Albert B. Fall?" "Not guilty in the case of Albert B. Fall," the foreman fairly shouted.

The exclamations, sobs and other expressions of joy and relief from the women's benches almost drowned out the words of the Justice as he concluded: "Gentlemen of the jury, the Court thanks you for your services. The defendants are discharged. The Court is adjourned."

Fall and Doheny Shake Hands.

Before his last words were out Doheny and Fall, standing there in the middle of the scene, turned somewhat uncertainly to each other and hsook hands. Young Doheny ran from the courtroom to a telephone wire, on the other end of which his mother was waiting at their hotel.

The dark and determined face of Owen J. Roberts, special prosecutor who had battled tremendously for a conviction, was grim, and acid. The dark eyes of his colleague, Atlee Pomerene, swept the youthful faces before him with one flashing look.

Fall was still in an obvious daze.

"A statement," he repeated, uncertainly, as the reporters gathered around him. "What can I say?" The tears stood in his eyes. "I said a long time ago," he quavered, plainly endeavoring to bring back to his mind what he had planned to say in this event. "I said a long time ago that the truth would finally be vindicated. I asked the world to withhold its judgment until the facts had been fairly tried in a court of justice. I knew that my day in court would come some time. I have had it now and I am satisfied."

"And you can say for me," he added, "that the jury system is the greatest thing in America."

"Terrible Ordeal," Says Doheny.

Doheny said he was gratified, but that "the ordeal has been a terrible one."

"After a lifetime of honorable effort, I have seen my principal work, which was to make a good name to hand to my son and my grandchildren, almost destroyed," he said. "I hope that the American people, whose belief in trial by jury amounts almost to a religion, will accept the verdict of this typically American jury."

As Doheny entered his car he paused to say to those about him: "I got just what I expected, and just what I deserved."

From her sick room at the Carleton Hotel, Mrs. Doheny sent word to defense counsel that her joy was "inexpressible." "My prayers have been answered," said her message.

Doheny Holds Reception.

Doheny, smiling slightly under his white mustache, and Hogan, smiling broadly at every one, were the center of a jubilant reception held in the middle of the courtroom after the abrupt adjournment.

Fall seemed somewhat out of it. Nor could he join in the wholehearted elation of the Doheny retinue, for he must still face trial with Sinclair. Moreover, he had failed to take the stand in his own defense in this case, and the only testimony given in his behalf was by two character witnesses.

There was not much disposition anywhere to doubt that Hogan and Doheny had carried Fall through. The Court had instructed the jury that the verdict must be the same in the cases of both men, as there could be no conspiracy by one without the other.

Roberts, large, grim and determined, and Pomerene, older and frankly disgusted, stood at one side in the center of a little circle of reporters while the chatting, laughing, handshaking, backslapping concourse of defense principals, participants and friends moved slowly and galy out of the courtroom.

Jurors Won't Talk to Reporters.

At the Marshal's office the youthful clerks and mechanics who had decided the fate of a former Cabinet officer and one of the world's richest men, gathered up their scanty belongings. When the Washington correspondents of a dozen great newspapers approached they said importantly: "Don't bother us; we have decided to give out nothing to the press."

For fully 10 minutes Fall and Doheny posed in the snow on the front steps of the marble courthouse, while the news reel cameras ground, and the "still" photographers took snap shots. Gayly they shook hands by request while the cranks turned and when tardy cameramen came running up, repeted the handshaking two or three times. They faced the sun, faced each other, posed with hats on, and with hats off, and with their arms around their lawyers.

Above them on the top step stood the women of the Fall and Doheny parties, and Hogan's stenographers, crying out fond and frivolous advice to the two old ex-prospectors. Then they tried a pose with Hogan between them, an arm around each. The spare figure of Fall, who wore a black broad-brimmed plainsman's hat, reared inches above the heads of the two diminutive Irishmen—Hogan, dapper and trimm; Doheny, stubby and thick.

Lincoln Turns His Back.

The human figures were small and commonplace against the background formed by the stately colonnade of the courthouse. In the plaza, upon which it faces, Abraham Lincoln stood in marble, with his back upon the scene and the stone features were bent inscrutably upon Capitol Hill, where the great dome gleamed under the morning sun.

Fall Third Cabinet Man Tried.

So far as lawyers could recall, in American history, only three ex-Cabinet members have stood trial for crimes alleged to have been committed while officers of the Government. Two of them, Fall and former Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty, were members of the Cabinet of President Harding, and their trials took place within a space of a few months. There was mistrial in the Daugherty case.

They were also indicted jointly of bribery. That case is still pending, but probably will be dropped as the $100,000 transaction upon which it is based was the central evidence of corruption in the trial which ended today.

Fall also was indicted jointly with Sinclair, of conspiring to defraud the United States in the lease which Fall gave Sinclair on Teapot Dome. They will be arraigned tomorrow, in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in which Fall and Doheny were acquitted today.

Fall-Sinclair Trial Jan. 15.

The Fall-Sinclair trial is scheduled to start about Jan. 15. In addition, there is pending against Sinclair a criminal charge of contempt, preferred by the Senate, because of his refusal to answer questions propounded by Senator Walsh before the Public Lands Committee.

It is significant to observe that the civil suit of the Government to recover the Elk Hills reserve was successful in the lower and Appellate courts, which upheld the contention that the lease was obtained by fraud, and ordered Doheny to turn it back and to make an accounting for the oil he had taken from it.

The issues and evidence in that suit were precisely the same as those in the case which ended today. But it was heard and decided by Judges, not by a jury.

While the lower court returned a verdict for Sinclair in the civil suit to recover Teapot Dome, it was reversed by the Court of Appeals in sitting at St. Louis, and the lease was pronounced fraudulent.

Both the civil suits are now pending in the Supreme Court of the United States.

Walsh Is Sure Widespread Doubt of Deal Isn't Dissipated.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Senator Walsh of Montana, prosecutor of the Senate oil inquiry which led to the conspiracy charges against former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, put into one sentence today his mental reaction to the verdict of acquittal.

"Proof in a criminal case must show guilt of the defendant beyond a reasonable doubt," he said "and in view of that rule, I apprehend that the wide spread conviction that the transaction was a reprehensible one will not be dissipated."

On the Senate floor this afternoon, Senator Heflin (Dem.) of Alabama, assailed the verdict as "an insult to justice."

Recalling that the jury disagreed in the recent conspiracy trial of former Attorney-General Daugherty in New York, Heflin asked whether the "country has reached the point where ciminals in high places can't be touched?"

"If this nation is to be peserved there has got to be a political revolution," he continued. "Robbery, thievery and murder must be lashed out. When they pollute and corrupt the jury box and ballot box, your government is gone."

Heflin declared the case should not have been tried by a Judge appointed by the same administration which was served by Fall as cabinet member.

"It's the first time I ever heard of jurors merrily going about their work and singing as they turn loose two of the most high-handed highwaymen ever at large," said the Alabaman. "As soon as the defense announced it was ready for trial I had the conviction that must know that it was going to be an acquittal or mistrial."

"Worst Thing Since Runnymede," Says Josephus Daniels.

By the Associated Press.

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 16.—The verdict of the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial was described today by Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, as the "worst thing that has happened to free people since Runnymede." He declared all the efforts he had made during his service as Secretary of the Navy and those of others had been sacrificed by the oil-leasing policies of the administration which followed.

"What I would have to say of the Fall-Doheny verdict of not guilty would have to be printed on asbestos, as it would burn up a newspaper," he said. "It is the worst thing that has happened to free people since Runnymede."

$5000 FIRE IN COLLEGE DORMITORY IN KIRKWOOD

A fire, thought to have been caused by defective wiring, which started in the attic of Eagle's Nest, a three-story dormitory building of Lenox Hall, Woodlawn avenue near Adams street, Kirkwood, at [illegible] a. m. yesterday damaged the building to the extent of $5000.

The 10 girl students who occupy the building were in class at the time. They assisted firemen in recovering their personal effects and 500 volumes of the school library. The damage by fire was confined to the attic and third floor, the lower floors being slightly damaged by water. The cold weather which turned the water to an icy coating upon the building deterred the firemen to some extent. A passerby who noted the smoke pouring from the windows turned in the alarm.

SWEARS ACCUSED MAN WATCHED EDITOR AT WORK

McDermott Called to See Mellett the Day Before Murder, State Witness Testifies at Trial.

ALSO SAW HIM AT POLICE STATION

Declares Two Men Accused of Killing Canton, Ohio, Publisher Were in Front of Headquarters.

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, O., Dec. 16.—O. E. Crouse, Canton Sinking Fund Trustee, testified today in the trial of Patrick Eugene McDermott, charged with the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, that he saw McDermott and Ben Rudner, also charged with the murder, in front of Canton Police Headquarters the Sunday night preceding the murder.

Charles Gaston, circulation manager of the Canton Daily News, testified that McDermott, on the afternoon of July 15, the day before the murder, came to his office and said he wanted to see Mr. Mellett.

"I told him Mr. Mellett was in the business office," Gaston testified. "He left and I followed him to the business office, where he stopped in front of a big window and watched Mr. Mellett for about half a minute. Then he left."

"Now, Mr. Gaston, your circulation was increasing at that time, wasn't it?" E. L. Mills, defense attorney, asked on cross-examination. "Well, it began to pick up about the first part of the year."

"It was increasing because of attacks on individuals in the city, wasn't it?" "No, we had been making an intensive drive."

"Weren't there a lot of people coming to your office asking for Mr. Mellett, who were offended by newspaper articles appearing in your newspaper?" "No."

Waitress Disappointing Witness.

Peggy Cavanaugh, a waitress, proved a disappointing witness. She gave vague answers to questions of Prosecutor McClintock when he brought up the subject of "Pat's trip to Massillon, O., a week after the slaying," when the defendant was alleged to have received money from the "pay-off" man who plotted the murder. This "pay-off" man the State charges, is Rudner.

Miss Cavanaugh admitted accompanying McDermott on that trip, but with that her testimony was limited to "I don't know," and "I don't remember."

She testified that when they reached Massillon, McDermott stopped at a store "to see a friend," but she didn't know which store it was or who the friend was. When he returned to their automobile he had a $10 bill in his hand, she said.

Frank Woods of Massillon, told of having a conversation with Ben Rudner, several days after the murder, in which Rudner told him he expected "to be framed in this case."

Knocked Detective Down.

Woods said Rudner told him he was going to be framed because he and Burton (Detective H. F. Burton of Columbus) had had words in front of the Canton police headquarters and he had knocked Burton down.

John Van Allman testified that a man under the name of Charles Thompson roomed at his house in July and left on a Friday. Mellett was killed shortly after midnight on the morning of Friday, July 16. He identified McDermott as "Charles Thompson." He said "Thompson" left without making his departure known. Vere Van Gunten corroborated Van Allman's story and also identified McDermott as "Thompson."

Witness Swears McDermott Held Police in Contempt.

Over the objection of defense counsel, the State introduced yesterday its first testimony tending to show that members of the Canton Police Department were in league with the underworld which is alleged to have plotted the murder of Mellett.

William Bitzler, a "surprise witness," took the stand to detail movements of McDermott four days prior to the shooting, and testified that McDermott boasted of his contempt for the Police Department.

Two days before the killing McDermott said he attended a party with prominent Canton men and boasted he could do anything he liked without fear of police interference, Bitzler testified. The witness told of drinking parties with McDermott, but said that on the night Mellett was slain McDermott refused to join him because he said he "had a job to do."

Bitzler's testimony took McDermott to Massillon, O., a few hours before Mellett was shot down, and he said McDermott returned with money which he got from a friend.

Waitress Disappointing Witness.

Peggy Cavanaugh, a waitress, proved a disappointing witness. She gave vague answers to questions of Prosecutor McClintock when he brought up the subject of "Pat's trip to Massillon, O., a week after the slaying," when the defendant is alleged to have received money from the "pay-off" man who plotted the murder. This "pay-off" man the State charges, is Rudner.

Miss Cavanaugh admitted accompanying McDermott on that trip, but with that her testimony was limited to "I don't know," and "I don't remember."

She testified that when they reached Massillon, McDermott stopped at a store "to see a friend," but she didn't know which store it was or who the friend was. When he returned to their automobile he had a $10 bill in his hand, she said.

Frank Woods of Massillon, told of having a conversation with Ben Rudner, several days after the murder, in which Rudner told him he expected "to be framed in this case."

Knocked Detective Down.

Woods said Rudner told him he was going to be framed because he and Burton (Detective H. F. Burton of Columbus) had had words in front of the Canton police headquarters and he had knocked Burton down.

John Van Allman testified that a man under the name of Charles Thompson roomed at his house in July and left on a Friday. Mellett was killed shortly after midnight on the morning of Friday, July 16. He identified McDermott as "Charles Thompson." He said "Thompson" left without making his departure known. Vere Van nten corroborated Van Allman's story and also identified McDermott as "Thompson."

Witness Swears McDermott Held Police in Contempt.

Over the objection of defense counsel, the State introduced yesterday its first testimony tending to show that members of the Canton Police Department were in league with the underworld which is alleged to have plotted the murder of Mellett.

William Bitzler, a "surprise witness," took the stand to detail movements of McDermott four days prior to the shooting, and testified that McDermott boasted of his contempt for the Police Department.

Two days before the killing, McDermott said he attended a party with prominent Canton men and boasted he could do anything he liked without fear of police interference, Bitzler testified. The witness told of drinking parties with McDermott, but said that on the night Mellett was slain McDermott refused to join him because he said he "had a job to do."

Bitzler's testimony took McDermott to Massillon, O., a few hours before Mellett was shot down, and he said McDermott returned with money which he got from a friend.

Editor's Widow on the Stand

MRS. DON R. MELLET, wife of the murdered editor of the Canton (Ohio) Daily News, testifying in the trial of his alleged slayers.

Louis Mazer, Massillon hardware merchant and alleged "pay-off" man in the killing, is a co-defendant with McDermott.

McDermott Carried Revolver.

Bitzler also testified McDermott carried a revolver constantly, and he said he would have a lot of money July 17.

M. A. Robinson, ballistic expert, testified that in his opinion two revolvers were used in the shooting, contrary to previous theories that three were used. After examination of bullets found at the garage door where Mellett was killed, and a bullet taken from the editor's skull, Robinson said the weapons used were 38 calibre but he was unable to distinguish their type.

Thelma Davis of Cleveland and Homer J. Connelly testified concerning McDermott's actions after Mellett was killed. The woman lived at a rooming house in Cleveland at which McDermott stopped until July 24, when he made a second trip to Massillon. Connelly testified he accompanied McDermott on that trip.

Changed Testimony.

The transcript of Thelma Davis' grand jury testimony, introduction of which prompted her to shift to the defense, showed she had declared: "Pat was very, very nervous" between July 16 and July 24, when she observed him in Cleveland from day to day. July 16 was the murder day; July 24, the day of his disappearance. Mrs. Davis was reluctant to admit she had testified, but finally assented.

On cross-examination, Homer Durand, defense attorney, shouted: "Mrs. Davis, how many police officers and prosecutors kept telling you or asking you if 'Pat' was nervous before you finally admitted that?" The state's objection was overruled and she answered, "Quite a few."

"Now that you've had time to reflect, would you say he was or was not nervous?" "He was not."

Assassination Attributed to Underworld Plotters.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CANTON, O., Dec. 16.—Don R. Mellett, 34 years old, publisher of the Canton Daily News, was shot to death at the door of his garage early the morning of July 16. Authorities have attributed his assassination to the plotting of the underworld, which had been kept in a turmoil for the nine months Mellett was at the helm of the News. By reason of a constant war the editor had waged on bootleggers, drug peddlers and other law violators through the editorial and news columns of his paper Mellett had incurred the enmity of certain members of the Police Department he charged were in league with the underworld of Canton. What truth, if any, there was to this charge was not brought out, but it served to add fuel to his crusade.

Mellett was responsible, through political influence, for having charges filed against S. A. Lengel, which led to Lengel's removal as Chief of the Police Department, but not until after the editor's murder.

Repeated warnings had been served on Mellett by underworld figures. These the editor ignored. The Sunday night before his murder, he received a call from a man who termed himself "an enemy of your enemies." Following this warning, Mellett permitted a guard to be stationed about his home for a few nights. This guard was withdrawn the day before Mellett was felled by a bullet in the head as he was leaving the garage. Offers of a $27,000 reward were said to have led Steve Kascholk to turn informer against Patrick McDermott, Ben Rudner and Louis Mazer and on the strength largely of his testimony first degree murder indictments were returned against the trio. McDermott was arrested after a three-month search. The other two were taken into custody at their homes here. McDermott and Rudner served time in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta together. Mazer was known as one of the city's bootleggers and is now under indictment by Federal grand jury on a liquor conspiracy charge.

HERBERT WEBB DIES IN SHANGHAI, CHINA

Former St. Louis Newspaper Man Also Had Been Connected With Chicago Papers.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 16.—Herbert Webb of St. Louis, formerly connected with St. Louis and Chicago newspapers, died here today. At one time Webb was editor of the China Press, a Shanghai newspaper.

Webb is the son of Charles R. Webb, 5110 Page boulevard, a member of the staff of the Globe-Democrat. He comes from a family that has long been identified with newspaper work. His half-brother, John Webb, formerly was sports editor of the St. Louis Star. Another half-brother, Frank, is connected with the New York Times, while Austin Webb, his youngest half-brother, was formerly a newspaper reporter. His stepmother, Mrs. Charles Webb, also has been in newspaper work. One full brother, A. G. Webb, lives in St. Louis.

Webb, who was 50 years old, began newspaper work in St. Louis at the age of 18, working for the Star. He then joined the staff of the St. Louis Republic. Eighteen years ago he went to Chicago, where he remained for three years, being employed as editor of the Sunday Examiner, before leaving for China, where he was employed as managing editor of the China Press.

Two years ago he sued the China Press for breach of contract in the Federal Court at Shanghai, receiving a judgment of $49,000. Since that time he was engaged in various capacities in China.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Minnie Webb, of Oakland, Cal., and 18-year-old twin daughters. His mother was Mrs. Margaret Sample Webb.

Canada's Minister Due in January.

OTTAWA, Dec. 16.—Vincent Massey, Canada's first Minister to the United States, is expected to begin his duties in Washington late in January. He has been in Ottawa for several days arranging with the Government details for the Washington legation.

DEFENSE ENDS ARGUMENTS IN BREWERY TRIAL

Six Attorneys Attack Evidence by Government in Addresses to Jury in East St. Louis.

The New Athens Brewery case, in which 14 men and the Probst Pure Food Products Co. are jointly charged with conspiracy to violate the Volstead act, will go to the jury in Federal Court at East St. Louis this afternoon, after five hours of argument by opposing counsel.

During the day, six attorneys for the various defendants, took turns addressing the jury. Their principal plea was that, while evidence showed that brewery beer was made and sold, there was no evidence to indicate a conspiracy in the meaning of the law.

The chief defense attorney, Patrick H. Cullen, laid aside technicalities and urged the jury to think of the Christmas holidays and of "these men of good reputation who wanted to spend Christmas at home." He insisted that there was nothing incriminating in the evidence that Benjamin and George C. Probst, well-to-do brothers, who inherited the brewery from their father, had communicated by telephone with Belleville saloon keepers and operated a creamery and ice plant in the brewery building.

Seven Defendants Freed.

Cullen argued that the Government had sought to imply that the Probsts were the owners and operators of the plant, disregarding a charge in the indictment that they had sold it to Ray Stevenson, an East St. Louis bootlegger, who was killed in an accident last January.

District Attorney Baker, a young man with his first important case, maintained his evidence proved that the Probst plant produced beer during March, April and May, last; that six saloon keepers, four brewery employes and a truck driver conspired in the manufacture and distribution, and, particularly, that the Probst brothers were the "big men behind the brewery."

Originally there were 23 defendants, but at noon yesterday, when the Government rested its case, seven were released. The Government withdrew as to three women, relatives of saloon keeper-defendants, and Chester Calvert, whose purported signature appeared on the incorporation papers of the Probst Co.—admitting the evidence was insufficient. Demurrers were upheld by Judge Lindley as to Henry Saul and Harold Jokisch, Belleville bartenders, and Julius Koehn, one of five men arrested in the brewery raid June 2, last.

Brewery Operated 3 Months.

Other dismissals are expected when arguments are completed, and the jury will decide only on the guilt or innocence of the remaining defendants. If found guilty, Judge Lindley will fix the punishment, the maximum permitted under law being a two-year penitentiary sentence and a $10,000 fine.

The defendants who sat through the arguments today were the Probst brothers; six saloon keepers—Ervin J. Gintz, Hobart Miller, Edward Anthony Julius and Philip Wolf; a truck driver, Arthur Gass; four brewery employes, William Schreiber, William Haub, Harry Woellenkotter, and Isaac Probst; and a second alleged signer of the incorporation papers, Ben Turcott.

The Government has introduced evidence to show that the brewery operated eght hours a day for three months; that beer was sold in half-barrels at $25 each, wholesale; and that it was retailed at from 25 to 50 cents a glass. It offered no evidence as to the quantity produced or the money received by the brewery, and opinion varied as to the quality of the brew.

Two Defendants Testify.

The defense testimony lasted but little more than two hours. Only two defendants—Anthony and Philip Wolf—took the stand. Inasmuch as they are now serving nine-month jail terms for sale and possession of liquor, they freely admitted that their saloons dealt in whisky and home brew. But they denied know anything about "New Athens beer" or the operation of the Probst plant.

Several business men and bankers of New Athens, East St. Louis and St. Louis appeared as character witnesses for the Probst brothers, denying on cross-examination that they knew Benjamin Probst had difficulties with the Government about the brewery in 1924, or that George Probst had been indicted on a charge of false pretenses in a real estate transaction in Franklin County.

An East St. Louis bank cashier testified that the signature "Ben Turcott" which appeared on the incorporation papers was not that of the defendant.

Documents from the Recorder of Deeds' office at Belleville were introduced to show transfer of the brewery property by George Probst, as administrator of the Probst estate, to the Probst Pure Food Products Co. The brothers have denied any connection with the Probst company, admitting ownership, however, of a creamery and ice plant in the same building.

Opening Argument.

District Attorney Baker, in his argument, declared that Ben Probst's home was only 60 feet from the brewery, that his desk in the office of the Okaw Creamery Co. was only a few feet from the door of the brewery's rack room. He again exhibited checks which were seized in saloon raids showing payments by Gintz to "George C. Probst," Hobart Miller and others; a note book record of kegs received and returned which was found in Miller's saloon; and telephone company records of conversations between saloon keepers, the Probst brothers and the brewery office.

The defense has questioned the legality of the entire proceedings, contending that all the testimony is predicated on a search without warrant, and that the prohibition agents had no right to seize canceled checks, notebooks and ohter papers when raiding under liquor search warrants. Judge Lindley has ruled that such papers cannot be considered as evidence against the owner of a saloon where they were seized, but has sustained the Government on other points.

Anticipating conviction for at least some of the men, defense counesl yesterday began the preparation of appeal papers in order that prompt application for appeal bonds can be made should jail or prison sentences be imposed. Federal agents have admitted they raided the brewery without a search warrant, explaining they were justified by a strong odor of beer and the necessity for quick action. A warrant was issued in East St. Louis the day after the raid.

CAUTIONARY LISTS OF POINTS FOR AVOIDING CHRISTMAS TREE FIRES

FIRE CHIEF ALT today issued his annual warning against Christmas fires, with a cautionary list of points to be watched by householders in avoiding Christmas blazes.

Electric lights, not tallow candles, should be used on trees and in window displays.

Christmas trees should be set up securely, as far from a fire as possible.

Metal tinsel, flake asbestos or powdered mica, not cotton or paper clippings, should be used for snow. Smokers should stay away from Christmas trees, and Santa Claus, if he is there, should wear fireproof whiskers. All evergreens should be removed from homes as soon after the Christmas celebration as possible.

In case of fire, Chief Alt said, the best way to smother the fire is with a floor rug. If someone's clothing catches fire, he should be rolled in the rug or in a woolen blanket.

DIES 24 HOURS AFTER DEATH OF HIS WIFE

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Brockman, Married 45 Years, to Be Buried Together.

When Mrs. Phillip Brockman, 3418 California avenue, died Tuesday after a year's illness from heart trouble, her husband ill in the same bed, turned his face to the wall, saying: "I'm ready to go now, too." Yesterday he died from pneumonia and tomorrow after 45 years of married life, during which time they became the parents of the six children, Mr. and Mrs. Brockman will be buried together in Valhalla Cemetery.

Mrs. Brockman was a native of St. Louis, while Brockman was born in Washington, Mo. Relatives said today that they were uncertain of Mr. and Mrs. Brockman's exact ages, but thought that Mr. Brockman was about 70 years old, and his wife, 68. They were married in St. Louis.

Only one of their six children survive. She is Mrs. Ruth Hansen. Miss Annie J. Byrns, sister of Mrs. Brockman, and Mrs. Louise Kuemerlo, sister of Brockman, also survive.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Frances De Sale's Catholic Church for Mrs. Brockman. After the services her body will be returned to an undertaking parlor at 2906 Gravois avenue, where Masonic services will be held for her husband, previous to their burial at Valhalla.

POST-DISPATCH 'AD' RECOVERS $500 PIN LOST LAST OCTOBER

Driver Repairing Auto Near Fairmount Track Finds Mrs. J. Silberman's Ornament.

Louis Smith, 1015 Grand View place, got out and got under when his automobile broke down Saturday on Collinsville road near the Fairmount race track. His eyes chanced to stray from the mechanism and he saw a diamond circle pin partly buried in the mud beside the road.

It was a lost article, no doubt, so Smith, upon his return to St. Louis, consulted lost-and-found advertisements in the newspapers, checking back for several weeks. Finally he found an advertisement in the Post-Dispatch by Mrs. J. Silberman, 4616 Lindell boulevard, for a diamond circle pin lost near Fairmount track last October.

Smith telephoned Mrs. Silberman and her description of the pin, valued at $500, fitted the one he had found. The pin was returned to her Tuesday.

GIRL BANK ROBBER FACES ARSON CHARGE

Accused of Starting Fire to Distract Attention So She Could Commit Another Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 16.—Charged with arson, in addition to the robbery of the Farmers' National Bank at Buda, Tex., Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers today was at liberty under bonds totaling $7000.

Identified by Buda Bank employes as the young woman who robbed them of $1000 Saturday, Mrs. Rogers was arrested yesterday on a charge of setting fire to a vacant building at Roundrock last Friday as a ruse to attract attention of bankers there, so that she might rob that bank. Both towns are only a few miles from here.

Tom Nelson, president of the Farmers' State Bank at Roundrock, told officers a woman closely resembling Mrs. Rogers visited his bank several times last week and asked many questions as to how the business was conducted. She returned Friday and inquired as to what they did in case of fire.

A short time later she entered the bank and shouted, "Fire!" Nelson said the employes were suspicious, and paid no attention to her alarm, and she left. They then discovered a building near the bank was burning.

When Nelson was informed of the robbery at Buda, the next day, he gave police the number of the automobile used by the young woman at Roundrock and a description similar to that given by the Buda officials. Mrs. Rogers, arrested at her home here, told officers she robbed the bank "for a thrill."

Her arrest Saturday revealed that she was married to Otis Rogers, young Amarillo attorney, prior to their graduation from the University of Texas last June. Shortly after aiding in obtaining his wife's release on bond on the robbery charge, Rogers became ill and was unable to attend the hearing at Georgetown yesterday on the arson count, when she was freed, after posting a $2000 bond. She waived the right to a preliminary trial in both cases, and is scheduled to appear in District Court here in February to answer the robbery charge.

KILLEFER OFFERED HORNSBY'S PLACE AS CARDINAL BOSS

League meeting constitute the first tangible evidence that Breadon has been considering seriously a change in the management of the world's champion Cardinals.

Immediately after the world's series, Breadon departed for Florida where he spent a vacation of six weeks. During his stay there reports were current in St. Louis that there was a breach between Breadon and Hornsby but in view of the fact that Hornsby had led the Cardinals to the first St. Louis pennant in 38 years, it was considered certain that the two would get together and that Hornsby would retain the management of the team.

During the late stages of the pennant race friction developed between Hornsby and Breadon. Breadon declined to cancel exhibition games when the team was fighting its way down the stretch and that irritated Hornsby. Other points of disagreement arose, each small by itself, but piling up with other points of discord until relations between the owner and the manager were strained. Before the series the word was passed to the players that they were to have only two tickets each to the series and that nearly caused a strike. However, that order was changed and the players were told that they could have as many tickets as they needed for members of their families.

Conferred With Hornsby.

Another cause of friction was Hornsby's belief that Branch Rickey was interfering with his management. It was said that Rickey had told several players how they ought to bat and, though Rickey denied that he had ever interfered in any way, the wound was there.

While Breadon was in Florida there was a report that Hornsby was to be traded to New York. Breadon was called by long-distance telephone and he told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had no intention of trading Hornsby and that he fully expected Hornsby to manage the Cardinals again in 1927.

Shortly after his return from Florida, Breadon conferred with Hornsby and mutual guarantees were exchanged that the causes of the disagreement in 1926 would be eliminated. A few days later the two conferred again and the conference ended when Breadon offered Hornsby a contract for one year and Hornsby declined and asked for a three-year document.

Hornsby said he felt that his success as a manager warranted more than a one-year contract and Breadon said that he remembered lean years that the Cardinals had in the past and that he did not think it was good business to tie up the club to a contract calling for as much money as would be involved in a three-year contract at the salary that he expected to pay Hornsby. The subject of the amount of the salary was not raised, Breadon and Hornsby said after the conference. Breadon took Hornsby's request under advisement and he departed for New York for the National League meeting without seeing Hornsby again.

President Heydler Intervenes.

President John Heydler of the National League offered his good offices to bring about an agreement, but the results of his conference in New York with Breadon have not been disclosed.

Hornsby received $30,000 last year, under a player's contract, which was not changed after his appointment as manager on June 1, 1925. Hornsby said at that time that he had made good as a player, but not as a manager and that he did not want any increase in salary until he had shown whether he could deliver as a manager. When he took over the managerial reins the Cardinals were in eighth place. The team rallied and fought its way out of the cellar, finishing in fourth place.

Still no change was made in Hornsby's contract. On his appointment as manager Hornsby bought most of the stock then held by Branch Rickey, more than 1100 shares, paying approximately $50,000.

Last year, as all St. Louis knows, Hornsby led the Cardinals to a pennant, and then, under his leadership, the Cardinals defeated the Yankees in the world series.

St. Louis celebrated the pennant victory and the world series victory as such triumphs had never been celebrated before, and baseball fans could not believe that the man who had led the team to such a victory could possibly be slated for trade or demotion, and all rumors of that nature were treated lightly.

Denies Having Made Offer.

Breadon, when asked this morning if it was true that he had offered the management of the world champions to Killefer, said he had never made the offer. "Is it true that you asked Killefer if he would consider accepting the position as manager of the Cardinals?" Breadon was asked. "I do not care to discuss that," he replied. He said he still considered the position as manager as not open.

"It is up to Hornsby," Breadon added.

"I have not discussed the Hornsby case much during the baseball meeting and have not had a chance to give it much thought," he continued. "However, there is no truth in the reports that there is a trade being considered. I realize that Hornsby is a great asset and I still expect everything to be arranged to the satisfaction of all concerned."

MARY LOUISE SPAS SUES BROWNING FOR $500,000

Former Adopted Daughter Makes Charges Which Real Estate Man Calls Blackmail.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Edward W. Browning and Mary Louise Spas, his former "Cinderella Girl," came to public attention again last night when it was learned the girl has had the real estate man served with a summons and complaint in a suit for $500,000.

Browning's young wife, Frances Heenan ("Peaches") Browning, is drawing $300 weekly alimony pending trial of their consolidated separation action before Supreme Court Justice Tomkins at Carmel, N. Y., Jan. 4. The papers in that case have been sealed by court order because of their content.

Miss Spas, the golden-haired girl who proclaimed herself 16 years old when adopted by Browning, but it later developed she was 21. The complaint in her suit contains four counts:

An alleged attempt at attack by Browning in his apartment at the Kew Gardens Inn, for which she asks $100,000.

For nervous shock at alleged threats to kill her and himself if she told District Attorney Newcome of Queens of the incident she requests $100,000.

For mental anguish suffered because of "imprisonment" in Browning's apartment she demands $250,000.

For being forced to sign "certain papers" the day her adoption by Browning was annulled, she seeks $50,000.

Browning characterized the suit as blackmail.

IOWA BANK ROBBERS CAUGHT

One Brother Who Tried to Escape on Ice Confesses $3151 Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 16. — Two brothers who held up the Modale (Ia.) Savings Bank and risked their lives yesterday on the ice of the Missouri River to elude an Iowa posse, only to be met in Omaha by detectives informed of their Omaha address, are in custody here today.

Roy Harding, 23 years old, last night signed a confession and implicated his brother, Dave, 45, as his accomplice. The older Harding refused to make a statement. In their possession was found $3151, identified as the currency stolen in the holdup.

ST. LOUIS VISIT OF CARL SHELTON QUITE EVENTFUL

Williamson County Feudist After Day in Hands of Police and U. S. Officers Spends Night in Cell.

HELD IN INQUIRY IN COUNTERFEIT CASE

Spurious $20 Dollar Bill Passed by Man Driving Auto, License of Which Was Issued to Shelton.

The St. Louis visit of Carl Shelton, Williamson County feudist, who wanted to spend a few weeks here in seclusion with relatives, has proved an eventful and vexatious venture to the lean, quiet gunman.

Arrested yesterday at the home of a relative in North St. Louis after he had been in the city less than a week, Shelton was berated by police officials, "shown up" to detectives during the day in the "shadow box" at headquarters, returned to the Dayton Street District, turned over to Department of Justice officers on a Federal warrant, released on $5000 bond, and immediately arrested for the United States Secret Service to be questioned in a counterfeiting investigation.

Spends Night in Cell.

A crowded day even for a man who has been in the thick of the Williamson County fighting of the past three years. But if it discouraged the dark-eyed Shelton he failed to show it. Even when he was arrested unexpectedly after his troubles seemed to be over last night, he took the new reverse cheerfully and was led to his cell at headquarters, still smiling quietly.

The operations of a counterfeiting ring which is putting out worthless gold notes of $20 denomination is the subject about which Shelton will be questioned today by Stephen A. Connell, agent in charge of the Secret Service Office here.

Connell's agents have learned that one of the bills was passed recently on a Madison, Ill., merchant by a man who drove away in an automobile. A girl chanced to note the license number of the car, which proved to have been issued to Shelton. Satisfied by his investigation that Shelton himself was not in the machine at the time, Connell will ask him who was using the car.

Other Arrests in Case.

In connection with the operations of the counterfeiting ring Secret Service agents yesterday arrested three St. Louisans in Kansas City. The prisoners identified themselves as Lee Miller, 36 years old of 4189 Delmar boulevard, Mrs. Lydia Miller, 24, his wife, and Silas E. Sloan, 26, of 4439 Delmar boulevard.

Counterfeit $20 bills of an ostensible value of $1600 were found in a candy box carried by Miller, who was arrested as he entered a "hot dog" stand. The proprietor of the stand had informed agents that Miller had offered to sell $1600 in counterfeit bills for $700 and the Secret Service men authorized the sandwich man to carry through the deal before they arrested Miller.

Sloan, who Miller said was innocent of complicity in the handling of the bills, was arrested outside the sandwich stand and Mrs. Miller was arrested in a Kansas City hotel where the trio were stopping. Miller is quoted as saying he got the bills from a man known to him as "Blackie," whom he met in a St. Louis hotel.

Alcohol Also Seized.

In a raid on the room of the Millers here yesterday afternoon the police found seven five-gallon tins of alcohol, which were seized. In that connection Secret Service agents have learned that the "shovers" of the counterfeit money have passed their product extensively on bootleggers from whom they have purchased whisky at Detroit and elsewhere.

Carl Shelton is held for the Secret Service only because he may have information of value to the investigation. But in the other Federal case in which he was arrested yesterday, he is directly charged with transporting over a State line a Cadillac sedan stolen on July 28, 1924, from John Muckerman of 4464 West Pine boulevard, president of the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co. It was after he had been released on $5000 bond in this case that Shelton was rearrested for the Secret Service.

The bond in the autho theft case was signed by John T. Kelly and Beverly Brown, the latter one of the proprietors of an armored office at 106 North Fourteenth street, which is the hangout of the Cuckoo gang.

Shelton's experiences here closely parallel those of Art Newman, once his friend and now his deadly enemy, who was arrested here several weeks ago and shunted about from one agency to another for questioning. During that visit Newman is believed to have given post-office inspectors information on which they secured the indictment of Carl Shelton, and his brothers, Earl and Bernie, on a charge of robbing a mail messenger of $15,000 at Collinsville on Jan. 27, 1925. Carl is at liberty on that charge on $60,000 bond and his brothers still are in jail.

Silent on Operations of Foe.

The police have worked on Shelton on the theory that he might be willing to tell something of the operations of Newman and of Newman's friend and protector, Charley Birger, the gang leader, of Harrisburg, Ill. As far as can be learned, however, Shelton has kept his own counsel and has contented himself with saying that the charges against him are "frame-ups" by the Birger crowd.

BAR TO GIRLS VISITING PENITENTIARY UPHELD

Stephens College President Opposes Entertaining Convicts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 16.—An order of the State Prison Board, barring women entertainers from the Penitentiary, has received the approval of Dr. J. M. Wood, president of Stephens College. Dr. Wood stated yesterday afternoon that the thought the practice of immature boys and girls going to the Penitentiary for this purpose did not effect any good on the inside of the prison and did the young people no good.

Girls from Stephens College have been giving entertainments in the Penitentiary for the last two months under the sponsorship of the Missouri Welfare League, headquarters of which is in St. Louis. The weekly programs were alternated by the classes in sociology in Stephens College and members of the sociology class of the State University. A weekly program was given, consisting of musical numbers, readings, and other features.

The last riot in the Penitentiary followed one day after girl students from Columbia had given an entertainment for the convicts.

In reply to a question as to what promoted the action of barring Stephens College girls, the announcement was made at Jefferson City that all women entertainers are now barred "for the safety of girls." The statement made it plain that men entertainers are not barred.

The Student Religious Council of the University, which is co-operating with the Missouri Welfare League, has received numerous letters from convicts speaking in most favorable praise of the entertainments. The council has prepared programs to be given at the Penitentiary for the remainder of the school year.

Many girl entertainers were on these programs and had gone to some expense and trouble to prepare a Christmas week program. The secretary of the council has written the Missouri Welfare League and explained the action of the Prison Board. Both organizations have written to the chaplain of the Penitentiary asking that some reason be assigned for the discontinuance of the programs.

RELIGIOUS CENSUS TAKEN IN LONDON AND NEW YORK

Majorities in Both Cities Believe in God, But Differ on Question of Immortality.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Residents of New York and London apparently share the same proportionate belief in God, religious census and conducted in the two cities revealed.

The New York survey was made in connection with the religious census sponsored by the International Advertising Association through questionnaires in 150 newspapers. In New York the questionnaire was printed in The World and final figures published today showed 7500 persons who answered in the Metropolitan district believe in God and that 2924 do not.

In London a similar question asked readers of the Daily News brought 9991 affirmative replies and 3686 in the negative. Responses from readers of the Nation and Athenaeum, however, gave 743 believers in God and 1024 agnostics. These two papers circulate among the so-called intellectuals.

A comparison between the percentage of belief in God in the United States as a whole and the percentage indicated in the returns of the London Daily News, however, showed 16 per cent greater belief in God in the United States.

On the question of immortality, the returns indicate that there is more belief in the survival of the soul in London than in New York. The vote in New York was 6292 yes and 3954 no, while the Daily News returns showed 10,161 yes and 3178 no.

ST. PAUL BOXER'S DEATH DECLARED ACCIDENTAL

Man Who Gave Fatal Knockdown to Harry Berglund Cleared by Coroner.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 16.—The death of Harry (Berg) Berglund of St. Paul, light-heavyweight boxer, is held to have been accidental by the Coroner and Berglund's ring opponent, Carl Augustine, has been released.

Berglund, 21 years old, died from a cerebral hemorrhage suffered when his head hit the floor after a knockdown Tuesday night and he died yesterday.

George Dawson, secretary of the State Boxing Commission, declared that the tragedy was an "unavoidable accident, such as might happen in any athletic sport."

Republican Wins on Recount.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 16.—A recount of votes cast in the November election in Kanawha County, shows E. T. England, Republican, defeated, by 100 votes, Representative J. Alfred Taylor, Democrat, in the Sixth Congressional District of West Virginia. Attorneys for Taylor announced they would petition the State Supreme Court for the reinstatement of ballots thrown out by the County Court during the recount.

ST. LOUIS TO NEW YORK PHONE CABLE OPENED

Groups of Business Men in the Two Cities as Well as Chicago Linked in Ceremony.

St. Louis is now connected with Chicago and New York by an 1195-mile telephone cable, the longest link of its kind in the world. Supplementary cables extend the service to Boston, Philadelphia and Washington. This means that when winds rage and snows drift high and bitter cold snaps common wires, communication along this important route will be much more dependable than in the past. when old-style lines have been wrecked.

The Chicago-New York section of the cable was completed a year ago, but the last link of the St. Louis-Chicago portion was installed only a few weeks ago. Yesterday, after an informal colloquy of leaders in the telephone world and leaders of commerce, seated in warm offices in three cities, while frost formed on the windows, the cable was opened for public use. Two years ago, day after tomorrow, St. Louis had been isolated by a memorable ice storm, which had disrupted the national telephone service and left just one circuit working between St. Louis and New York.

500 Wires in Cable.

In the cable, which is only about two inches in diameter, are 500 copper wires, which provide 250 telephone circuits, divided among the cities, and simultaneously permit of sending 500 telegraph messages, such as those of press associations and brokers. The cable line, which cost $32,000,000, weighs 50,000,000 pounds and contains 587,000 miles of wire, is carried in conduits in the cities and on 42,000 stanch poles 'cross country.

Yesterday's ceremony linked groups in rooms at the new Southwestern Bell Telephone Building, 1010 Pine street; the Illinois Bell Telephone Building, 212 West Washington street, Chicago, and the American Telephone and Telegraph Building, 195 Broadway New York. Each group had the familiar desk telephone with a loud speaker attached so that all might listen in. The conversation lasted from 3:06 to 3:44 p. m., a 38-minute talk which would have cost a private user $51.30.

According to the front pages of the telephone book, all conversations should be opened in this manner. "Southwestern Bell Co., Jones speaking." ..."A. T. & T., Smith speaking." * * * But yesterday two engineers hundreds of miles apart started out: "Hello, Fred; how's the weather there?"...."Hello, Will; it's subzero."

Brief Dedicatory Speech.

Then F. A. Stevenson, director of the long lines department of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. at New York, took the wire and put E. D. Nims, president of Southwestern Bell, at St. Louis; Rufus Abbott, president of Illinois Bell, at Chicago, and Walter S. Gifford, president of A. T. & T., at New York, in communication—mostly about the weather. Gifford however, continued with a brief speech, "dediacting this "broader speech highway" to public service.

Joshing and serious interchange of greetings ensued among James Brown, chairman of the Executive Committee of the New York State Chamber of Commerce; William R. Dawes, head of the Chicago Association of Commerce, a cousin of the Vice President, and Harold M. Bixby, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. Deep-throated chuckles from Dawes frequently interrupted. He praised the additional facilities. Brown said it was a great engineering achievement. Bixby declared they were participating in a triple play. St. Louis to Chicago to New York, and reminded Brown that "our Cardinals" had visited New York lately.

A broker had suggested to him that the new cable might result in quicker calls on margin, Bixby remarked, and then said the spirit of the telephone companies was the spirit that solidifies and makes America great. Brown recalled how hard it had been for him to communicate with New York from St. Louis during the World's Fair of 1904. The three commercial organization heads concluded by facetious claims about the greatness of their own chambers.

New York Men Heard.

James McCulloch, president of New York Bell; President Pillsbury of Pacific Bell, and F. B. Jewett, vice president of the Western Electric Co., all at New York, spoke next. Jewett telling how he had talked recently of telephone between London and Berlin, a shorter distance. Nims and others had a few remarks about routine business, and Stevenson ended the "ceremony."

It took two years and $7,000,000 to build the St. Louis-Chicago part of the cable, 344 miles long, by way of Springfield, Peoria and Joliet. Older facilities will be retained.

Girl, 20, Who Killed Man, Not Sorry.

By the Associated Press.

STANLEY, N. D., Dec. 16.—Expressing no regret for the killing of William Nafus at Sanish, Monday, Alice Holst, 20 years old, daughter of a farmer, is in custody while authorities prepare to file a charge of first degree murder against her. "If I had it to do over again, I'd do the same. I'm not sorry," the girl said. Brooding over a wrong which Nafus is alleged to have done her is the motive.

WIFE REFUSES REWARD FOR RETURNED CONVICT

Mrs. Iona Decker Doesn't Want $100 for Taking Husband Back to Prison.

Mrs. Iona Decker has refused a reward of $100 for the return of her husband, Elmer, to the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., although the prospect of a cheerful Christmas for herself and six children at their home, 5600 Market avenue, Edgemont Station, Ill., is not encouraging.

Decker, who had been given a three-year sentence last September when he pleaded guilty to possession of stolen interstate freight, appeared unexpectedly at his home yesterday a week ago.

"Elmer," his wife exclaimed, "what are you doing here?" He embraced her, she said, and replied, "Well, I just walked away." "But this won't do," she told him. "You must go back."

Decker readily agreed, telling her that the thought of spending Christmas alone made him homesick and he had taken the first chance of getting away. Decker was a trusty and with another prisoner named Shields had gone to the prison farm beyond the walls to gather persimmons. Something was said about gathering nuts back home. "Let's keep on going," Shields suggested. "Let's," Decker agreed.

So Decker spent two days with his family having what Christmas joy they could make. Last Friday morning Decker and his wife got into their Ford and she drove back to Leavenworth. "Here he is," she told the Warden. "He came right home and did not intend to run away."

The Warden asked her if she would claim the $100 reward, but Mrs. Decker told him she did not care about it, but would hate to see her husband lose the time off for good behavior. The Warden told her, she said, the penalty would not be imposed, as far as he was concerned.

The Decker home, a frame house, is on a small tract of land which Decker, a former switchman, had been gardening. He bought the property for $2400 and it is encumbered with an $1800 mortgage. The Ford is also mortgaged, and Mrs. Decker has been selling their livestock to support the family.

The youngest child is 3 years old and the oldest, the only one able to work, is 18.

$5,000,000 IS PROPOSED FOR ST. LOUIS FEDERAL BUILDING

Mellon Tells House Committee 2100 Towns and Cities Need New Buildings.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—In allocating new postoffice buildings under the $15,000,000 building plan, the Treasury Department is considering only cities that have annual postal receipts of $20,000 or more, Secretary Mellen testified toyesterday before the House Buildings Committee.

He said there were 2100 towns coming within this class and of this number of buildings in 1300 towns needed enlargement.

It was brought out that $43,000,000 of the $100,000,000 provided for buildings outside of Washington, will be needed in six cities alone—$15,000,000 for New York; $12,000,000 for Chicago; $6,000,000 for Philadelphia $5,000,000 for St. Louis; $4,000,000 for San Farncisco and $3,000,000 for Louisville, Ky.

Other Treasury officials estimated not more than 200 buildings could be constructed under the act.

POPULATION OF COLUMBIA, STUDENTS EXCLUDED 15,585

Special to the Post-Dispatch

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 16.—According to a survey just completed by the Columbia Commercial Club, the population of Columbia, exclusive of students, is now 15,585. The survey shows that there are approximately 1000 more women than men in the university town. The total number of men is 7296, while women total 8292.

The figures show an increase of 50 per cent in the entire population since the 1920 Federal census. The excess of births over deaths since 1920 was 780. There are 9951 persons in the city over 21 years of age, and of these 4577 are men and 5374 women. The total number of families in the city is 4281.

S. L. Silverstein Heads Nugents.

S. L. Silverstein has been appointed temporary head of Nugent Bros. Dry Goods Co., pending the appointment of a successor to Franz A. Cramer, who recently resigned to become president of the Denver Dry Goods Co. Silverstein is assistant to the chairman of the board of the National Department Stores Co., a corporation operating Nugents and dry goods stores in other cities.

Knocked Out in Film Ball Game.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 16.—In the filming here of "Casey at Bat," Wallace Beery was knocked out. He was at the plate under director's instructions to hit a home run. A final plea from the director's megaphone, shouted just as the pitcher completed winding up, caused the comedian to turn and he was struck in the head by a fast ball. He was revived in a few minutes but production was stopped for the day.

Columbia NEW PROCESS Records

THE Viva-tonal Columbia is greater than a phonograph—it is the successor to the phonograph. Not only does it do all that any phonograph ever could do, but it vastly increases the entire range and volume of musical and vocal reproduction.

The deepest bass notes, so essential in dance tempo, but formerly not audible in phonograph music, are now accentuated as the composer meant them to be. Great symphonies may be heard with full appreciation of every nuance of orchestral rendition. Not only magnificent volume—not only startling clarity—not only absolute truth—but all the beauty of all the music of all the world!

All that music is today, the Viva-tonal Columbia is—and it is yours to give—for their enjoyment.

Make this supreme test of the merit of your one most important gift—be sure that it is a gift that will give of itself.

Never before has it been possible to give such a gift as the Viva-tonal Columbia.

It is a gift, that, above all others gives of itself, lavishly, untiringly, affording a lifetime of delight to those who possess it.

The dealer who is to demonstrate the Viva-tonal Columbia to you may be identified by his display of the Columbia trademark. If more convenient, write to us for descriptive booklet and let us tell you the name of your nearest Columbia dealer.

EXPERTS FAVOR RIGHT TURN AGAINST SIGNALS

New York's New Traffic Rules Embody Principle as Aid to Reduce Congestion.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—After several years of study and experimentation the New York City traffic experts have decided that the right hand turn at street intersections is permissible at all times, and may be made against the red light as well as the green. Few cities of the country permit this practice, but to motorists, it always has seemed a sensible thing. New York's new regulations, which go into effect Jan. 1, will require that right turns be made with care and with due regard to pedestrians.

A whizzing right hand turn will bring the offender to traffic court on a charge of reckless driving.

New York motor traffic is as congested as in any city of the world. Manhattan Island is long and narrow, becoming more and more restricted as the downtown sections are reached. It has been found that holding up right hand turns for the green light slows traffic to an appreciable degree. Furthermore when the green light is flashed pedestrian traffic starts and the motorist making a right hand turn must fight his way through this cross-foot traffic.

New Code Carefully Compiled.

The new traffic code for Manhattan and her sister boroughs is a carefully thought out set of regulations which seem to go as far as possible toward solving the problem of street congestion and it endeavors in a Solomon-like manner to judge between the conflicting rights of drivers and walkers.

Walkers never have had many privileges in this city and consequently have taken them willy-nilly. New Yorkers think nothing of darting across Broadway or Fifth avenue without regard to the red and green lights. Sometimes six policemen standing at Fifth avenue and Forty-Second street have been unable to prevent football rushes across the thoroughfares. In the new code the walker is given his rights.

At all intersections which are unguarded by traffic policemen, the pedestrian has the right of way and the motor vehicles, as well as horse drawn trucks, are required to slow down to give the walker the preference.

Speed Limit 20 Miles.

New York never has been much for the strict enforcement of speed regulations. The rule has been to get where one is going as quickly as possible and one must never delay traffic. On a traffic control street, when one has a long string of green lights in front and cross traffic is barred, the sky appears to be the limit and the policemen at the corner beckon one on even after the speedometer has hit 30 or above.

But for the purposes of making an ordinance it has been decreed that on and after Jan. 1, speed in excess of 20 miles an hour in the congested districts of the greater city may be deemed reckless driving, if the arresting authority be so inclined.

In the outlying districts 25 miles an hour will be permitted at all times—and more when the traffic conditions permit or the policeman tells one to "come along."

Left hand turns are made here the same as in most cities. The turner advances with the green light, halts toward the center of the street and completes his turn when the green flashes for the direction in which he is going. Wherever a policeman is stationed the left turn must be made "inside" or to the left of the officer and not around him.

New York City is starting a real crusade against useless motor noises. The new regulations will emphasize the rules recently put into operation against the senseless honking of horns in a halted traffic line. This honking has been held to be a nuisance and many motorists already have been fined rather heavily for the offense. It is the most natural thing in the world for a motorist halted a minute or two by cars ahead of him, to begin a screeching and howling. Always there is a good reason for the delay, the honking does not help and in New York at least it has been declared a crime.

Kills Wife, Then Ends Own Life.

By the Associated Press.

READING, Pa., Dec. 16.—Working separately on an apparent murder and suicide last night, police found their clews running together and uncovered a family tragedy. Mrs. Mabel Snyder, 29 years old, had been found dead in her home, her body mutilated. The body of a man who had leaped in front of a train was identified as that of her husband, Harold, 29. Detectives investigating the woman's death, recognized a photograph in the family album as that of the man who had jumped in front of the train. The Snyders had been married three years.

Clerk Wins $5000 for Tire Name.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Hans Simonson, 20-year-old drafting clerk of Bismarck, N. D., has won $5000, enough for him to realize his life ambition—to study to be a cartoonist. He was awarded first prize over several hundred thousand other contestants in an automobile tire naming contest. He submitted the name "Allstate." Second prize of $1000 went to Donald S. Gray, Ames, Ia., with the name "Dearborn Cords," and third place to Mrs. E. M. Decker, Fort Thomas, Ky., who submitted "Argosy."

STEINWAY
THE INSTRUMENT OF THE IMMORTALS

The world's most carefully built
GRAND PIANO

STEINWAY Style M, Mahogany $1525

—the finest and most enduring gift for Christmas

FOR more than 75 years, four generations of the Steinway family have devoted their lives to perfecting this marvelous instrument...and significant indeed, is the fact that most of the important improvements marking the progress of the piano industry originated and were developed by the Steinway organization.

Steinway, the ultimate in piano quality—the most beautiful and desirable—is likewise the least expensive of all pianofortes. Few realize that each Steinway represents nearly six years of preparation and construction—therein lies the secret of its amazing durability...forty years is not an unusual return for a Steinway piano to make to its owner thus proving the true economy that lies in buying the best...always an assurance of the greatest advantage and return.

At the Aeolian Company you may make your selection from one of the finest displays of Steinway Pianos in this country. Ever-reasonable prices and convenient terms bring the Steinway within reach of all.

HEARING ON LIABILITY INSURANCE RATES

Superintendent Hyde to Receive Complaints in St. Louis Tomorrow.

Protests of representatives of St. Louis industries against the proposed rates filed by liability insurance companies under the workmen's compensation law will be heard at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Chamber of Commerce by State Superintendent of Insurance Hyde. He has announced that he has power to order lower rates if the companies fail to justify the rates they have filed.

At a similar hearing in Kansas City yesterday many complaints that the proposed rates would materially increase the present cost of liability insurance, in some lines doubling it, was made.

The Insurance Department holds the theory that it has the same power over liability rates as over fire insurance rates, which several years ago Hyde ordered reduced 10 per cent in Missouri. After a long contest in the courts Hyde's reduction order was upheld.

After receiving the complaints it is Hyde's purpose to have actuaries in the department go over them with representatives of the insurance companies in an attempt to arrive at an agreement as to fair rates.

At the hearing in Kansas City Rees Turpin, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Law Committee of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, said that in some industries the proposed rates might drive concerns from the State, citing particularly the feed business.

He mentioned two firms across the street from each other, one in Kansas City, Mo., and the other in Kansas City, Kan., competitors in selling feed. The Kansas company pays $1.21 per $100 of pay roll while the Missouri company would be forced to pay $2.94.

The proposed rates were defended by L. I. Hall, secretary of the National Council on Compensation Insurance, who said they had been arrived at by averaging hte rates of other states and comparing the schedules of compensation under the Missouri law. He said the higher compensation to be paid here than in most states had an importan influence on the rates, and that the provision of the Missouri law starting compensation three days after an accident instead of seven, as in many states, made higher rates necessary.

$320,000 TRAIN ROBBERS TELL OF UP-TO-DATE TACTICS

Confess Wyoming Holdup Was Arranged With Mail Clerk at Cost of $2000.

By the Associated Press.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 16.—Leaders of the robbers who held up a Union Pacific mail train near Rock Springs, Wyo., last August and obtained bonds and unsigned currency amounting to $320,000, took their tip from Eastern holdup men and not old-time Westerners. This was disclosed in Federal Court here in the trial of John Kearns and six others charged with the robbery.

In a confession, read to the jury, Kearns said he and a confederate planned the holdup after reading of an Eastern mail robbery. Kearns and his confederate planned and executed the holdup as an "inside job," confessions disclosed. Two thousand dollars was spent in preliminary work.

Government officers testified that confessions were obtained from Kearns, Jack Madigan, former railway mail clerk, and Howard Barnett. The names of accomplices were stricken out of each confession, but when all were read the stories dovetailed.

Madigan admitted in his confession that he left the side door of his mail car unlocked and, when two gunmen entered, permitted himself to be bound and gagged. The mail clerk said he had attempted to back out of the deal, but was told the people who were putting up the money had spent about $2000 and wanted action.

Barnett confessed he was one of the two men who entered the mail car and a postal inspector testified John Kamariotis admitted he also helped in the actual holdup.

W. M. CHAUVENET IN WILL DIRECTED BODY BE CREMATED

Bequest of $2000 to Children's Aid Society, $22,000 Left to Relatives.

The will of William Marc Chauvenet, mining engineer and artist, who died Friday, provides "that my body shall be cremated, and that no consideration whatever be given to the ashes thereof."

Cremation followed the funeral Monday afternoon, but the ashes were placed in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

A bequest of $2000 to the St. Louis Children's Aid Society was one of the specific bequests, totaling $24,000. The residue of the estate is left to a brother, Samuel H. Chauvenet of Philadelphia, and a sister, Mrs. Mary C. Holden of Florence, Italy. The total value of the estate has not been estimated.

Specific bequests, besides the one to the Children's Aid, are: To Louis Chauvenet Jr. of Tallwood Plantation, Va., $10,000; to Regis Chauvenet of Sheridan, Pa., $2000, to William Chauvenet of Jamesburg, N. J., $2000; to Virginia R. Chauvenet, Mabel Holden Tuttle and Mildred C. Rosen, nieces, and Virginia M. Chauvenet, sister-in-law, $2000 each. Articles of jewelry and art, and books from Mr. Chauvenet's library, also are left to these relatives. The equipment of Mr. Chauvenet's mineralogical laboratory is left to Washington University.

Mr. Chauvenet was the son of William Chauvenet, one of the founders of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. The elder Chauvenet was at one time chancellor of Washington University. Mr. Chauvenet was 71 years old, and a bachelor. The St. Louis Union Trust Co. and James M. Douglas are executors of the estate.

SUIT CLUB CLOSED AND POLICE SEEK MISSING OFFICERS

Records Confiscated Which It Is Promised Will Show 800 St. Louisans Have Lost $30,000.

The "suit club" conducted by the Lee System Tailoring Co., in room 320, Holland Building, in which 800 St. Louisans are estimated to have paid "dues" totaling $30,000, has been dissolved without notice to the suitless membership, and police are seeking the assets, if any, and the "officers," whoever they may be.

On complaint of H. Sorenson, 3828 Flad avenue, who paid $2 a week for 25 weeks for a $50 suit—and didn't get it—detectives yesterday raided the club quarters and confiscated books and papers, and 35 pieces of cloth. The records will be turned over to the Circuit Attorney for action. The cloth was attached by the building management in lieu of back rent. The men in charge of the office have been missing for a week, it was said.

Like many other "clubs" which have run afoul of the police and the Better Business Bureau, this one is alleged to have operated on a something-for-nothing plan. Each club member paid in $2 a week, on the purported assurance that the members' names were pooled each week and the owner of the first name taken from the pot would receive a $50 suit without further payments. It was possible under this plan to receive a $50 suit for as little as $2 and, if not so lucky, for not more than $50, the plan disclosed.

Few Suits for Awards.

According to complaints to the Better Business Bureau, few suits were awarded to those who had not paid the full $50. And when paid-up customers called at the club offices to be measured, they assert they were shown cheap suitings and informed they could get better material by paying an additional $10 or $15.

Sorenson, a laundry worker, had that experience. He took his receipt book to the company's offices, expecting to get a ailor-made suit. The goods displayed to him was not so good—the man in charge agreed with him on this, Sorenson said. He declared the man promised to get him a better suiting for a few dollars more, and invited him back in a few days. When Sorenson returned, the man and his associates were gone, and the offices locked.

Other customers complained of difficulty in getting suits. One was told the tailor had been ill. Others were told the same thing.

The business was started a year ago by the Maryott brothers—John M. and Emerson. When the brothers were arrested last September and taken back to Boston to face larceny charges, J. Theodore Peterson and Charles Breslau succeeded to the business, and they, in turn, were succeeded by A. J. Kelly and T. B. Carr, according to the company records. The records indicate Kelly later sold out to another party, who, when questioned by police, said he had nothing to do with the business, hadn't bought a share in it, and was thankful he hadn't. He was not arrested.

One reason why the "clubs" find it easy to obtain members in offices and factories seems to appear in the papers confiscated. The members were introduced to the club by their respective bosses. The bosses, no doubt, said the "club idea" was great. It was for them, for they received a suit free for each 10 members enrolled.

But the members, who paid from $2 to $50, seem to have got nothing.

DIVORCE SUIT AGAINST BANKER TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge Pearcy to Give Decision in Case of Mrs. Bertha Merlin in Two Weeks.

The divorce action of Mrs. Bertha Merlin against Walter R. Merlin, assistant cashier of the United States Bank, was taken under advisement for two weeks by Judge Pearcy of the Court of Domestic Relations yestedray

Before the hearing ended both testified to a great desire to be given custody of their son, Walter Jr., 8 years old.

"I wouldn't be a real mother unless I wanted my boy; my husband tried to influence him against me, but it didn't succeed," Mrs. Merlin testified.

"My son and I have always been close together and there have been very few evenings that we have been apart; I want my boy," Merlin testified.

Several rows of relatives and intimate friends, many of them witnesses, paid careful attention throughout the proceedings. There was laughter in the courtroom when one of the attorneys in the case brought out in cross-examination of a witness that two women witnesses on opposing sides had quarreled immediately upon the adjournment of court Tuesday because of their intense interest in the case. Mrs. Merlin charges general indignities.

WOMAN, WHO BERATES COURT, EJECTED AT ORDER OF JUDGE

Mrs. Ida Norman, 44 years old, of 742A South Newstead avenue, was ejected from the Court of Criminal Correction today at the order of Provisional Judge Grodski after she had refused to leave the witness stand and insisted in a loud voice: "I want my rights. I'm not getting a square deal in this court."

She had caused the arrest of her husband, Everett, from whom she has been separated eight years, on charges of lewd conduct and nonsupport. Testimony showed that Mrs. Norman had no proof of the lewd conduct accusation except circumstantial evidence gathered in a raid on her estranged husband's boarding house at 1800 Cora avenue. It developed as to the nonsupport charge that she was employed in the city and received help from her son; further, she owned a house at Montgomery City, Mo.

"Don't come back here with any more trumped-up charges," Provisional Judge Grodski called after her, "or you may find yourself in the workhouse."

GIRL, 7, SERIOUSLY HURT BY TRUCK ON COUNTY ROAD

Vilinda Polston, 7 years old, the daughter of James Polston, living on the Bellefontaine road three miles north of the city limits, was critically injured at 8 a. m. today when she alighted from an automobile in front of the Science Hill School, in the path of a truck driven east by George Kerup, 29 years old, of 1012 Bittner street.

A motorist had given her a lift and when he stopped at the school corner, Gibson and Bellefontaine roads, she stepped into the center of the road directly into the path of the truck. Kerup told police he swerved to avoid striking her, but too late, running his automobile into a telephone pole after knocking her to the street. She was taken to the city hospital by another motorist, where she is unconscious, suffering from a fractured skull. Kerup drove to the Angelica Street Station where he reported the accident and was held for county authorities.

ROBBED OF $650 BY 3 MEN HE PERMITTED TO RIDE ON TRUCK

Antone Sansome, a fruit dealer of 6670 Delmar boulevard, was robbed of $650 at 10:30 a. m. today by three men, who had asked him for a ride as he was driving to a Third street market.

Sansone was driving east in Wash street when the trio hailed him. They boarded his truck, and when at Twelfth and Biddle streets one pressed a revolver to his side, while the others searched him, taking the money. At the intersection of Cass avenue the two carrying the money jumped off, and the third robber, with the revolver ordered Sansone to drive on two blocks where he, too, leaped off.

Sansone told police at the North Market street station that he was carrying the money to pay a bill.

Indians' Body in Ruins of Home.

By the Associated Press.

JAY, Ok., Dec. 16.—The charred body of John Coming, 35 years old, Cherokee Indian, has been found in the ruins of his home, three miles southwest of Kansas, Ok. His wife is held for investigation. Authorities are searching for Jim O'Field, Indian friend of the Comings. According to the story Mrs. Coming told officers, her husband and O'Field were drinking at their home Monday night and ordered her from the house. She did not see her husband again, she said.

$1,051,403,098 EXPENDED ON FEDERAL AID HIGHWAY SYSTEM

Transcontinental Route From Washington to San Diego, Through St. Louis, 97 Pct. Improved.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Almost three-quarters of the great Federal-aid highway system is rated as improved, but the work of improvement is not three-quarters completed, since increasing traffic will make it necessary to improve to a higher degree a considerable mileage of low-type roads.

Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads, reports the Federal and state governments have spent $1,051,403,098 on the system of Federal-aid highways, the Federal Government's contribution being $463,554,553.

Improvement of several transcontinental routes, he says, is nearing completion. A route extending from Washington to San Diego, Cal., through St. Louis, Texarkana and El Paso, Tex., is 97 per cent improved. Another from Atlantic City to Astoria, Ore., is seven-eighths improved, while a third, from Boston to Seattle, through the northern tier of states, is 73 per cent improved and 69 per cent surfaced.

Federal-aid road projects completed last year contributed a net addition of 9417 miles to the system, making the aggregate of improved roads 55,902 miles. There was also in process of improvement 10,962 miles, while projects for 2469 miles had been sanctioned. The system now has an aggregate of 182,134 miles selected by the state and Federal highway officials as essential links of a network adequate for the accommodation of interstate traffic.

GASOLINE ON ARM IGNITED

Chauffeur for Asphalt Company Severely Burned.

John Cairns, 29 years old, of 829 South Eighteenth street, was burned severely about the body at 3 p. m. yesterday when gasoline on his arm was ignited by flames from a stove in a branch office of the Trinidad Asphalt Co. at Rankin avenue and Wabash tracks.

Cairns, a chauffeur employed by the asphalt company, drained some gasoline from a truck, using a rag to wipe the gasoline off his hands. When he stepped to the stove to burn the rag the gasoline which he failed to wipe from his arm ignited, setting fire to his clothing. The blaze was extinguished by three other workmen in the plant.

ACQUITTED OF KILLING SON

Jealous Physician, Who Fired at Roomer, Freed by Jury.

By the Associated Press.

PAWHUSKA, Ok., Dec. 16.—Dr. G. W. Lee of Wynona, Ok., who accidentally shot and killed his son, Quay Lee, last April, while firing at William Eastman, a Salvation Army worker, rooming at the Lee home, was acquitted of murder by a jury.

Dr. Lee was jealous of attentions of Eastman to Mrs. Lee, and after shooting and wounding her, went to a bedroom where the son and Eastman were asleep. The boy leaped from the bed as the shot was fired and was killed instantly. Eastman escaped. The physician faces another trial on a charge of assault with intent to kill in connection with the wounding of his wife.

PART TWO.

GOULD PRIMARY COST $30,000, HIS FOES DECLARE

Hope to Oust Maine Senator on Charge of Excessive Expenditure to Obtain the Nomination.

RUMOR G. O. P. CHIEFS WILL DESERT HIM

Prospect of Investigation by Senate Committee Causes Agitation Among His Supporters.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 16.—The political opponents of Arthur E. Gould are determined to oust him from the United States Senate, not only because he appears to have bribed a Premier of New Brunswick 15 years ago, but because, they allege, a sum estimated between $30,000 and $50,000 was spent to obtain his nomination.

The Ku Klux Klan charged that Gould was his own "angel" in the primary, but failed to substantiate it at a hearing before the Secretary of State three days before the election. This charge is now occupying a prominent part in the talk of those holding post mortems on the klan's part in the election.

Elected on Antiklan Issue.

Gov. Brewster, in a letter to Gould Nov. 20, accused the Senator, not only of exceeding the $1500 limit for primary expenses, but of knowing that his friends intended to exceed that amount. William R. Pattangall, Brewster's Democratic opponent in the 1924 election, hooked up to Brewster so closely with the klan that he has never been able to untie the knot to the public satisfaction. The appearance of Brewster in the camp of Gould's enemies just before election convinced those antiklan groups which had not been won over to him already by the open attacks upon Gould by the klan. They stampeded—most of them good Democrats—to the Republican banner and left the Democratic candidate, Fulton J. Redman, as he has expressed it "unconscious and ready to be dragged out."

Time has brought disillusionment to most of these Democrats. They recall now that Redman fought the Klan two years ago only less hard than Pattangall. They discover that for all the Klan's open opposition to Gould, the strong Klan communities voted for Gould, not Redman. They discover that the Democratic party in the State of Maine is a sad and bedraggled affair, for no other reason than that the Democrats accepted an issue handed to them by the Republicans—Gould against the "unholy alliance of Bewster, the Klan and Redman."

Set Primary Expense at $1324.

Gould gave the expenses of his primary campaign at $1324 in a sworn statement to the Secretary of State. Whatever money in addition to that may have been spent in his name, he has said, was by his friends "without his knowledge or consent." Gould also said during the electio that the $100,000 bribe to Premier Flemming of New Brunswick was paid "without my knowledge, sanction or consent," although his own testimony in a court proceeding eight years ago was that he himself paid the sum. There is, therefore, on that basis alone, ground for scepticism.

Witnesses before the Secretary of State testified to the expenditure of sums for Gould's campaign which alone far exceeded the limit set by law. The same witnesses testified Gould himself had not paid the money to them. But when Gerry Brooks, young and untried lawyer, representing the Klan, sought to learn from the witnesses who had ordered the pamphlets, newspaper advertising, posters, the automobiles, the headquarters in Portland and Bangor hotels, the personal campaign manager and the county campaign managers, the witnesses were not allowed to answer.

The State of Maine is not likely to make any further investigation for several reasons. One is that the $1500 limit set by law on campaign expenditures is generally conceded to be a ridiculous figure. Another is that if the truth came out a great many respected citizens would be found guilty of misdemeanors and required to pay fines. A third is that the whole affair would prove entirely too distressing to the Republican party.

Rumor G. O. P. Will Desert Gould.

The prospect that a committee of the United States Senate may come to Maine has caused great agitation. Less than an hour after the return to Portland of one of Gould's most intimate friends and active supporters there spread a story throughout the State that he brought back word from the Republican national leaders in Washington that Gould would be un-

Gould also said during the electio that the $100,000 bribe to Premier Flemming of New Brunswick was paid "without my knowledge, sanction or consent," although his own testimony in a court proceeding eight years ago was that he himself paid the sum. There is, therefore, on that basis alone, ground for scepticism.

Witnesses before the Secretary of State testified to the expenditure of sums for Gould's campaign which alone far exceeded the limit set by law. The same witnesses testified Gould himself had not paid the money to them. But when Gerry Brooks, young and untried lawyer, representing the Klan, sought to learn from the witnesses who had ordered the pamphlets, newspaper advertising, posters, the automobiles, the headquarters in Portland and Bangor hotels, the personal campaign manager and the county campaign managers, the witnesses were not allowed to answer.

The State of Maine is not likely to make any further investigation for several reasons. One is that the $1500 limit set by law on campaign expenditures is generally conceded to be a ridiculous figure. Another is that if the truth came out a great many respected citizens would be found guilty of misdemeanors and required to pay fines. A third is that the whole affair would prove entirely too distressing to the Republican party.

Rumor G. O. P. Will Desert Gould.

The prospect that a committee of the United States Senate may come to Maine has caused great agitation. Less than an hour after the return to Portland of one of Gould's most intimate friends and active supporters there spread a story throughout the State that he brought back word from the Republican national leaders in Washington that Gould would be unseated, for the general benefit of the party, and would get no comfort from President Coolidge or any of his friends.

In the primary Gould won by polling only 16,369 votes.

Gould, early in his life a tobacco salesman, later settled in Presque Isle and took over what had been Barker's sawmill. For many years he cut logs and slowly expanded the use of the water power which ran his mill until he took over the Aroostook Falls power and turned it into the Maine & New Brunswick Co. That company he sold last summer for a sum estimated at more than $1,000,000, retaining the electric railroad serving the towns close to Presque Isle.

Threat to Carry Case to Supreme Court Derided.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — The Senate's attention was turned again yesterday to the bribery charges against Senator Gould (Rep.) of Maine, when Chairman Goff of the Elections Subcommittee, appointed to investigate the new Maine Senator, offered a resolution to authorize his committee to spend $100,000 and subpena witnesses. At the same time word came from Portland, Me., that Frederick W. Hinckley, State Senator and counsel for Gould, had announced he would challenge the Senate's jurisdiction over its membership and possibly appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

This served to puzzle Senators interested in the case. Senator Moses (Rep.) of New Hampshire declared it was "nonsense to talk about carrying the case to the highest court, when the Constitution empowers both the Senate and House as supreme judges of its members."

"It is perfectly absurd," asserted Senator Ashurst. "The Supreme Court has nothing to do with it."

"I should not think the Supreme Court would have jurisdiction, in view of the constitutional provisions," commented Senator Goff.

Says New Brunswick Parliament Committee Exonerated Gould.

By the Associated Press

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 16.—Senator Gould was exonerated six years ago by an investigating committee of the New Brunswick Parliament of bribery charges, State Senator Frederick W. Hinckley said after word had been received from Fredericton, N. B., that the official records of the investigation into the St. John Valley & Quebec Railway matter, involving Gould, were missing from the files.

Senator Hinckley said he had been unaware of this investigation until Monday, when he appeared as counsel for Gould before the Senate committee to which had been referred charges that he paid a bribe of $100,000 in 1918 to J. K. Flemming, then Premier of New Brunswick, in connection with a contract for rights to build the railroad.

PANAMA CONGRESS GETS PACT WITH UNITED STATES

Treaty, Determining Sovereignty of Canal Zone, Is Referred to a Commission.

By the Associated Press

PANAMA, Dec. 16.—President Chiari has submitted to Congress the new treaty between Panama and the United States.

The treaty was referred to a commission composed of representatives from each of the nine provinces of the republic, who are expected to repor wihin en days. A congressional rule provides that amendment or modification is sufficient cause for rejection of treaties negotiated by the executive power.

The text of the treaty with Panama has not been officially given out, but previous dispatches have stated that it definitely determines the sovereignty of the Panama Canal Zone.

Copies of the Havana newspaper, El Heraldo de Cuba, and the Costa Rican publication Reportorio Americano, containing what was purported to be the text of the pact, were confiscated in Panama early this week.

Subsequent dispatches said the American Embassy and the Panaman Legation in Havana had started investigations to learn how the Heraldo obtained its information, inasmuch as Panama and the United States agreed not to publish the text until congressional action had been taken.

JAPAN'S RULER HAS RELAPSE; NATION EXPECTS HIS DEATH

Four Warships Ordered to Hayoma as All Relatives Gather at Bedside of Yoshihito—Cabinet Also There.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Dec. 16 (midnight).—The pulse and respiration of Emperor Yoshihito, gravely ill of pneumonia, have become irregular.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Dec. 16.—Japan late tonight began preparing for the death of her Mikado.

Four warships were ordered from Yokosuka to Hayama, where Emperor Yoshihito lies gravely ill at his villa. Princes and Princesses of the blood and other relatives of the imperial family boarded a special train here late in the evening for Hayama, which is only an hour's ride from the capital.

Urgent messages were sent to Prince Chichibu, second son of the emperor, who is on his way here from England, and to Prince Higashi-Kuni, who is in Paris.

The latest bulletin on the condition of the emperor, issued at 9:20 p. m., said his condition was practically unchanged. He suffered a relapse during the afternoon, after having shown signs of improvement for two consecutive days. He contracted bronchial pneumonia recently, after having been confined to his bed for several months with a chronic ailment. He has not been in good health since 1921.

Late tonight a bulletin said the Emperor's temperature was 98.7, pulse 120 and respiration 23. Regent Hirohito and his consort retired from the sick room before midnight, but the Cabinet remained up all night, after having held a meeting at Hayama.

ITTNER FORCED OUT, OPPONENTS ASSERT

Withdrew as Juvenile Court Judge Perforce, Not Voluntarily, They Say.

Circuit Judge Anthony Ittner's contention that his withdrawal yesterday from the assignment to the Juvenile Court was entirely voluntary and that he could have maintained himself in the place if it had come to a vote of the Circuit Judges, is not admitted by those of his colleagues who opposed him. These Judges take the position that Judge Ittner was forced from the Juvenile Bench and withdrew upon advice of friends who saw he had no chance if it came to a vote.

In a statement which he made to the Circuit Judges in special general session yesterday afternoon and which he later addressed "to the citizens of St. Louis" Judge Ittner said:

"At a meeting of the Circuit Judges in general session on Monday Dec. 6, I was assigned to the Juvenile division of the Circuit Court of the City of St. Louis. I requested the Juvenile Court assignment because I am a father and dearly love children, and because there is a field in that division to render service of great value to the children and the community.

Ittner's Explanation.

"No other motive prompeted my request.

"Since my assignment to the Juvenile Court there has been so much newspaper agitation directed toward procuring my withdrawal from the assignment that I have decided to request the general term to reassign me to a jury division.

"In the face of such agitation I believe that the interests of the children who are the wards of the Juvenile Court would necessarily suffer, and as their welfare is of paramount importance, I gladly sacrifice my interests for them.

"I had had the assurance of a sufficient number of my colleagues to retain me in the assignment if I insisted. I appreciate this manifestation of their confidence.

Proclaims His Integrity.

"I have always cherished and endeavored to live up to the highest ethical standards both as a lawyer and as a Judge. I have enjoyed the confidence of the people in the past and believe that confidence to have been merited. And I am sure I still enjoy their confidence for hundreds of voluntary expressions have come to me since this agitation, for which I take thus opportunity sincerely to thank my friends.

"Though I have made some mistakes, I can truthfully say I have never been guilty of intentional wrong-doing in office and I never will be."

As has been told, the opposition to Judge Ittner's assignment to the Juvenile bench was based upon his acceptance of unqualifed professional bondsmen and his granting a protective injunction to the slot machine pool which collected school children's lunch money for a month last April, and reaped a harvest of nickels from other patrons.

CUBAN PAPER REPORTS U. S. OPPOSES SUGAR CROP CUT

By the Associated Press

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 16.—El Heraldo de Cuba, which already has published an alleged complete text of the United States-Panama treaty, yesterday published a dispatch from Washington in which it was asserted that the United States Government had sent a note to the Cuban Government protesting against sugar crop reductions.

The story was denied by Dr. Viriato Gutierrez, secretary of the presidency, who said he was of the opinion that the report had been circulated by sugar speculators. He added that the presidential decree limiting the crop to 4,500,000 tons would be strictly enforced.

WET SENATORS TO MAP PROGRAM OF UNIFIED WORK

Reed and Hawes Among the 20 Invited by Senator Edge to Plan Co-operative Action.

"UNDER COVER" DRY FUND RULED OUT

Men Employed Under It Denounced as Keyhole Peepers by Senior Missouri Senator.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. —Encouraged by their successful onslight yesterday upon a proposed $500,000 appropriation in the annual Treasury supply bill for the employment of "under-cover" dry enforcement agents, the wets in the Senate are preparing to get together shortly to map out a program for the remainder of the session. A call for a conference has been sent by Senator Edge (Rep.) of New Jersey to 20 Senators of varying degrees of dampness, including the two Missourians, Reed and Hawes. The date of the caucus has not been fixed.

Reed of Missouri was the leader in the fight against what he termed the effort to set up a "secret spy system" in the enforcement service.

Vice President Dawes settled the contest in favor of the wets by throwing out the $500,000 provision on a point of order.

His ruling upheld the contention that the provision was new legislation, and therefore had no proper place in an appropriation bill. The item had been rejected in the House on similar grounds, but had been reinserted in the bill by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

It was defended on the Senate floor by Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, who said that he thought prohibition was here to stay, but that if repeal ever did come, it would come as the result of enforcement to the limit.

What Andrews Asked For.

Permitting without protest the passage of a $12,000,000 appropriation for the regular activities of the enforcement unit, the wets concentrated a heavy oratorical fire on the request of Gen. Andrews, head of the enforcement service, for a special $500,000 fund for advances to be made by special disbursing agents, the provisions of section 3648 of the revised statutes to the contrary notwithstanding. Section 3648 provides that "no advance of public money shall be made in any case whatever."

Senator Bruce (Dem.) of Maryland and Senator Reed of Missouri at once pointed out that the proposal came under the head of new legislation, since it sought to change an existing statute. This was the view taken also by the Vice President in ruling on the point of order made by Bruce.

Reed Urges Modification.

Reed in the course of the debate declared for modification of the Volstead act. "Gen. Andrews," he said, "has testified that the manufacture of wines and beer would make for temperance and for the enforcement of the law. If that be true, let us adopt such an amendment. If we are going to amend the act, let us have a real remedy."

Reed struck the proposed "spy system" with all his power. He said the testimony of Gen. Andrews before the prohibition investigating committee last sprin when Andrews told how the suppression of liquor in one place caused it to gush forth in another, proved that practical prohibition enforcement was down to zero.

Denounces Spy System.

"Now," said Reed, "we are asked to turn over $500,000 a year to one man to hire informers; for that is what the bill is intended to do; no report is to be made the Congress. I do not care how bad you may paint the liquor business, how villainous a thing it may be, or may be declared to be, it is not so bad a thing as a secret spy system. There is nothing so characteristic of tyrannous government as a horde of spies.

"The spy system was the corroding thing that ate into the heart of the liberties of France. It was Fouche and those he employed that gave the blackest shade to the tyranny of the Bourbons and their successors. It is as obnoxious to human liberty as leprosy to the healthy flesh of man; it is as destructive of republican institutions as is perjury to the administration of justice; it is as damning a thing as has ever been fastened upon any people, free or slave.

"In a secret spy system, to begin with, no honest and decent man will accept the position of a spy, with one exception, and that is a spy in time of war, when patriotism is the impelling cause, when the spy knows that if he is captured, he forfeits his life.

Keyhole Peepers.

"Whenever a human being will peep through keyholes, pull aside the curtains of windows that he may spy upon his neighbor, aye, and a thousand times worse, deliberately plan and plot to gain the confidence of man or woman in order that he may breach that confidence to gain a little dirty money, he has become so vile a thing as to pollute the air he breathes and defile the earth on which he walks.

"When such men are at large, no man is safe. They will commit perjury to make a record of convictions and thus gain promotion and larger wages. Such men hesitate at no infamy, balk at no villainy, pause at no cruelty. Their presence is a public menace. Their employment by any officer of this Government should be an impeachable offense.

"That men have been convicted by the score and lodged in the penitentiary who never would have violated the law except they were induced to do so by these wretches, who want to make records of convictions, I have not the slightest doubt. I know of instances that convince me that procurement is a common practice.

Extending the Principle.

"There seems to be prevalent the thought that because prohibition has been put forward as a moral movement, everything which an advocate of that cause does, may be, and should be done. Better, sir, destroy every prohibition law than destroy the liberties of the American people. If a government can use millions of the taxpayers' money to create and pension an army of sneaks and spies to detect the wicked man, who wants to buy it, the same thing can be done in any other case. Once you establish the principle where will you stop?

"It is certain to be extended until no citizen will be free from secret surveillance. And that surveillance will finally embrace the private and political activities of the citizen.

"What I have seen of Gen. Andrews has given me the impression that he is about as decent a man as could be got to take the job he holds; but, just as certainly as the sun holds its place in the firmament, if we establish the custom of paying out money without an accounting, corruption will creep in, and graft and peculation will become a common practice.

A Thrust at Fall.

"If, sir, Cabinet officers have to be tried—Cabinet officers occupying a position so exalted that a breath of suspicion should never touch their garments—what shall we expect if the intellectual and moral lazzaroni of the earth are hired to spy upon the people to gain their confidence only that they may betray it for the 30 pieces of silver secretly handed them by a Government officer.

"It is time for a little old-fashioned Americanism to assert itself. It is time for the spirit of honor once more to raise its head in the republic—the honor that forbids man to betray his fellow man.

"Why, sir, evidence was given to the effect that prohibition agents had tried to induce college students to spy upon their roommates; yet the very soul of our great universities has hitherto been the high sense of honor, the spirit of camaraderie there inculcated. You had better burn all books in all the libraries, destroy all the learning of the ages, than destroy the sense of honor that honorable men learn at their fathers' knee and gain from their mothers' inspiration. Honor, shamefaced, flees in the presence of such an infamous legislative proposal as this thing we are now asked to accept."

VATICAN WORKERS SAY WAGE INCREASE ISN'T EQUITABLE

Group Protests Against Allotment of Increases Recently Granted by the Pope.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Dec. 16.—Minor employes of the Vatican are agitating for a readjustment of wage increases recently granted by the Pope.

Several months ago gardeners, cleaners, sweepers of the papal chambers and museum attaches declared they would strike unless they received more pay. Pope Pius announced a retroactive increase in wages and everybody seemed satisfied. But a few days ago a protest was made by a group of workers that the apportionment of back wages was not equitable; furthermore that those entrusted with the distribution failed to carry out the wishes of the Pope in that they had not consulted the laborers' foremen.

A report current in ecclesiastical circles that Mgr. Samper had offered his resignation as papal majordomo was denied at the Vatican. It was said that there would be no change among the Vatican officials resulting from the labor trouble.

New York Has 1600 Churches.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—There are 1600 churches in the city administering spiritual edification to 1,000,000 worshippers weekly. There are some 2000 theaters and dance halls, however, accommodating considerably more than 1,000,000 persons daily.

CATHOLIC PRELATES OF U. S. DECLARE MEXICAN LAWS VIOLATE HUMAN RIGHTS

Pastoral Letter, Answering Charges Against Catholicism, Was Drafted by Committee Which Included Archbishop Glennon.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The Catholic Episcopate of the United States, in its first pastoral letter since 1919, warns "Christian civilization that its foundations are again being attacked and undermined" by religious restrictions in Mexico.

The document, containing more than 12,000 words and compiled by a committee consisting of Cardinal Hayes, Archbishop Glennon of St Louis, Archbishop Dowling of St Paul, Bishop Schrembs of Cleveland, and Bishop Kelley of Oklahoma, is being sent to 30,000 clergymen and to Catholic organizations.

The Bishops say they are carrying the case of the church to the American people, following the example of President Calles, "who has come into the American forum through diplomatic and consular agencies and otherwise, in an attempt to justify the stand of his Government."

The bishops state the letter is not an appeal for political intervention or for action of any sort by the American Government.

"Our duty is done," it says, "when, by telling the story, defending the truth and emphasizing the principles, we sound a warning to Christian civilization that its foundations are again being attacked and undermined."

Judging by American Standards.

Cardinal Hayes says the letter is not designed to revive the religious controversy in Mexico but to set it at rest forever. The Mexican Government, in taking its case to the American people, must in turn be judged by American standards, he says.

The letter takes up the differences in religious and civil liberty under the American and Mexican constitutions and asserts "no American can accept the Mexican theory of Government as in accord with fundamental justice without repudiating his own traditions and ideals.

"In the commonly accepted American doctrine, a constitution vests the Government with such rights and powers as are necessary for the proper exercise of its just functions, and at the same time forbids it to encroach upon the rights of a higher order which come to man not from the people nor from the state, nor from any aggregation of states, but from the creator of both men and states, Almighty God. This conception is wholly in keeping with the teaching of the Catholic church.

Quotes Supreme Court.

The letter quotes from the Declaration of Independence, the Catholic theologian, Thomas Aquinas, the Supreme Court and Blackstone in support of the view that the dictates of conscience are in many cases superior to the enactments of the state when these are in clear contradiction of the divine law.

The letter compares the Mexican religious restrictions with liberal provisions in the United States for religious, educational and charitable agencies.

Charges of the Mexican Government against the church in Mexico, including those of undue wealth, of neglecting education, of entering politics, of opposing separation of church and state, are declared by the letter to have been fabricated for campaign purposes.

To meet these charges, the letter declares, the church has only to say:

"Show me one good thing in Mexico I did not give you. Show me one genius for whom I was not responsible. Show me one step toward the light that I did not help you take. Take out of your country all that I put in it, and see what remains.

"You may thrust me out, exile my Bishops, murder my priests, again steal my schools and desecrate my sanctuaries, but you cannot blot out history, you cannot erase the mark I made on you—not in a century of centuries."

Meeting Mexico's Appeal.

The Bishops, stating that the Mexican Government has appealed to the American public, the pastoral letter declares:

"The Government of Mexico cannot, therefore, object, under such circumstances, if the case it has thus presented for judgment be considered in the light of American principles as embodied in our fundamental laws; nor, since it appeals for the sympathy of Christians, if Christian principles be given due weight in considering its acts; nor since it claims great zeal for the advancement of education, if the statements it has presented in support of its pleading be submitted to the test of history.

"These are the things we purpose to do, so that not only will our own people be fully informed of the interests at stake, but that the Mexican people may not be without benefit of advocate before the court to which their rulers have actually but mistakenly appealed."

CARDINAL HAYES.

The bishops stated the letter "is no interposition of our influence either as bishops or as citizens to reach those who possess political power anywhere on earth and least of all in our own country, to the end that they should intervene with armed force in the internal affairs of Mexico for the protection of the church. Our duty is done when, by telling the story, defending the truth and emphasizing the principles, we sound a warning to Christian civilization that its foundations are again being attacked and undermined."

Limit To Rights of State.

"In the commonly accepted American doctrine," says the letter, "a constitution vests the government with such rights and powers as are necessary for the proper exercise of its just functions, and at the same time forbids it to encroach upon the rights of a higher order which come to man not from the people, nor from the state, nor from any aggregation of states, but from the Creator of both men and states, Almighty God. This conception is wholly in keeping with the teaching of the Catholic Church."

After quoting words expressing similar ideas in the pastoral of 1919, the Bishops continue:

"These words are in accord with both the natural and positive laws of God. They are in accord with the recognition of these laws by the founders of our republic. To give practical effect to them the first amendment to the Constitution, forbidding Congress to prohibit the free exercise of religion, was adopted, and by degrees a similar prohibition was inserted into the constitutions or bills of rights of the several states. These guarantees are more than part of the Federal Constitution and of the constitutions of the respective states. They are part of the constitution of the rights of men."

Mexican Legal Restriction.

The pastoral then recounts the various provisions of American law towards religious, educational and charitable agencies, and shows how they serve the cause of internal peace, and says:

"In contrast with this, according to the present constituion of Mexico, no religious society may enjoy the right of corporate legal existence. Officially, there are no churches in Mexico; for a church cannot possess anything, lacks the right of petition for redress of grievances, cannot sue or be sued in the civil courts, and in general is entirely without legal standing.

"Clergymen are disfranchised by the fact of ordination. A church cannot own the buildings in which its public worship is held.

It cannot possess endowments. It cannot take up a collection or a subscription outside the doors of the building used for religious services. That building, however, is owned by the Government, though paid for and supported by the people. The Government merely allows the rightful owner to use it at the good pleasure of State officials."

Other enactments are related by the letter.

"A church, therefore, cannot own anything cannot provide for its current expenses cannot provide for a future clergy. A native clergy is thus made impossible a fact which ordinarily would throw the burden of the religious care of the people upon strangers from other lands. To prevent the possibility of that happening, however, the law provides that no clergyman but a native-born Mexican may officiate in any act of worship. In application of this, foreign clergy have been expelled. The law first makes it impossible for the people to have

MOVE TO FOUND CIVIC LEADERSHIP CLUB IN ST. LOUIS

H. M. Bixby Presents His Idea to 135 Business Men Representing "Cross-Section" of City.

CHIEF AIM IS TO GET NEW INDUSTRIES

Mayor Miller Favors Diverting $30,000 Appropriation for City Advertising to New Club.

Mayor Miller announced today that he would favor discontinuing the annual appropriation—$30,000 last year—for municipal advertising in outside publications and making the same or a larger appropriation for the work of a proposed Industrial Club, which is to conduct a direct canvas to bring new industries here.

Formation of the Industrial Club was proposed by Harold M. Bixby, new president of the Chamber of Commerce, to a gathering of 135 business men at Hotel Chase last night. He planned to select 100 business executives as leaders of the effort to stimulate the industrial growth.

"Such an organization," the Mayor said today, "will be more effective than an advertising campaign. It will have field agents, who will canvass the country for possible new industries, and when they learn of a manufacturer who is looking for a new location or is planning expansion, they will call on him and present the facts in favor of a St. Louis location.

Need of Personal Touch.

"Advertising in a periodical is all right to sell articles of merchandise, but a man who is going to invest $500,000 or more in an industrial plant is not going to base his decision on an advertisement. He needs a personal visit.

"I wrote to the heads of three concerns which came here lately, as to the part which our municipal advertising campaign had in bringing them here, and I didn't learn that the ads were what brought them. They were concerns that had been named to me as having been brought here by the ads.

"The plan of Mr. Bixby, as outlined last night, is a good one, and I think the city should aid in carrying it out, with the appropriation we have been making for advertising, or even a larger amount."

Besides the $30,000 advertising appropriation, the city last year appropriated $5000 for the Convention and Publicity Bureau.

In the audience at last night's gathering were some men who have not identified themselves with organized effort to promote the business growth of the city since the days of the Business Men's League; others, younger men, who have not before been drawn into civic movements, and still others of wealth who have not previously been so strongly urged to give of their time as well as money; bankers, merchants, mnaufacturers, political leaders, described by Bixby as a "cross-section of modern St. Louis."

Bixby proposed that the new club concern itself first with obtaining new industries and introduced George C. Smith of Baltimore, accredited with having been the motive force of Baltimore's campaign for industries which achieved notable results—the acquisition of 300 new industries since 1919, the increase of that city's payroll by $15,000,000 annually and the increase of its taxable wealth by $1,000,000,000.

Committee to Form Club.

Bixby appointed a committee to organize the new club, which he suggested might be called "The Industrial Club of St. Louis," advised that the first meeting be held in January and that the activity of its membership be assured by a provision that absence from one meeting be penalized by fine, absence from two meetings by expulsion.

His committee follows: S. C. McCluney, chairman; L. Wade Childress, Thomas N. Dysart, Walter B. Weisenburger, H. H. Hopkins, James L. Ford Jr., Aaron Rauh, Tom K. Smith and John C. Tobin.

Mayor Miller declared that, as new bond projects were realized, more money would be required each year for general revenue from which to maintain them and asserted that the source of that revenue must be increased taxable wealth, such as new industries would create.

Baltimore Plan Sketched.

Smith outlined the Baltimore plan, founded upon thorough, convincing, accurate compilation of the city's advantages to all branches of industry and the presentation of these facts in a forceful way based upon the cost of doing business in Baltimore. Such specialized effort would require rather liberal provision of operat-

River Front Improvement.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THOUGH living in New York at present, I spent much of the past few years in my home town, and have kept in touch with the public improvements going on out there through being a subscriber to the Post-Dispatch. I think the scheme to improve the river front along the lines of the Wacker Drive in Chicago, as per diagram you published Tuesday, a great one. Let every citizen pull strong for it and immediately. A recent letter in your People's Column, signed by a life-long resident, condemning subways, saying the people who rode in them lived like rats in ratholes, breathing poisoned air, was a joke. I ride in subways here constantly, and for speed and comfort, with sufficient fresh air, you can't beat them. Wake up, St. Louisans, and go after that rapid transit.

Until you get it, I would suggest the following downtown street car changes: Widen Market street only as far east as Twelfth boulevard, the same as Olive. Take one car track off Market and one off Olive and Pine, leaving one track in exa center, for cars coming downtown. They could loop and come west to Twelfth or Thirteenth on other streets like Chestnut or Locust. This would give more room for automobiles coming downtown on Market, Pine and Olive, and Market would not have to be widened east of Twelfth.

Come on, St. Louis! Do away with the smoke nuisance at once. Fight the railroads tooth and nail on the surface crossings. Go after every public improvement, pay half and make the property owners pay half. They will get theirs back threefold. Get a big, red-blooded, fighting business man for Mayor, then let the State get the same type for Governor, then let us all get the same type for President of these United States. Fight prohibition, which has developed into prohi-bunk-tion; fight the fanatics, give us back the real old-time happy citizens, with their beer and wine gardens, happy wives and children. No more hypocrites or liberty-taking laws. Fight and fight hard. Don't give an inch. Whenever you see a fanatic head, punch it. Proclaim an end, now and forever, of all encroachment on individual rights. As for the United States Supreme Court, I bow my head in shame.

Ozark Spring Water for St. Louis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch

EVER since a camping trip the past summer to most of the big springs in the Ozark country I have been trying to find someone who could tell me why in the name of common sense St. Louis has not availed itself of these unexcelled sources of a perfect water supply. I cannot conceive of filtering the Chicago sewerage—and now the "soup" that comes down the Missouri River is to be used at an initial cost of $12,000,000 and these sources always becoming more and more polluted as years pass and population increases. It appears to me that these Ozark springs are impossible to contaminate or pollute and could be easily protected for all time to come with no cost for sedimentation, filtration, etc. First cost of piping would practically end it.

Why doesn't the city look 50 or 100 years ahead? I believe the water from these springs would come here by gravity but, even if every gallon had to be pumped it would cost no more than at present and the thought of drinking pure spring water would be worth most any price. It seems to me the $12,000,000 now being spent on the Missouri River plant would more than have paid to pipe water from Greer Spring, for instance, the flow of which, I understand, averages around 300,000,000 gallons per 24 hours, nearly double the amount used by the entire city on hottest summer day. If there is a reason for not using these sources of supply I'd be glad if some one would enlighten

"ESCULAPIUS."

Ford's Philanthropy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN an editorial of Dec. 14, entitled "Plain Business," you stated "it was good business for Ford to employ boys from 16 to 20 years of age." Do you know that Ford employs large numbers of men who are blind, men who are crippled, and old men, at men's wages, also Negroes at $1 per hour, and Jews? Ford is certainly a business man, but he mixes philanthropy with his labor selections and payroll. It is, too, an extremely patriotic idea.

The commercial men almost universally ignore the old man and woman and the boy from 16 to 20 years old, unless their services can be obtained at starvation wages. Are you aware, when the war draft was invoked, the old men replaced the younger men at work and proved more efficient and reliable, owing to their better experience?

Ford did not acquire his reputation through the press. The press cannot take it from him. He shares his prosperity with mankind, thereby making a noble citizen. These facts I positively know.

J. C. HAMPSON.

CLEAN UP THE ST. LOUIS BENCH.

Circuit Judge Anthony Ittner has withdrawn from the assignment to the Juvenile Court under pressure. The assignment was given him reluctantly and with protest by his fellow members of the Circuit bench. He obtained the assignment solely on the ground of pledges given him in advance, but the other Judges subsequently came to the belated but commendable conclusion that their obligation to the public had greater weight than their personal pledge to assign a Judge to a court for which they regarded him as unfit.

If Judge Ittner is unfit to serve as a Judge of the Juvenile Court, is he not unfit to serve on the bench? If his action with regard to slot machines and the acceptance of bondsmen with criminal records and without qualifications unfits him to serve in the Juvenile Court, how is it possible for him to serve efficiently and to retain the confidence of the public in any court?

The only action that would become Judge Ittner, after his withdrawal from the Juvenile Court under the adverse judgment of his fellow Judges is to withdraw from the Circuit bench. In view of the protest of the other Judges against his fitness for the Juvenile Court, he may be sure that there is a strong popular protest against his service on the bench in any court. If he himself believes that a Judge ought to have the respect and confidence of the public, and that the standards of the bench should be maintained, the conclusion is inevitable that both of these ends require his retirement.

We may add that a similar conclusion would become Judge Mix, whose conduct in the Rutherford case was a disgrace to the Circuit bench. The bench in St. Louis has degenerated. It needs a drastic cleaning up. It is contributing through the conduct of several members to popular disrespect for the laws, the courts and loss of confidence in the capacity and integrity of the judiciary. If the existing conditions are not corrected, increasing lawlessness will be the result.

It will be futile to amend the laws and improve the legal processes of justice, so long as the enforcement of the laws is in the hands of men whose conduct contributes to the increase of lawlessness.

THE SCHOOL BOARD'S SECRECY.

The Board of Education has again refused to change the rule of secrecy as to what happens in committee meetings, where the real business of the board is usually threshed out.

It must be admitted that some of the subjects that come before the committee are of such nature that mischief would result from making them public, such as the selection of school sites and the discussion of personalities.

But there are many other things of much interest to the public which are never heard of until they are presented at a meeting of the general board. Then they are acted upon perfunctorily or without such debate as would throw light upon them.

As a result of this condition, even members of the Board of Education do not know what is taking place. A measure which has been fully discussed in secret committee meeting is brought forward, and members not familiar with the secret procedure which has gone before are asked to register their opinions. The public is, of course, completely in the dark.

Another resolution to change this condition has been introduced and been referred to the Instruction Committee. This resolution would permit members to discuss publicly everything that happens in the committee, between the time it happens and the meeting of the general board, except such things as the committee decides by a three-fourths vote cannot properly be discussed.

Such a plan would make it possible for all board members to vote intelligently. It would acquaint the public with school problems. It would enable the Superintendent to explain policies in process of formation.

It seems to us that this offers a reasonable solution of the situation.

PROMOTION FROM WITHIN.

In appointing Thomas H. Cutler chief engineer to succeed B. H. Piepmeier, who has resigned, and L. Z. Lozier legal adviser, the State Highway Commission has formally adopted a policy of promotion from within the organization. Mr. Cutler has been chief of the Construction Bureau and Mr. Lozier right-of-way attorney.

This policy is sound and will be approved by the people of Missouri. Broadly speaking, it is in general effect throughout the business world, where experience has shown that it makes for better morale by furnishing an incentive to ambitious subordinates. It is just, too, as well as politic.

The commission, it seems, has run counter to the Governor in the two appointments just made. Mr. Baker is reported to have had candidates for both places. It may well be that the men preferred by the Governor would have been competent officers. Nevertheless, their selection would have carried the odor of political patronage, which is something religiously to be avoided in the Highway Department.

Under the law creating it the commission is a bipartisan board, and the law necessarily assumes that the board will function as such. To do so it must exercise its own judgment, influenced by no consideration other than the department's efficiency. Full respect for the letter and purpose of the law requires that the Governor's authoritative relation to the commission ends when he has chosen commissioners as vacancies from time to time occur or terms expire.

WALTER DAMROSCH.

Damrosch is a great name in American musical history. Walter Damrosch, who has just resigned as conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, came to this country as a boy of 9 from his birthplace in Prussia. His father, Leopold, founded the New York Oratorio and Symphony societies, and induced the Metropolitan to undertake the performance of German operas. Walter took up the work his father left when he died in 1885; like Leopold, Wlater is a composer, an innovator, a leader in musical movements. Walter is a great Wagnerian and was the first to present Wagnerian operas without operatic accessories.

Damrosch is an irrepressible teacher of the gospel of good music. He seized upon the radio as the means to spread it. He points out that by using the radio for two or three years he can reach more people than he has played to and talked to in his 42 years as conductor. In dropping his heavy tasks as conductor of the New York Symphony, Damrosch is only lightening his armor. He is still the apostle of good music. His voice will still be heard in far-off places telling the heroic tales of the Wagnerian operas, and explaining the music with which they are immortally knit.

PRESS GAG IN BRITAIN.

The vicious elements of the aristocracy and the idle rich in Great Britain can now disport themselves as scandalously as they please, without fear of publicity in the divorce courts. The British Parliament has gagged the press, so far as the details of divorce cases are concerned. The public will be ignorant henceforth of any scandalous misconduct in connection with marriage and divorce.

The British people have been shocked by disclosures in connection with several recent divorces. The British Parliament does not propose that they shall be shocked again, no matter how much shocking misconduct may take place. They want the British public, so far as the immorality and corruption of society is concerned, to live in a fool's paradise.

The shock should not be so much on account of the disclosure of scandalous conduct as on account of the scandalous conditions. Until conditions are improved, nothing is improved. The gagging of the press merely relieves the scandal elements of society of the fear of publicity. It also deprives Great Britain of the moral force of publicity. That may not be sufficient to redeem society, but it is at least a wholesome restraint.

LIFE WITHOUT THOUGHT.

Mr. Gladstone thought we were not the mental equals of the Greeks, and both Prof. Conklin of Yale and Prof. Millikan of California assent to the postulate that there has not been any thinking in 3000 years. Corroboration of this view is not by any means lacking. We have just had an instance of it in "The Story of Philosophy," by Durant. He says there are three ethics: (1) That of Christ and Buddha, which makes humility the great virtue; (2) that of Nietszche and Machiavelli, which makes might the great virtue; (3) that of Socrates, Plato and Aristotle, which makes intelligence the great virtue.

It does not take us long to decide which of those has the best thinking behind it. Yet it came to us from remote time—a time that has charmed the imagination of everybody interested in human thought. The ethic of Christ and Buddha is beautiful, just as that of Nietszche and Machiavelli is revolting; but the ethic of the great Greeks has the quality of intellect in it. It is straight thinking. It is practicable. The world has accepted it as such. Time has never gainsaid it. It is so, and it is the foundation upon which all civilization must perforce stand. Is it any wonder that we, who are less than they were, despite our mechanistic efficiency, our miraculous materialism, the wonders of science, now and then look back, as Gladstone, Mill, Conklin, Millikan, and so many have done, and exclaim our admiration for men who could think like that?

Nobody has believed that man can regain such an estate. Prof. Conklin thinks not. Mr. Gladstone thought not. It is the judgment of Gilbert Murray, of Mr. Wells, of Spinoza. Nor does anyone know how it happened. It was a phenomenon which sucked the human mind dry for all time before and after it. The Romans, says Durant, never tried to think. They left us not one philosopher. How could they, after the Greeks? It was like being the next man on the batting list after Babe Ruth. The Romans turned themselves to government, to law, to commerce. We have turned to the machine. Each of us took what was left. We have life without thought.

It is sophistry to say that we are better off than the Greeks were. To say so is to deny the great ethic given us by Socrates, Plato and Aristotle.

AN AMERICAN SUPERIORITY.

Our national trait of lavish expenditure has at last justified itself. The soap produced in the United States in 1925 was valued at $270,273,000.

We may be a nation of spendthrifts. We may throw away millions yearly on synthetic gin, chewing gum and other superfluities. But at the same time we buy soap.

We may, as even our most charitable European critics tell us, be one of the backward nations in most of the so-called higher accomplishments of civilization. Our music may be primitive, our art may be imitative and our literature may be little more than promising. But at least we do bathe. We are, as a nation, offensive to neither eye nor nose.

THE IRISH POTATO.

The year now closing, already made memorable for the shattering of records and reputations in almost every field from athletics to statesmanship, now writes into its record another busted bubble—the ancestry of what is known as the Irish potato.

Legend has it that Sir Walter Raleigh brought it back to Europe from Virginia—or, if not Raleigh, then Sir Francis Drake. You could always take your choice, but both accounts agreed that it was from North America that the Old World received a new article of food, destined to change the diet of many peoples.

Now comes a most learned scientist, William E. Safford, and in an article reproduced in the newly issued annual report of the Smithsonian Institution, he proves the statement that the potato was found growing in North America by English colonists is untrue; the Raleigh and Drake stories are pure myths; that the potato originated in Chile, was carried to Europe by Spaniards in 1580, was cultivated as a field crop in Ireland before 1663, and reached this continent in 1719, when some Irish immigrants, settling in what is now New Hampshire, brought the potato to our shores.

So goes on the shelf another interesting bit of misinformation from the past.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

BUSSES AND STREET CARS.

From the Washington Post.

AN additional chapter in the history of the rivalry between street car and bus interests has been written by the St. Louis Board of Aldermen. For the last four or five years busses and street cars have been allowed to compete on the streets of that city with practically no regulation, largely because some city officials thought such competition would improve service and keep down fares. The results were quite the opposition, for fares increased and service suffered until the transportation situation became chaotic. Upon insistence by the public that relief of some sort be provided, the board set out upon an exhaustive survey of urban transportation in most of the large cities of this country and South America, as well as in Paris, Berlin and London. The survey consumed two years in preparation, and has just been made public.

In brief, the board has found that motor busses will not supersede but will supplement street cars; that motor-bus competition with street railways causes wasteful duplication of service; that motor busses cannot handle mass transportation as satisfactorily as the trolley car.

Municipal authorities and traffic experts are realizing more and more the truth of the statement that in handling the movement of large masses of people the street car has to be the main dependence. In Chicago, for instance, whereas street cars constitute but 10 per cent of the traffic, they carry 74 per cent of the traveling public. The 1926 traffic census of Baltimore showed that trolleys made up 9 per cent of the traffic, but moved 68 per cent of the people. Similar figures obtain practically everywhere.

Apparently the best method of meeting city transportation needs is by a street car system which operates busses as feeders.

THE RELIGIOUS ISSUE.

From the New York Times.

IF the opposition to Gov. Smith is to take the form merely of attacking him on account of his religion, then there ought to be no hesitation on the part of all men in every party who really believe in religious liberty. The other qualifications or disqualifications of Gov. Smith for the presidency are fairly open to debate. If may be honestly contended that his political affiliations have been a handicap; that his training and education have not been such as to make us think of him as an ideal President; that his grasp of national affairs is not adequate. All these things, and others like them, may be argued in the open forum of legitimate political discussion. But to say that he must be ruled out solely because he is a Catholic is to fall back on such a spirit of intolerance and inequality and stupid prejudice that the impulse of millions of Americans will be that they ought to drop everything else in order to exorcise it in this country once for all.

THE OUTCRY AGAINST CHRISTMAS TREES.

From Nature Magazine.

WHEN one is told that the cutting of Christmas trees entails waste and injury to our forests, is it not in order to balance the joy and the lasting influence of the Christmas tree as against a page or two of the crude and often brutal comic section of a Sunday supplement?

In Lewis Carroll's book, "Sylvie and Bruno," is a definition of sobriety that may perhaps be applicable in this connection. He says: "Sobriety is a good thing when practiced in moderation, but when carried to an extreme even it has disadvantages. When a man is tipsy (that is one extreme), he sees one thing as two. But when he is extremely sober (the other extreme), he sometimes sees two things as one. Both are equally inconvenient." The conservation of the forest through wise use is one thing, and a very vital one to us in this country today. The attempt to preserve the forest by forbidding the cutting of trees is quite another, and wholly unwarrantable thing. Do not those who decry the use of Christmas trees rather incline to extreme sobriety? The only problem connected with Christmas trees that is worth troubling about is how to make it possible that every family in our broad land shall have its own Christmas tree.

THE OLDEST FIRE.

From Thrift Magazine.

WHAT is believed to be the oldest fire in the world, excepting volcanoes, is in a coal mine at Summit Hill, Pa. This fire has been burning since before the Civil War. It was started through the careless handling of live embers in 1859. From these embers the fire spread to the timbers and then into the coal deposits, where it since has been smoldering. It has destroyed 14,000,000 tons of coal and $3,000,000 has been wasted in futile efforts to extinguish it. It is one of the most striking examples in existence of the dire results that often come from carelessness in little things.

"Of Making Many Books"

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

The Three Travelers

AT the age of 7 Zona Gale, whose new novel is "Preface to a Life," began writing fiction with "The Three Travelers." Here is the complete story:

The sun was sinking behind the western hills when three travelers appeared, walking very fast, for it was getting dark and they were all alone. One was tall with long whiskers and gray hair. One was short with a brown mustache. The other was middle sized with a bare face. Suddenly down the path came a beautiful maiden. The short man loved her right away and so did the tall man. The short man asked her: "What is your name?" She replied, "I am lost." The short man offered to show her the way to town, but when they reached there the tall man stepped up and said: "Will you marry me?" And the maiden answered: "N—yes, I will, too." And so they were married and lived happily ever afterward.

PORTRAITS AND PORTENTS. By A. G. Gardner. (Harpers.)

A. G. GARDNER, former editor of the London Daily News, has added another collection of brilliant contemporary portraits to his private gallery of "War Lords" and "Priests, Prophets and Kings." As the title of his new volume indicates, his interest in the personalities with which he deals transcends the merely personal. "I have attempted," he says, "to present some of the salient aspects of the time in terms of personalities which embody those aspects." He draws his "portraits" of outstanding men by way of getting at the larger meaning of their eminence. Thirty-seven celebrities are painted, or rather etched, and each represents some particular aspect of significant modern activities. Among the Americans treated are President Coolidge, Henry Ford and Charles Chaplin. His appraisal of the President is characteristic. After discussing Mr. Coolidge's "negative gifts," he ends with the following passage: "He represents the mind of America in reaction. It has swung back from the mood of chivalrous adventure to the mood of self-interest, from the role of world deliverer to the role of America first, last and always. Of this transition, Calvin Coolidge, with his rigid ideas of the sanctity of property, his respect for convention and his parsimony of spirit, is representative. Himself the least avaricious of men, he has become the instrument of ideas and aims of material wealth as a goal of Americanism. He is no enigma. If there is an enigma, it is the American that can pass so easily from a great emotion to a vision so poor and parochial as that which possesses it today."

In dealing with Charlie Chaplin and Henry Ford, Mr. Gardner is much kinder, seeing in each of these a great democratic benefactor of mankind.

VALENTINO AS I KNEW HIM. (Macy-Masius, New York.) By S. George Ullman.

THE late Rudolph Valentino's real name was as follows: Rodolpho Alfonso Raffaelo Pierre Filibert Guglielmi di Valentina d'Antonguolla. It was when he came to America, where time is money, that he chose to be known as simply Rudolph Valentino. It would appear from a cursory glance through his biography written by his dearest friend, George Ullman, that the real man, Valentino, was as far removed from the popular conception of him as the difference between his real and assumed names. As a famous movie actor, he was largely a commodity on sale like any other commodity for which a popular demand is created. Mr. Ullman has undertaken to present the human being as he was known to a trusted pal. The book is written con amore, and if there are occasional overstatements, they may be attributed to the lovable nature of the character under discussion.

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION. By Nesta B. Webster. Dutton.

IT is probably true that the vast majority of people who have any definite conception of the French Revolution are indebted for it, either directly or indirectly, to Carlyle's great prose epic, which, as historians agree, is a tremendous work of art, but not dependable history. It is the purpose of Mrs. Webster, in the work here considered, to dispose of the ideas popularized by Carlyle and his followers. The Revolution, as the author sees it in the light of contemporary documents recently discovered, was not the spontaneous outbreak of a people long oppressed, but the result of a deliberate conspiracy of the Orleanist faction, aided by France's foreign enemies, chiefly Frederick of Prussia.

The great social upheaval of the late 18th century in France is here considered, for the first time, solely "as an experiment in democracy." King, nobility and revolutionary leaders are considered only in their relation to the cause of democracy, which, according to Mrs. Webster, was lost. "I am convinced," she says, in summing up the arguments of a brilliant and important study, "that the French Revolution was not an advance towards democracy but a directly anti-democratic and reactionary movement; that it was not a struggle for liberty, but an attempt to strangle liberty at its birth." The leaders of the Revolution are seen as "the cruellest enemies of the people," who were "the victims of a gigantic conspiracy." "It was this conspiracy," Mrs. Webster affirms, "that alone triumphed in the Revolution; it was the same great intrigues at work amongst the people in 1789 that survived all the storms that followed and that now once again threaten the peace of the world."

Jerome K. Jerome wrote "Three Men in a Boat" at the age of twenty-nine and became world-famous as a humorist. At forty-seven he published "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," and was immediately recognized as a dramatist of extraordinary power. In the course of a checkered career he has been clerk, school teacher, journalist, actor, editor and novelist. He has known most of the famous men and women in the theatrical and literary circles of England of his day. Now at the age of sixty-five he has published his memoirs under the title "My Life and Times." Considering the rich experience of the man, his wide acquaintance with eminent contemporaries and the geniality of his nature, the volume is certain to be both important and delightful.

native clergy and then impossible to have a foreign clergy, while the Government keeps assuring the world of its liability and that there is no religious persecution in Mexico.

"It is scarcely necessary to set down the conclusions that naturally flow from the contrast we have made. They are at once apparent and must convince right-thinking men and women that there can be no relationship between the principles upon which the Mexican Constitution is built, the laws that embody them, the spirit with which it is proposed they shall be enforced, and the principles, laws and spirit that are held sacred by the American people."

The second part of the pastoral is taken up with answering various charges that have been made against the church in Mexico. Charges of undue wealth, of neglecting education, of entering politics, of opposing separation of church and state, are declared to be without foundation, to have been fabricated for campaign purposes, and refuuted by the facts of history. The pastoral closes with these words:

"For the sad days of decline, the church, forbidden by law to teach and robbed of the means to carry on her mission of enlightenment, has only to show her chains, and say to her enemies:

"'You blame me for poverty, yet you took from me the endowments for my hospitals, my orphanages, my countless works of mercy.

"'You blame me for ignorance, yet you closed my schools, and stole my colleges, the first to light the torch of learning on this continent.

"'You say that I have added nothing to science and art, but you destroyed the art I brought with me and developed, burned my books and scattered the results of my labor for science to the four winds of Heaven.

"'You blame me for lawlessness, yet you destroyed my missions among a peaceful and striving Indian population, and gave to them in place of Christ's gospel, the 30 pieces of silver with which you bribed them to murder their fellows. You took the cross out of their hands to replace it with a torch and gun.'

"To the Bishops, the Clergy and the Faithful of Mexico we inscribe this defense of their history and their rights, not alone as a duty to the faith we hold in common, but as a testimony to their fortitude under trial and to the justice they preach in their dignified and legitimate demands.

"We bid them be of good cheer, for to Mexico in affliction may the significant words of the Master to the apostle of the gentiles, be once more applied: 'This man is to me a vessel of election, to carry my name before the gentiles, and King, and the children of Israel. For I will show him great things he must suffer for my name's sake.'"

CHAUNCEY LADD, 71, DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Director and Former Treasurer of Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. Found Dead in Bed.

The funeral of Chaunecy Ladd, 71 years old, director and former treasurer of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., will be tomorrow afternoon at his home, 41 Washington terrace. He died unexpectedly yesterday, being found dead in his bed at 9 a. m. He had been suffering from heart trouble.

Mr. Ladd came to St. Louis in 1879 from his native place, Quincy, Ill., and became a traveling salesman for Hamilton-Brown. He was one of the most active and successful members of the selling organization developed by the late Alanson D. Brown, president of the company, and he worked on the road 21 years. He was then treasurer of the company and manager of the main store until 1914.

He became a large stockholder in the company, and after his retirement from active service he continued as a director, and was at the office frequently. He visited the office the afternoon before his death.

Two sisters and a brother survive Mr. Ladd, who never married. Following the funeral, the body will be taken to Quincy for burial.

Monday afternoon, Dec. 27, Mrs. Leighton Shields, sister of Mr. Krause, of 3665 Delmar boulevard, will give a bridge party and tea for her prospective sister-in-law, and the evening of the same day Miss Louise Keeshan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Keeshan, will be hostess at a party at the home of her parents, 6162 Kingsbury place. Mrs. Thomas Hurley of 4515 Maryland avenue will give a bridge party Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 28, and that evening the bridal party will be entertained by Earl Giraldin at a supper party. Miss Lois Engel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Engel of 6252 Westminster place, will give a bridge luncheon for Miss Muckerman the following afternoon.

The bridal party will be entertained by Horace Krause and Elliott Whitbread at a supper party at Hotel Chase, Wednesday evening. A similar affair will be given Thursday night, Dec. 30, by Paul Oehler. Mr. Krause will give his bachelor dinner at the University Club Friday night, and will have as guests, in addition to the men of the bridal party, Blair Abbott and Thomas Hurley. The following Monday evening Miss Gladys Muckerman, who will be maid of honor for her sister, will give a supper party at Hotel Chase after the rehearsal for the wedding. The guests will be the members of the bridal party and Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Shields and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Krause.

The wedding will take place at 11 a. m. in the St. Louis Cathedral and will be followed by a wedding breakfast and a reception at the Muckerman home. The bridal party will consist of the following: Miss Gladys Muckerman, maid of honor, Miss Lois Engel, Miss Louise Keeshan, Miss Ruth Krause and Miss Virginia Tenk of Quincy, Ill., bridesmaids. Mr. Krause will have his brother, Horace Krause, as his best man and Elliott Whitbread, Earl Giraldin, Paul Oehler, William Kieffer and William Prior Shelton of Kansas City, as groomsmen.

Miss Gladys Muckerman, who is a student at the Brownson School in New York, will arrive this week to spend the holidays with her parents and take part in her sister's wedding.

Lady McMillan of Berkeley Square, London, wife of the late Sir William Northrup McMillan, wealthy South African land owner and big game hunter, departed a day or two ago for the East after a brief visit here with Mr. and Mrs. William K. Bixby of 26 Portland place. Because of mourning, the visit was a quiet one, and no parties were given. Lady McMillan will visit a sister in Springfield, Mass., before returning to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. N. David Thompson of 470 Lake avenue, will entertain a group of the young college set and a few of the debutantes and their escorts at an informal tea Sunday afternoon complimenting their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, who is a member of the junior class at Vassar College. Miss Thompson will arrive in St. Louis Sunday morning from Cleveland, O., where she is spending a few days.

A progressive subscription dinner party as a New Year's eve celebration has been arranged by a group of the young married set. The appetizers are to be served at John Nulsen's home, 3417 Longfellow boulevard; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Reichardt of 3232 Longfellow boulevard, will have the next course at their home, and after an intervening course, the hosts for which have not been decided, the guests will motor to the home of Mrs. J. S. Klein in Wydown terrace, whose daughter, Miss Eleanor, will serve the dessert.

The members of the party will include Mr. and Mrs. Edmund O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ridgeley Young, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell, Miss Miriam Collins, William Crowell, Bruce Brown and Walter Boehmer. An orchestra will travel from house to house with them as entertainers.

Miss Jane Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Allen of 2010 Longfellow boulevard, will return home tomorrow from Mount Holyoke College for the Christmas holidays. A number of parties have been planned for her.

Judge and Mrs. Glendy B. Arnold have sent out invitations for a dinner dance at the Bellerive Country Club, Monday evening, Dec. 27, in honor of Miss Jane Allen Connett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Connett of 4422 Lindell boulevard.

Mrs. Arthur W. Southward and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Dudley Southward, will give a tea tomorrow afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock, at her home, 6135 Kingsbury boulevard. There will be 300 guests and the colors will be in red roses and palms. Mrs. Southward's daughter-in-law will receive with the hostess, as will Mrs. Edward Kettler of Milwaukee, Wis., who is visiting her.

PUBLICATIONS PUBLICATIONS

NEW BOOKS by JOHN G. NEIHARDT
Literary Editor of the Post Dispatch

Collected Poems

The first three parts of Neihardt's epic cycle of the West are included in this collection, with earlier lyrics and dramatic poems. Of this work reviewers have said:

"It is a tremendous piece of work, splendidly done." — New York Sun.

"Neihardt is writing a national epic cycle . . . He is leaving us a legacy of heroic and inspiring literature." — Cleveland Plain Dealer. $4.00

Indian Tales and Others

"Must be counted as among the most successful in the Indian field. What we can certainly say of his Indian stories is that they are as fine and as true as we are willing to have them." — New York Evening Post. Illustrated $2.50

For sale at all bookstores. A booklet describing John G. Neihardt's work and relating the main events of his life will be sent to anyone on request.

GLUE ON POSTAGE STAMPS IS REALLY GOOD TO EAT

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. — Regardless of the sanitary question as the licking of postage stamps as it might affect others, the licker has no need to fear harmful effects from the operation.

On the contrary, the Postoffice Department says the gum is really food-stuff material, and they are afraid to make it more palatable by adding flavoring because that might be an incentive for users to remove too much of the adhesive, and thus get the postoffice people into trouble with an overload of mail to be sent back for postage.

The gum used has been so good that many have asked for its composition. It is composed of 88 per cent cassava detrin, a starch obtained from certain South American plants which is used in making tapioca and cassava bread. Ten per cent of corn detrin and about two per cent glucose completes the mixture.

INVISIBLE RAY SEES, UNSEEN IN DARKNESS, INVENTOR SAYS

In War User Can Follow Movements of Foes Without Their Knowing It, Briton Asserts.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Seeing in total darkness by means of an invisible ray is declared by the Daily Mail to be possible through an invention of John L. Baird, a British scientist. Baird is quoted as saying that he achieved the result with his televisor by isolating and then employing rays which are outside the visible spectrum.

The human eye is unable to see these rays, but the sensitive electric eyes of his apparatus selects them readily. The Mail's representative describes how he sat in total darkness and saw the complete outlines of a colleague also in the dark, at a distance projected upon a screen by Baird's invisible searchlight.

Baird asserts that the invisible ray can be focused and flashed through lenses like ordinary searchlights, but that it is more penetrative and can be thrown farther than any visible ray, and can pierce fog more readily.

Capt. O. G. Hutchinson, who is associated with Baird, says in warfare it would be possible to follow an enemy's movements in darkness; it would disclose the position of airplanes at night and enable those employing the ray to watch the approach without the pilot's knowledge.

NICARAGUANS ADVANCING ON STRONGHOLD OF DIAZ

Insurgents Defeat Government Troops in One Encounter, Taking Prisoners and Arms.

By the Associated Press.

SAN SALVADOR, Salvador, Dec. 16.—Advices received here from Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, that the seat of the Liberal government set up by former Vice President Juan Sacasa, say Liberal forces have begun an advance and that a column has left the Atlantic coast and is advancing on the Department of Matagalpa, in the direction of Managua, capital of Nicaragua and seat of the Conservative Government of President Adolfo Diaz.

A detachment of Government troops was reported to have been defeated in the Department of Nuevo Segovia, many prisoners being captured by the rebels, as well as war material.

The reports state that the Liberal forces are advancing into the interior and dominating the entrance to the town of Jinnotega. Other columns are reported to have begun an advance on Leon and Chinandega.

SOVIET TRADE ENVOY WILL COME TO U. S., BERLIN HEARS

American Acceptance of Amtorg Said to Be Significant After Barring of Sokolnikoff.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—Piatakoff Amtorg, who held an important post in the soviet trade department until his recent participation in the Trotzky opposition movement, will leave shortly for the United States to take over the directorship of an unofficial soviet trade office, according to the Moscow correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt.

The dispatch points out that American acceptance of the appointment is significant in view of Washington's previous refusal to admit Sokolnikoff.

It was reported last June that former Finance Minister Sokolnikoff of Russia intended to visit the United States for financial negotiations. On July 13 the State Department said there was no record of any application for a passport visa, but added that if a visa were requested it would be refused, because of Sokolnikoff's connection with the Executive Committee of the Third International.

MOVE TO FOUND CIVIC LEADERSHIP CLUB IN ST. LOUIS

ing funds and Bixby suggested that $50,000 be raised for the St. Louis effort the first year.

Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Co., seconded Bixby's appeal for a personal interest among the men present, and J. Lionberger Davis, chairman of the board of the Security National Bank, pledged $1000 toward the fund.

In his speech, Bixby made frank confession that the Chamber of Commerce had lost its leadership. He thought that Chambers of Commerce in other cities had slipped back and he was convinced, he said, that the stimulus of his new club would restore that leadership. In any event, he said, he proposed to try to create a leadership that had the force and wealth to get action when action was needed.

Municipal Advertising Record.

The system of municipal advertising, in weekly and monthly publications of national circulation, and in Eastern daily papers, was instituted under Mayor Kiel's administration. The city's appropriation, which was $30,000 last year, was conditioned in each case on the raising of at least an equal sum by the Chamber of Commerce.

The committee in charge of the advertising campaign reported last April that, in the six years of the advertising campaign, 196 new industries had been established here, and that 63 of these were traceable directly to the advertising campaign. Some 50 other cities it was shown, have had similar advertising campaigns in the same period.

PACKING BASKETS IS NEXT STEP TO CHRISTMAS CHEER

Pennant Building Store Is Donated for That Service and Post-Dispatch Festival Workers Start Monday.

APPLICATION NOTES BEING INVESTIGATED

Gifts of 1344 Packages of Tobacco and Three Rarrels of Apples Assure More Happiness.

Yesterday was the last day, under the rules of the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival, for receiving applications for Christmas dinner baskets. All these letters, whether received at the Post-Dispatch or through the various welfare agencies, have been turned over to the Social Service Exchange for investigation, elimination of duplicates and listing. This is now being done by a corps of workers under the direction of Miss Mary Alexander.

The next step will be the packing of the baskets with food and toys. This will begin Monday morning at the Pennant Building, Seventeenth and Locust streets, by a large force of Volunteers under the direction of Mrs. A. H. Sippy, who has had charge of this work for years. Finding a suitable building, centrally located, for packing the baskets has always been one of the festival problems.

This year the basket distributing committee, of which Comptroller Louis Nolte is chairman, assisted by C. L. Cunningham, has been more than fortunate in obtaining the large vacant store on the first floor of the fine new Pennant Building, which was tendered as a workroom and distribution point by the owners, Richard T. Shelton of 1508 Washington avenue and Eugene F. Williams of the First National Co. Not only is the store centrally located, but it is spacious and attractive and is on the main downtown automobile thoroughfare, Locust street.

Site Is Historic.

The site of the building is historic. It was originally occupied by the Second PresbyterianChurch, of which the late Rev. Dr. S. J. Niccolls was pastor for more than 50 years. The church building was sold in 1899 and was used as the Scottish Rite Cathedral until the new home was built on Lindell boulevard. Last summer the old edifice was torn down and a new modern fireproof office building erected, covering the entire site, 100 by 125 feet.

The unfortunate men who find shelter at the Municipal Lodging House and a haven at the city institutions are assured of a solacing smoke Christmas day. This has been made possible by the donation of 1344 packages of tobacco by the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. and the purchase of "Missouri meerschaum" pipes to go with the tobacco.

There will be no lack of apples for the dinner baskets. In addition to the purchases, three barrels of Shenandoah Valley Stayman winesap apples have been donated by Ben S. Pearson of 703 North Thirteenth street. These apples were grown and packed at Mr. Pearson's orchards in the famed Shenandoah Valley of Virginia and have the real Virginia flavor.

Mother May eGt Clothing.

A bundle of clothing has been left by an anonymouse donor at the Christmas Festival office in the Post-Dispatch Building for the mother of eight children whose appealing letter was printed in the Post-Dispatch Tuesday evening. It cannot be delivered because the woman's address was not given. She can obtain the clothing by calling at this office.

NAVY TO MOVE RADIO STATION

Broadcasting Equipment at Arlington to Be Taken to Washington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The Navy's powerful broadcasting station NAA, at Arlington, Virginia, will be moved to the Navy Yard in this city, the Navy Department announced, to eliminate interference by other stations which has affected its efficiency. The three huge wireless towers there will be kept intact, however, for reception purposes.

The station is rated by the Bureau of Standards as one of the seven standard frequency broadcasting stations of the country and is maintained by the Government for transmitting official business. Sometimes it gives an entertainment program.

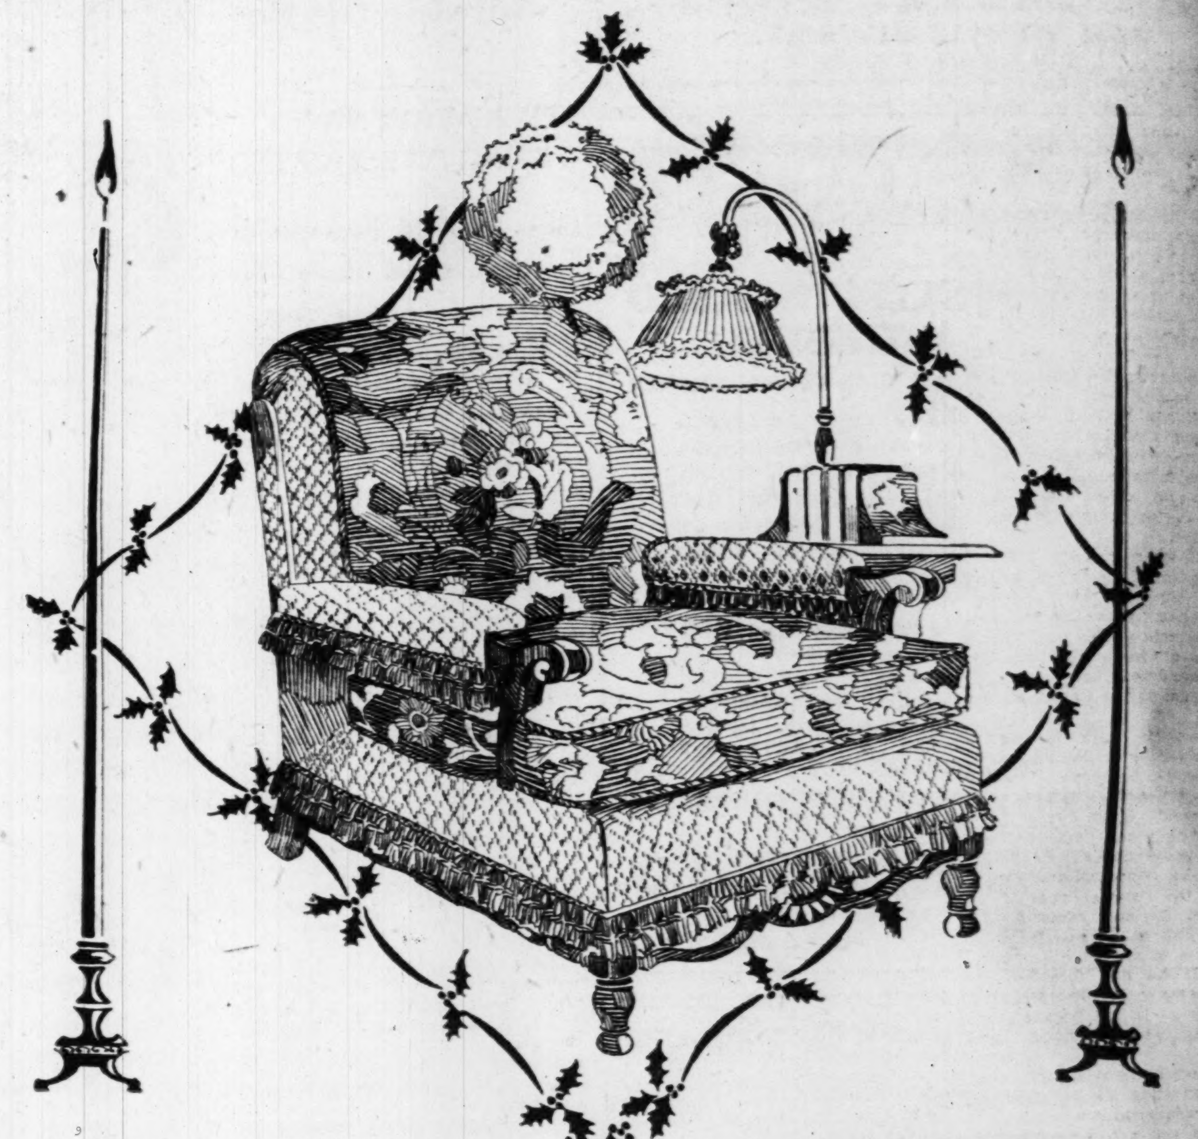
Never Before in St. Louis So Great a Selection —of— COXWELL CHAIRS



No Less Than 53 Separate Patterns Included

JUST before Christmas we are fortunate in being able to offer an absolutely unmatched collection of Coxwell chairs. As a luxurious Christmas gift nothing approaches a Lammert Coxwell. As a lounging chair in the Living Room, its deep inclined seat and expansive arms invites you to complete relaxation.

The advantages of purchasing a Lammert Coxwell were never more pronounced than at this time. Our selection was never more complete, embracing as it does 53 separate and distinct patterns of covers and variations of style. To further compel your attention we are featuring many of the numbers for Christmas selling at reduced prices. Even though you have not thought of a Coxwell as a gift, view this collection. We venture to say you never saw an array more diversified or extensive. The prices range from $29.75 to $175.00.

There Are Coxwells in Mohair

Some in plain mohair, others in figured mohair with various other covers used in combination. Some are trimmed with fringe, some piped with mauss. Some with down-filled cushions. All very attractively designed for long service.

There Are Coxwells in Linen Frieze

Linen frieze, because of its deep pile and rugged texture, is most desirable as a covering for Coxwell chairs and we have a great number in this cover. Some are covered entirely in linen frieze, others are upholstered in combinations.

There Are Coxwells in Brocatelle

To attempt to list all the fabrics used on these Coxwells is to enumerate practically all the accepted coverings now in vogue. Brocatelles you will find in profusion used with tapestries, damasks, velours and mohairs. Some of the chairs have down cushions.

There Are Coxwells in Hand Needlepoint

The acme of luxury in a Coxwell has a loose down cushion seat with solid walnut frame covered entirely in genuine hand needle-point of a most brilliant coloring. No matter how much you spend you cannot possibly buy anything better than this.

Tapestry and Velour Coxwells

These Chairs represent unusually good values. They are large, well built and comfortable with loose cushion seat and solid walnut arms. There are various combination patterns in tapestry and velour. Featured at.................. $29.75

"THE GRAY PHANTOM'S ROMANCE"

A Mystery Story to Baffle the Shrewdest

By HERMAN LANGDON

Adventure--Thrills--Suspense--Surprises

INSTALLMENT THIRTY.

He had slept soundly, and now he was refreshed in body and mind. He inspected his surroundings with a keen eye. The little room was admirably adapted to the purposes of a cell. Even if he were inclined to shout for help, the shutters doubtless would render such an effort useless. The room was sparsely lighted by an electric bulb in the ceiling and he noted that the door, walls and floor had a substantial appearence. The only objects within his reach were the cot and a table.

His face fell as he took an inventory of his pockets, noticing that all that remained of his belongings was a watch and a handkerchief. His wallet, with Dan the Dane's pistol, was gone, and so was the little metal box that on so many occasions had enabled him to squeeze out of tight corners. The chain was not heavy, but strong enough to resist all the force he could muster, and each end was fastened in a way that left him no hope of escape.

"The worthy doctor is taking no chances," he muttered. "He has left me as helpless as a new-born babe. Wonder where I am?"

He had no idea where the black limousine had taken him, for it had traveled a devious course, and he had been chloroformed before it reached its destination. He was certain he was not in Doctor Bimble's house, for he had searched that dwelling from cellar to attic and there had been no room in it that resembled this one. Probably it was in some other house controlled by Doctor Bimble or one of his associates.

After all, where he was did not matter greatly. The one thing that concerned him was his helplessness, for evidently the doctor had taken every conceivable precaution against his prisoner's escape. Everything considered, it was as hopeless a situation as the Phantom had ever faced.

A glance at his watch told him it was nearly 4 o'clock. He had eight hours in which to accomplish the seemingly impossible before the doctor should learn from his agents that they had been sent out on a wild-goose chase. He shuddered as he contemplated what would be the consequences if he failed. Yet, he told himself, the course he had taken was the only one possible under the circumstances. If he had directed the doctor's agents to Sea Glimpse, Helen's usefulness to the organization would have been ended, and then——

He turned quickly as the door opened, admitting Doctor Bimble, with a newspaper in his hand.

"Thought you would be interested in the news about Pinton," began the doctor, advancing somewhat cautiously and taking care not to step within the narrow half circle that bounded his prisoner's movements. The Phantom regarded him languidly, for his mind was on other things.

"Has Pinto recovered consciousness?" he asked indifferently.

Bimble nodded. "Much sooner than the doctors expected, and he has celebrated his return to consciousness by making a rather interesting statement."

"Not a confession?" The Phantom was still speaking in dull tones. In the last few days he had almost lost sight of the purpose that had called him to New York. The danger threatening Helen Hardwick had seemed far more important than the mystery of the two murders.

"Well, you might call it that, though it probably isn't the kind of confession you have in mind. Pinto has made a clean breast of everything, but he still insists that you murdered Gage."

"That's a contradiction," mumbled the Phantom. "He is not making a clean breast of things so long as he denies his guilt."

"His statement sounds fairly convincing, nevertheless. He admits practically everything except that he committed the murder. For instance, he frankly admits that he concealed the body of the housekeeper and"——

"That in itself is evidence of his guilt."

"But Pinto has what looks like a satisfactory explanation. He seems to be an honest, hard-working, unimaginative fellow, not overintelligent, and deeply devoted to his wife and baby. You probably know the type. He says that for months before Gage was murdered he had a queer premonition that something of that kind was to happen, and he never passed the house without an uneasy feeling. I suppose what he really means is that he had noticed signs of strange doings about the place, and that without analyzing his impressions he found it getting on his nerves.

"Pinto reiterates his previous assertion that Gage made a dying statement accusing you of the crime. He admits, however, that he felt nervous about the whole affair. The poor fellow was in a very trying position. After forcing the door, which was bolted on the inside, and listening to Gage's dying words, he made a careful examination of the room, paying particular attention to the little window which was so narrow that no grown person could possibly have crawled through it. He did not understand how even an accomplished person like the Phantom could have committed the murder and escaped from the room.

"Then, all of a sudden, Pinto got panicky. Even his crude intellect perceived that it looked as though nobody but himself could have committed the murder. He thought of his wife and his baby, and he did not relish the idea of being tried for murder. As he saw it, he might easily be convicted and sent to the chair. However, his fears proved unfounded, for nobody accused him of the crime, and Pinto could breathe freely once more."

"But what about the housekeeper?" inquired the Phantom, gradually becoming more interested.

"I am coming to that. After the murder of Gage Pinto got into the habit of visiting the house between rounds. He was still hoping to discover a way whereby the Phantom could have escaped from the room. Late one night, according to his statement, he found the housekeeper's body in the same room where Gage had been murdered. He says the body was still warm, so the woman could not have been dead long. At the discovery all his fears returned with trebled force. The supposition, he thought, would be that the murderer of Gage had also killed Mrs. Trippe. The Gray Phantom was supposed to be in jail at the time and therefore could not be accused of having murdered the housekeeper.

"Pinto was in a terrible quandary. Since, as he thought at the time, the Phantom could not have murdered Mrs. Trippe, it might be questioned whether he had murdered Gage. The whole case might be reopened, in which event he feared the finger of suspicion must inevitably point to him. Again Pinto thought of his wife and baby, and, the more he thought of them, the more nervous he became. He did a foolish thing, as men often do when fear conquers reason. He could think of nothing to do but cover up the crime until he could get a chance to think the thing over, and so he carried the body upstairs and concealed it behind some packing cases. Later, after it developed that the Phantom had not been in jail and had no alibi, he saw no reason for concealing the body longer. He explains at length what happened when he went to the storeroom to drag it out and was interrupted by you."

Bimble smiled blandly, but he was studying the Phantom's face out of the corner of an eye. "What do you think of Pinto's confession?"

The Phantom considered while he glanced at the papers Bimble handed him. The statement was there, just as summarized by the doctor. Granting a crude intellect and a mind not too analytical, he thought it quite possible that an innocent man might act exactly as described in Pinto's statement. Further, the story had all the earmarks of truth, for a guilty mind would have tried to invent a less grotesque tale. Of a sudden the Phantom found that all his calculations and theories in regard to the murder had been upset by Pinto's surprising and unexpected explanation.

"Why ask me?" was his reply. "You know the murderer."

"Perhaps. I was just curious to hear what you would think."

There was a wrinkle of perplexity on the Phantom's brow. Assuming that Pinto was innocent, the difficulties in the way of solving the mystery and exculpating himself had been vastly complicated.

"If Pinto didn't do it," persisted the doctor suavely, "who do you suppose did?"

The Phantom could not tell why, but the question gave him a mental jolt. In the past few hours his concern for Helen had claimed all his thoughts, and before that he had been so firmly convinced of Pinto's guilt that there had been no room in his mind for other suspicions. The possibility that some one other than the policeman might be involved had not occurred to him.

He looked up and found the doctor's soft eyes searching his face with an odd intensity. Bimble seemed intent on ascertaining what deductions his prisoner would make from Pinto's statement, and apparently this had been the only reason for his call.

"My question seems to have stumped you," he observed.

The Phantom shrugged his shoulders. "With Pinto eliminated, I'm entirely at sea. In view of the bolted door and the size of the window, I don't see how anyone else could have murdered Gage, unless"—— He checked himself abruptly, and of a sudden he saw a great light. In the next instant a smile masked his agitation. "Unless," he finished with a chuckle, "I did it myself."

Bimble seemed satisfied. "Excellent logic, my friend," he murmured, as he stepped to the door. With his hand on the knob he turned and fixed his gaze on the Phantom's face. "I shall pay you another visit as soon as I hear from my men."

His tone carried a sinister emphasis, but the Phantom scarcely noticed it.

"With Pinto eliminated," he said half aloud when the door had closed, "only one other person could have committed the murders. And I know that person.

The Phantom's Visitor.

With quick and nervous steps the Phantom walked back and forth within the narrow semicircle allowed him by the chain. The solution of the mystery had come to him in a flash of intuition, but his elation had been brief. It was now half past eleven, and after cudgeling his wits for hours, he found the problem of how to extricate himself and Helen from their predicament as insolvable as ever.

Soon Bimble would receive word from his messengers that they had been hoaxed, and then Helen would be subjected to another agonizing ordeal in the dark room. The Phantom shuddered as his imagination pictured her strapped to the chair in that chamber of ghastly things. Again he looked sharply about the room, hoping against hope that something would suggest a way of escape to him.

He found nothing. The only objects were the cot and the table, and they offered no solution whatever. His pockets contained nothing but a handkerchief and a watch, together with the cigarettes and matches Jerome had brought him with his dinner. At least a score of times during the late afternoon and evening he had given the chain a minute inspection, only to be convinced that it could not be tampered with. With the aid of a small nail or a penknife he might have been able to pick the lock that held it to his ankle, but not even a pin had been left him.

The Phantom was all but ready to admit defeat. His only fortifying thought was that he had never yet been the loser in a game of wits, and that for Helen's sake he could not fail now.

He rose quickly from the cot as the door opened and Doctor Bimble strode into the room. His face was dark, and a look of sullen anger had taken the place of his usual smile.

"You lied!" he declared gruffly. "I half suspected you would, but I hardly thought you would attempt anything so clumsy as this. What have you gained by it?"

"Time," said the Phantom, pretending a coolness he did not feel.

The doctor laughed derisively. There was a dull flush in his cheeks and an ugly gliter in his eyes, but again he took care not to step within the Phantom's reach.

"Time! Bah! Really, Vanardy, you're simpler than I thought. Just as if a few hours more or less could make any difference! You will either tell me what I want to know, or, Miss Hardwick will go to the madhouse or the grave. She will be as harmless in one place as in the other. I trust you understand?"

"Your meaning is perfectly clear." The Phantom spoke in level tones. "If you would come a step closer, I should take extreme pleasure in beating you within an inch of your life. But you have no inclination in that direction, I see. Like most of your kind, you are a coward.

"Words never hurt."

"Furthermore," continued the Phantom," you will be in jail before Miss Hardwick goes to either of the places you have just mentioned.

"Jail?" The doctor stared as if he thought the statement utterly preposterous. "Jail! Ha, ha! Good joke coming from a man who can't move six feet."

"Enjoy it while you can. As you may remember, I perpetrated the same kind of joke on the Duke, and he doesn't seem to relish that brand of humor."

The doctor winced as if an unpleasant thought had been suggested to him, then walked stiffly to the door. "Remember," was the parting shot, "if you persist in your obstinacy, it will be either the madhouse or the grave for Miss Hardwick."

He slammed the door as he went out, and the Phantom's face sobored the moment he was alone. His threat had not been altogether an idle one, for it had driven a wholesome misgiving into the doctor's heart; yet the Phantom was painfully aware that he was in a desperate situation. Throwing himself on the cot, he turned the problem over and over in his mind. Black as the outlook seemed, he could scarcely believe that all was lost. He still had faith in his star, and it was this that had braced him and enabled him to speak with such confidence in Doctor Bimble's presence.

After a while something drew his gaze to the window. He listened intently. A faint scraping sound reached his ears, and it occurred to him that it had been going on for several minutes, though he had been too preoccupied to notice it until now. He got up and stepped as close to the window as the chain permitted. Now he heard it again—a slow, dull grinding and scraping that remotely suggested that someone was attacking a metallic object with a blunt tool.

He waited breathlessly. Evidently someone was trying to enter the room, and he wondered whether the intruder was coming as friend or foe. Perhaps the amazing luck that had so often turned a critical situation in his favor was once more coming back to him.

A click sounded, then the boards in front of the window came apart and the Phantom gasped as Thomas Granger jumped into the room.

"You!" he exclaimed.

"Not so loud!" whispered the reporter. He was still wearing the Phantom's clothing, and the garments were wrinkled and streaked with dirt. "The house is full of members of the Duke's gang. Holy smoke, you're certainly in a fix."

He stared at the cabin, then looked quickly about the room. "Don't ask me how I found you. I had a devil of a time, and it's a longer story than I've got time to tell. Lookouts are stationed in front and rear, and it was only by sheer luck and some quick fist work that I got through. How am I to get you out of here?"

The Phantom regarded him thoughtfully. "Didn't you know that Dr. Bimble was the Duke's chief representative?" he asked.

"Never had the faintest idea."

"This room is in the rear of the house, I believe."

"Yes, but—"

"You were lucky to locate my window as easily as you did."

"That wasn't luck. I tried several before I found yours. Twice I bumped into the Duke's men. I hate to think what that bunch would do to me if they caught me." He made a wry face. "But this isn't getting you out of here. We'll have to get a move on."

$2000 TAKEN IN 8 ROBBERIES IN 3 HOURS

Two Women Victims of Purse Snatchers—Holdup in Finance Concern's Office.

Eighth street and store robberies occurred in the three-hour period between 6 and 9 p. m. yesterday. Three of the victims were women, two of whom lost their purses to purse-snatchers.

Mrs. Lena Pashman, of 2710 Chouteau avenue, was robbed of her purse and $105 by a Negro near her home. Miss Mary Fillo, of 5095 Ridge avenue, was stopped at Academy and Ridge avenues by a young man who snatched her purse containing $8. Mrs. Pepron Izmilian, in her confectionery store at 1540 Ohio avenue, was robbed of $8 by two men.

John O'Reilly, secretary of the St. Louis Purchasing Co., a finance concern at 501 Pine street, reported he was held up in his office by a man, who took $450 from the safe.

Abe Moultiner, grocer at 2957 Thomas street, was robbed of $317 by a Negro, who locked him in his icebox.

The gasoline filling station at Pendleton avenue and Washington boulevard was robbed of $90, the filling station at 1920 Pine street of $25, and the Gravois Furniture Co., 2021 Shenandoah avenue, of $42.

Patrolmen passing the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co. branch at Sarah street and Fairfax avenue at midnight discovered the front door broken, and found the safe had been dragged from the office to the stable adjoining. A hinge was broken and the robbers had fled, leaving a crowbar and a sledge hammer.

RUSSELL SCOTT'S FATHER FREED

Judge Commends Him for Aiding Son and Gives Him $10.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Thomas H. Scott, 64-year-old father of Russell Scott, convicted murderer, condemned to hang in Chicago, was arrested in a lobby of a theater while selling pahmphlets, entitled "In the Shadow of the Rope," but charges of disorderly conduct brought against him were dismissed in Night Court. Scott said he came here a week ago in hope of raising funds by the sale of the pamphlets, written by his son, to defray expenses of an appeal to the United States Supreme Court from the death sentence.

"You are only doing what any good father would do and I wish you success," Magistrate Simpson told Scott in dismissing the charge. He then gave Scott $10.

WOMAN BURNED WHEN AIDING HUSBAND DIES

Mrs. Grace Rayman Attempted to Move Bucket of Blazing Gasoline.

Burns suffered at 11 a. m. yesterday in attempting to aid her husband extinguish gasoline which caught fire when he was trying to thaw out ice in the carburetor of an unused truck, caused the death of Mrs. Grace Rayman, 42 years old, Washington Park, near East St. Louis, at 5:40 a. m. today in St. Mary's Hospita' East St. Louis.

Her husband, Frank Rayman, a car inspector, said he was holding a paper torch under the carburetor of the truck, which had stood in the rear yard at his home unused for several months. He was attempting to get it in condition for sale.

"I had disconnected the gasoline line and bent it away from the carburetor," he related. "Gasoline dripped from it to the ground. I placed a bucket under the tank, which is below the seat, and opened the drain.

"Apparently sparks from the paper caught the gasoline on the ground. Anyhow, it blazed up and caught the gasoline in the bucket. I hooked a bent wire under the bail and hauled it out from the truck, and then ran to a shed for an old quilt and a bucket of water.

"When Mrs. Rayman came out, I had spread the quilt over the burning gasoline on the ground and was pouring water on it. It seemed that she tried to move the bucket further away, for she had the wire in her hand when I saw her.

"The bucket had overturned and flames were leaping from the ground at her feet about her entire body. I snatched up the quilt, but as soon as the air got to it, it burst into flames. I tried to tear the burning clothing from her. My gloves were burned off and my hands blistered. Two workmen who were putting in a gas main ran up and put out the flames by throwing their coats about her."

Mrs. Rayman was treated by a physician and then taken to the hospital. She leaves two children.

UNEMPLOYMENT ON INCREASE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—With the coming of winter, a reduction in the number of persons gainfully employed is reported by the Labor Department today in its November review. Roadwork was halted or checked in many states; building construction, which had proceeded at a record-breaking pace during earlier months, slowed up and released a good many workers, and automobile and steel and iron plants generally curtailed output with consequent discharge of hands.

Coal mining continues to employ the large numbers of workers that the industry has demanded since the British coal strike threw unusual demand upon American coal resources. The textile industry, however, which was under normal during the summer, began expanding operations. In several widely scattered centers there was a surplus of labor, especially of unskilled men.

CHESTER, England, Dec. 14.—An extraordinary bird tragedy happened the other day on the Chester Park golf links. J. Bamford, the club professional, played an approach shot to the tenth green and found that his ball in alighting had killed two water wagtails. One of the birds was literally cut in two. Among other strange incidents reported recently is the theft of eight balls by a raven from golfers, and on the same day a sea gull tantalized a golfer by stealing a ball, dropping it almost at the player's feet, then picking it up again in his beak and flying away.

SINUS TROUBLE ENDS WHEN NOSE GETS PERFECT DRAINAGE

SinuSeptic, Wonderful Aid to Drainage; Relieves Head Colds and Catarrh.

Nose specialists everywhere are urging Sinus Trouble sufferers, and others who flare up easily with head colds and catarrh, to establish proper drainage of the nasal sinuses, and to irrigate the nose thoroughly. For immediate results in ridding the nasal cavities of germ-laden dust, mucous secretions, and the discharge of pus that often accompanies even a common head cold, SinuSeptic is very highly recommended. Often the very first application of SinuSeptic and hot water applied to the nose with a nasal douche brings quick relief from the pains around the eyes, ears and head. SinuSeptic reduces the congestion and inflammation and thereby aids free drainage, a very vital factor in the treatment of Sinus Trouble. SinuSeptic is guaranteed by American Drug Corporation, St. Louis, and can be obtained at the Walgreen drug stores, Wolff-Wilson, and others. It's remarkable how many people are reporting excellent results with SinuSeptic.

Beyond the Walls of Winter Lies Enchantment

A WARM moon through Florida palms—the gleaming shores of Monaco from the deck of a Mediterranean steamer—the radiant sun of California—the green Nile gliding through Egypt—the mystic depths of India—the languor of the South Seas—the impetuous color of Spanish America—the temperate rich beauty of America's southern states—the magic that wings from Shenandoah to Yosemite; enchantment! Waiting beyond the bleak walls of winter—an enchantment described and laid before you in this week's number of The Literary Digest.

Recreation that restores health and courage! "One vacation a year is not enough for those who live at the tension of modern city life", says an eminent New York physician, adding, "To conserve health and to maintain maximum efficiency a semi-annual period of relaxation is becoming essential". And it is to serve this need, to describe accurately and with detailed information how and where relaxation may be found beyond the stress and grind of winter, that this travel number of The Digest is edited. Open the windows of your imagination! Before you choose the place to spend your precious days of freedom, cast your eyes, with The Digest editors, over the wonder spots of the winter world.

The Literary Digest—
A Travel Guide to the World

THE bracing centers of winter sport as well as the warm South and the beguiling tropics are included in this remarkable survey. Page after page of description and information literally set the whole world before you—the railroad and steamship lines, the scenic features of the routes, the special cruises for which great steamers have been chartered this winter—everything that you need to know before deciding how and where you will seek—enchantment!

Every number of The Literary Digest, through every week of the year, brings you important news and information from the corners of the world. It is literally our task, in the famous words of Addison, "To confirm the tidings as they roll, and spread the truth from pole to pole". But twice a year—winter and summer—our editors bring this summary of travel information before you. These issues are ones to buy and keep. Add to them the information supplied by the weekly advertisements in The Literary Digest of the great steamship and railroad companies, and you can never be at a loss when you come to the question—"Where shall we spend our vacation?" The Literary Digest throughout the year carries a greater volume of transportation advertising than any other general magazine. These advertisements in themselves constitute a veritable travel directory for every season and every part of the world.

Ask your newsdealer for this Winter Travel Number of The Digest. For ten cents (or for the small subscription of $4.00 for an entire year) you can bring the world to your fireside. Don't delay—for enchantment lies just beyond the wintry walls of your home!

How to Have Soft, Pretty White Hands

Many women will undoubtedly be glad to know how they may have beautiful, white, soft, pretty hands regardless of the work they have to do. The secret lies in rubbing a little Ice-Mint into the hands occasionally preferably just before retiring at night. In the morning you will be agreeably surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application. Ice-Mint is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beautifying properties whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work a woman does she should have pretty hands as they are really the true marks of refinement. A few applications of Ice-Mint will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

FINAL ADJUSTMENT OF ALIEN PROPERTY CLAIMS UP IN HOUSE

Measure Disposing of $250,000,000 of German Property Made Special Order of Business Today.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Final adjustment of alien property claims growing out of the World War is the special order of business before the House today.

What to do with German property valued at approximately $250,000,000, held by the Alien Property Custodian since the war, has been a problem for eight years, but House leaders are confident agreement will be reached promptly, especially since the pending adjustment bill, drafted by the House Ways and Means Committee, has been indorsed by both Republicans and Democrats.

The bill provides immediate payment in full of claims of American nationals for death or personal injury and reimbursement of German owners out of the American Treasury up to $100,000,000 for seized German ships, radio stations and patents.

American personal claims of $100,000 or less would be paid in full immediately. Claims exceeding that figure would receive an initial payment of $100,000 with future payments from Germany.

SALE OF CHRISTMAS BUTTONS AND SEALS AT UNION STATION

Members of Catholic Women's Organizations Working From 7 A. M. to 9 P. M.

The sale of Christmas seals and buttons at Union Station, which is an annual event of the Christmas health seal campaign of the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis, opened this week and will continue until Dec. 23. Members of Catholic women's organizations are directing the sale there, with Mrs. William T. Donovan acting as general chairman, assisted by Mrs. A. B. Harrington.

The sale at the station is being conducted in four shifts from 7 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. The Catholic women's organizations which are participating include mothers' clubs, alumnae associations and parish groups, and the chairmen of the various days are: Mrs. H. J. Goessling, Mrs. J. P. Fritz, Mrs. R. T. Krohr, Mrs. T. J. Reeves, Mrs. John W. Reilly, Mrs. L. Krueger, Mrs. James W. Grace, Mrs. P. E. Bishopberger, Mrs. J. P. Crowley, Mrs. J. J. O'Donnell, Mrs. E. C. McGrath, Mrs. George Mathieu, Mrs. R. H. Miller, Mrs. Anna Rowe, Mrs. Emma Gerken, Mrs. J. P. Hogan and Miss Grace Belson.

Two Held After Attempt to Shoot.

Stopped for questioning at Twenty-first and Pine streets at 9:15 p. m. yesterday, one of two men drew a revolver and snapped it at Detective Klug, according to a report made by him and his walking partner, Detective Fairchild. Klug, who says it was the fifth time a pistol pointed at him had missed fire in his career as a policeman, slugged the man with his revolver. At headquarters the man who had the revolver said he was Arthur Hansen, 19 years old, a transient. His companion said he was Jack Morth, 28, of 1918 Market street.

COMMITTEE TO NOMINATE COMMUNITY FUND TRUSTEES

J. L. Mauran Chairman of Group That Will Prepare Ticket to Be Voted on in January.

A committee of five members, of which J. L. Mauran is chairman, has been appointed to nominate the 50 trustees of the Community Fund, to be elected along with officers of the Fund at the annual meeting late in January.

Additional nominations may be made by petition signed by five contributing members and presented to the nominating commit- member agency of the Community tee within the next week. Each Fund is required to appoint a board member and an active social worker to serve on the Board of Trustees. A committee of five tellers also has been appointed.

PRESBYTERIAN FUND $23,439

Campaign for $150,000 for Schools to Continue Through Saturday.

Presbyterian workers campaigning for a $150,000 school fund, at their second daily luncheon at the Jefferson Hotel yesterday, tabulated contributions aggregating $23,439.50. The campaign will continue through Saturday under the leadership of Charlton Alexander, as campaign chairman.

The St. Louis campaign is part of a State-wide drive for $600,000, of which $500,000 will go to the Synodical College, at Fulton, and $100,000 to the Presbyterian Students' Center at Columbia.

K. K. K. Issue in Joplin (Mo.) Election.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., Dec. 16.—Whether the Ku Klux Klan, ousted from control of city affairs in the municipal election last spring, will return to power is the issue in today's special election in which a Mayor will be chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Jesse F. Osborne, Nov. 3. Dr. A. Benson Clark, for six years president of the School Board, and a former Mayor of Carl Junction, Mo., is the Ku Klux Klan indorsed candidate. Charles A. Patterson, member of the City Park Board and former Public Utilities Commissioner, opposes him.

CHICAGO STREET CAR LINE IN RECEIVERSHIP

Company Affected Operates Roads on North and West Sides.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Faced with the falling due of $103,228,255 mortgages without funds to meet them, a claim of $67,075 for materials, and expiration of its franchise, the Chicago Railways Co., operator of street car lines on the north and west sides, went into receivership yesterday.

The three other companies which are operated with it by the Chicago surface lines Board of Operation were not affected.

The receivership was declared by Federal Judge Wilkerson, on a petition presented in behalf of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. and assented to by the Chicago Railways Co.

Judge Wilkerson appointed as receivers Henry A. Blair, president of the traction company; John J Mitchell, president of the Illinois Merchants' Trust Co., and Frederick H. Rawson, chairman of the board of the Union Trust Co.

The immediate cause of the receivership was the bill of $67,075 presented by the Westinghouse company for equipment.

Listed among the physical assets of the company are 600 miles of single track and 2000 street cars, which are operated under the unified operation agreement with the other companies.

The receivership will not interfere with the operation of the Chicago street car lines. The receivers are authorized to take absolute control of the lines and to continue their operation under the unified operation plan until Feb. 1, 1927 and then to arrange a new agreement for unified operation.

Under the terms of the franchise the city has the option of purchasing the lines at any time before Feb. 1, 1927 for $95,000,000 but there is no prospect that the city will exercise that privilege.

Shortly after the receivership proceedings were instituted, the City Council voted to allow a six months' extension of the franchise which expires Feb. 1.

ORMISTON INDICTED ON CHARGES OF CONSPIRACY

Radio Man, Wanted in Aimee McPherson Case, Said Still to Be in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

LOS AGNELES, Dec. 16.—The fact that Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive co-defendant in the Aimee Semple McPherson case, still is in theh ands of his "private captors" in Chicago continued today to block efforts to extradite the radio man from Illinois, although he now stands indicted on conspiracy charges and a bench warrant has been issued for his arrest.

Authorities heer explained that before they can ask Gov. Richardson for a requisition on the Governor of Illinois for Ormiston's return, the radio man must be placed under arrest in the latter state.

This situation developed yesterday when Ormiston failed to keep an appointment with the Chicago police for his scheduled surrender. The radio man, according to his attorney, Edward H. S. Martin, was indisposed with a cold and has postponed his promised surrender until Friday.

A grand jury indictment, 10,000 words in length, charging Ormiston with conspiracy to pervert and obstruct justice, was returned here yesterday by a county grand jury. A bench warrant was issued for htef ugitive radio man and his bail was set at $10,000. The case was assigned to the same superior court department which will try Mrs. McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff on criminal conspiracy charges.

Ormiston is accused by the State of conniving with Mrs. McPherson in telling her kidnaping story to a grand jury. The State contends the story was false, and that during a part of the time last spring when the woman evangelist was missing from her home here she was with Ormiston in a cottage at Carmel, Cal.

TO CELEBRATE COMPLETION OF STREET LIGHTS TONIGHT

The district east of Compton avenue, between Chouteau avenue and Russell boulevard, will celebrate tonight the turning-on of 3579 new electric street lamps provided under the bond issue, with a program of speeches and a fete to be held at Broadway and Convent street. The celebration will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Mayor Miller will speak the words which, traveling over a radio and telephone circuit to Pittsburg and back, will switch on the lights. Merchants and residents of the district have arranged a parade to precede the formal program. The lights cost $1,657,092 and are part of the $8,000,000 bond issue item for street illumination.

Time Signals by Radio at 9 P. M.

Time signals will be relayed daily at 9 p. m. by radio station WEW, St. Louis University. At four minutes to 9 a definite series of buzzes will keep time with the swing of a pendulum, and the voice of the WEW announcer will come immediately before the hour, to proclaim the hour on the exact dot.

Chickens Earn $1212 in a Year.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OKEENE, Ok.—Three hundred and thirty-one leghorn hens earned $1212 above expenses for their owner, Henry E. Fielder, near here, for the year ending Nov. 1, 1926. During that time the value of the produce was: Eggs sold, $1421; chickens sold, $282; eggs used and broken, $72; chickens used, $8; or a total of $1784. Cost of production was $572, or $1.82 1-3 for each hen. Firty-nine thousand eight hundred sixty-seven eggs were laid of which 53,088 were sold. Increase in the flock was 85 hens, valued at $85. The profit on each hen was $3.92 and the average number of eggs for each hen 181.

New International Bridge Open.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EAGLE PASS, Tex.—Keeping abreast of the rapid development of the city and surrounding territory, business men of Eagle Pass now have opened their new international bridge connecting this city with its sister city, Piedras Negras, on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande. The new bridge is 1850 feet long and 46 feet wide. It is of steel and concrete construction, replacing permanently a temporary span built when the international bridge was washed away in 1922.

During Christmas Shopping Don't Neglect Your Cold
Don't Get So Busy That You Forget Your Health—Father John's Medicine Is Best for Colds
Don't get too busy doing your Christmas shopping and neglect the cold which you are very likely to take in the overheated, crowded stores. Remember that neglected colds lead to more serious troubles and that any cold should be treated promptly with a pure food medicine such as Father John's Medicine, which strengthens and builds up the system at the same time giving prompt relief to the cold. Father John's Medicine does not contain alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form so it is a safe medicine for all the family. Thousands of mothers keep it in the house and give it to their children regularly at the least sign of an approaching cold or cough. It is a doctor's prescription and has been in use more than 70 years.

Like getting a raise in pay

The amount you save on household supplies is equivalent to a raise in wages of just that much.

It avails little to get a raise if you are careless and reckless about the way you spend it.

Piggly Wiggly's outstanding success and popularity is based on a system which saves for its patrons the tremendous cost of the old-fashioned method of selling groceries—a system which saves you from 10 to 20 per cent of your outlay for food—and a system which enables you to live better, well within your means—and save money without the slightest inconvenience or self sacrifice.

ALBERT AUTENRIETH DIES IN HOSPITAL

County G. O. P. Political Leader and Former Hotel Man at Clayton Succumbs at 53.

Albert Autenrieth, a St. Louis County political leader, member and former chairman of the Republican County Committee, former Assistant Postmaster of St. Louis and former co-proprietor of Autenrieth's Cafe and Hotel, Clayton. died of diabetes at St. John's Hospital at 5 a. m. today. He would have been 54 years old next New Year's day.

He had suffered from diabetes for some time and went to the hospital a week ago for an operation for removal of a resultant carbuncle. He resided at 123 North Central avenue, Clayton, with his wife, son Sidney and daughter Marie. Surviving also are his mother, Mrs. Marie Autenrieth, of Clayton, three brothers and four sisters living in the county.

Mr. Autenrieth was born at Kirkwood. In 1899 he and his brother, Charles inherited from their father, the hotel and cafe, a gathering place of politicians, facing the County Courthouse. They sold it in 1924. "Al," as he was known to hundreds of persons, drifted in politics through inclination and environment. Years ago he served as a Deputy Sheriff and once was shot in the leg when on duty. There is a story that he refused to take $20,000 which gangsters once laid on his desk in the Sheriff's office to obtain some favor.

On his birthday in 1902 Mr. Autenrieth was appointed a postoffice clerk. Reaching the position of money order superintendent, he resigned in 1912 to make an unsuccessful race for nomination for County Sheriff, and shortly was reinstated. He was made Assistant Postmaster Oct. 1, 1912, and resigned Feb. 15, 1914, having been employed under four Postmasters.

A member of the Republican County Committee from Central Township, Mr. Autenrieth, was chosen as chairman of the committee in 1924. He resigned as chairman in November, 1925, because of criticism of his activity in the award of a $53,000 road oil contract by the County Court. The committee was vexed also because he had accepted the job of County Plumbing Inspector at $3000 a year instead of permitting some other party worker to get this plum.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

TELEPHONE TYPEWRITERS NOW IN ALL POLICE STATIONS

Complete New System of Transmitting Orders From Headquarters in Operation.

The installation of the new telephone typewriter in police headquarters and 14 district stations contracted for by the Police Board two months ago, was completed yesterday and the machines put in operation today. The Sotuhwestern Bell Telephone Co. completed the installation and will superintend the service as in any other telephone service.

A machine at headquarters operated as a typewriter transmits to the other machines in the district written messages such as descriptions and orders, etc., simultaneously with the writing of the key machine. The messages formerly were transmitted orally by phone and mistakes frequently were made. Accuracy is one of the main benefits of the new system.

Similar machines have been in use for some time in newspaper offices.

GIRLS HOTEL FIRE HEROINES

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Girl elevator operators stuck to their posts when a fire started in the Hotel Ansonia, Broadway and Seventy-third street, early today and, during the 30 minutes before the blaze was brought under control, carried hundreds of guests from the upper floors to the main floor. More than 1000 guests who left their rooms crowded the lobby and streets outside.

The fire started in an apartment on the tenth floor.

Cecil Lean, actor, and his wife, Cleo Mayfield, actress, occupying an apartment on the eleventh floor, were awakened by the barking of their dog, and turned in the alarm, A mother and her two children occupying the apartment where the fire started were asleep and unaware of it until called by a telephone operator.

Man, 45, Seriously Hur in Fall.

Frank Eppelsheimer, 45 years old, of 2607 Natural Bridge avenue, fell down the cellar stairs at his home at 3 p. m. yesterday and suffered possible fractures of the skull and spine and fractured ribs. He is in a serious condition at City Hospital.

N. L. Officials Expected To Intervene to Bring Agreement With Breadon

"Dove of Peace" Will Prevail at Joint Meeting of Circuits Today — Ban Johnson Is Restored to Place on Advisory Council.

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—American and National League magnates will meet in joint session at the Congress Hotel this afternoon and the happenings of the last two days indicate that a spirit of peace will prevail.

The American League has restored Ban Johnson to his place on the advisory council, from which he was kicked two years ago, but the league also has voted to re-elect Kenesaw M. Landis as baseball commissioner at the expiration of his present term, and a committee has been appointed to call on the Judge to tell him that the league likes him, has enjoyed and prospered under his administration and that suggestions to be made to amend the general inter-league working agreement are not intended as measures to curtail his powers as commissioner.

The committee was to call on Landis yesterday, but the commissioner was reported ill and the visit was postponed until today and it is probable that a similar "steering" committee from the National League will join the American League magnates in calling on the commissioner.

Expected trades have not materialized as yet, though Manager Howley of the Browns was still hopeful that he might put over a deal before adjournment. He was in conference with Miller Huggins of the Yankees and Frank Navin of Detroit last night and will see them again today.

Little Has Happened.

It does not take long to tell what has happened at the baseball meeting thus far.

Landis has been indorsed and Johnson has been restored to the advisory council.

The rule against barnstorming by the two pennant winners has been changed and the Cardinals and Yankees will be permitted to meet in spring exhibition games.

The committee has been named to call on Judge Landis and the new board of directors has been selected, consisting of Phil Ball of St. Louis, Frank Navin of Detroit, Clarke Griffith of Washington and Tom Shibe of Philadelphia.

Then there has been the routine business, the awarding of the pennant to the Yankees and the approving of annual reports.

That tells the story, except for the few million words spilled by the magnates, managers and scouts as they huddled in the lobby of the Congress and tried to trade ashes for coal.

The only result of the conversational marathon is a flock of plain and fancy rumors of the common, or bunk, variety.

Howley Is Disappointed.

Manager Howley of the Browns and Business Manager Bill Friel were disappointed over their failure to arrange any trades, but they tried to hide their disappointment under the statement that much of the winter remained and that perhaps more could be accomplished in the trading market away from the noise and uproar of the convention.

"I'm not going to take the worst of any trades," Howley declared. "I can arrange half a dozen deals in five minutes if I want to take the short end, but if I can't strengthen my club I'll not do business. Players are too hard to find to toss a few away, just for the sake of doing a little business for the Hot Stove league. There are several players in the majors and minors I would like to have and I think I will be able to get them. I would take a couple of veterans, but I want some young players, too. Rival managers don't want to give up anybody unless they are all worn out or too green for major league use."

Bill Killefer, first assistant to Rogers Hornsby of the world champion Cardinals, was here yesterday, awaiting the gathering of National Leaguers at the joint meeting and renewing acquaintances. Bill formerly managed the Cubs and is very popular here. He said he did not know where he would be next year. He is much sought after. Bill is recognized as a great developer of pitchers and is given a large share of credit for the success of the Cardinals. He paid a tribute to Hornsby, as a manager and said he hoped Rog would repeat next year.

Rumor Mongers are Busy.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals was among the National League magnates arriving here this morning. Hornsby, being still unsigned as manager, was not present. He remained in St. Louis.

It is regarded as unlikely that National League officials would stand aside and see Hornsby get away.

Though it is regarded as likely that pressure will be brought to bear to bring about an agreement betwen Breadon and Hornsby, the rumor mongers are busy again and Hornsby is being traded to the leading National League clubs, with New York, as always, the favorite.

When Breadon returned from Florida early this month he said he was confident that an agreement with Hornsby would be reached and that he fully expected Rogers would manage the Cardinals again next year. Now rumors have emanated from New York that Breadon is determined to stand pat on his offer of a one-year contract to Hornsby and that if Hornsby declines to accept that Breadon will look about for a successor. It is even said, that several prospective successors have been approached by the Cardinal president.

Heydler to Intervene.

Veteran followers of baseball do not credit these rumors, however, and insist that the National League would not stand by and see Hornsby ousted from the management after he gave St. Louis its first pennant in 38 years. President John Heydler is known to have made overtures to bring about an agreement betwen Breadon and Hornsby.

Hornsby probably would sign a three-year contract for $50,000 a year. This sounds like a lot of money, but it would be only $60,000 in excess of what Hornsby would receive for three years under his present contract as a player. Hornsby has managed the team for two seasons already, so the $60,000 extra would be for five years of service, or $12,000 a year and not exorbitant for a man who has won a penant and a world's series during his first full year as leader.

Hockey Contest Added to Program

Silver Skates Carnival Will Have Game Between Locals and an Illinois Squad.

A hockey game between a local team, now in practice at the Winter Garden, and either the Lake Forest (Ill.) or Illinois A. C. squad has been added to the program for the St. Louis Silver Skates Carnival scheduled to be held on the lagoon opposite Art Hill Jan. 2.

Jack Lionberger is captain of the local team and such stars as Andy McCreery and Carroll Harlan and a number of others are candidates for positions. They will hold outdoor practice Saturday and Sunday in Forest Park.

Skating conditions are ideal at the present time and the committee in charge urges all those entered in the events to get in lots of practice while the opportunity is available.

Signs Two New Umpires.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16. — President Harry Williams of the Pacific Coast League last night announced the acquisition of two umpires for next season. They are Frank Brown of the Eastern League, who was one of the judges at the Dempsey-Tunney match, and William J. McDevitt of the New York-Pennsylvania League. President Heydler of the National League, who had an option of McDevitt, waived his right, with the privilege of signing him up next winter.

HASKELL IS FAVORED TO BEAT HONOLULU IN GAME SATURDAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—The Haskell Indian football team of Lawrence, Kan., today was given a slight edge over the Honolulu All-Stars after both teams had been observed in practice. They will meet here Saturday.

The Indian team scrimmaged against a pick-up Stanford team yesterday and showed considerable scoring ability. George Bogue, Stanford halfback, suffered an injured ankle during the scrimmage, but it is thought he will be in shape for the Stanford-Alabama game at Pasadena on New Year's day.

Football fans here are still puzzled where to spend their money Saturday. Ernie Nevers and his Duluth Eskimos play a picked team of California professionals the same day.

EDDIE GOLDBERG IN NEW YORK VICTORY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

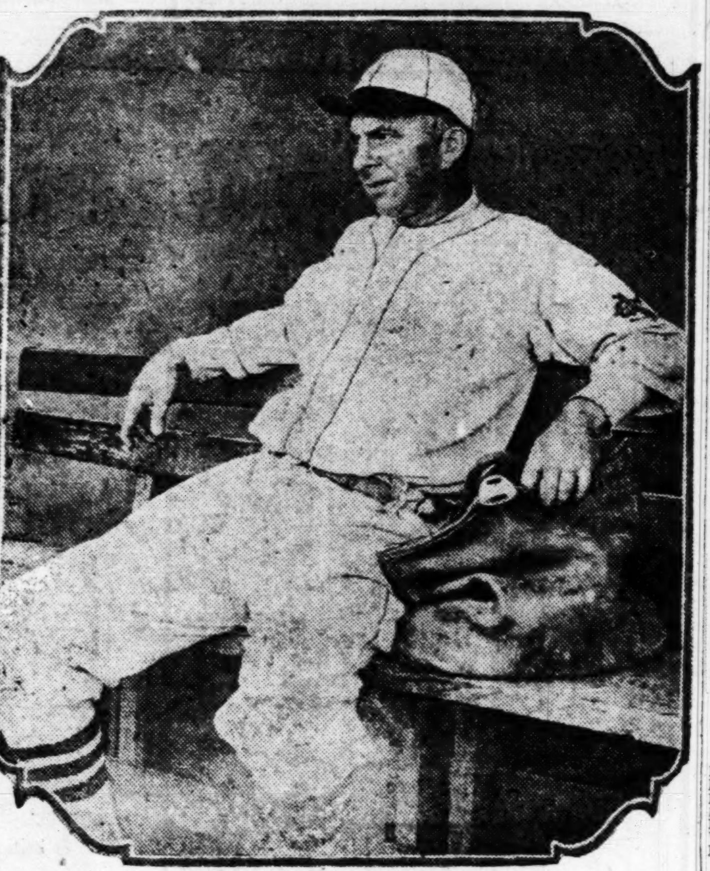
NEW YORK, Dec. 16. — Eddie Goldberg of St. Louis defeated Pete Nebo of Spain last night in a thrilling match at Madison Square Garden.

Roberts to Box Dundee.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—Eddie Roberts, the "Tacoma Tagger," and Joe Dundee, Baltimore welterweight, will meet in a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden, New York, on Jan. 14.

Will He Coach Browns?



BILL KILLEFER.
Reports from Chicago indicate that there is "something stirring" and that Killefer may quit the Cardinals to take a place with Dan Howley, new manager of the St. Louis Americans.

Indiana Eleven Signs Leonard, Scottish Star

Old Country Soccer Body Up in Arms Over Latest U. S. Raid.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Scottish soccer authorities are agitated over what they call the biggest raid ever made by an American club.

The fans over there have been accustomed to see their stars depart between seasons, but Indiana Flooring F. C., a New York member of the American Soccer League has surprised them by taking a player direct from the first division club whose schedule is only half finished.

Simultaneously with the arrival of press dispatches on the subject from Scotland comes the announcement from Manager Bob Millar of Indiana that the player in question is none other than James (Hocky) Leonard, for the last five years a forward with Cowenbeath of the first division Scottish League. Millar claims this man to be the best player who has yet crossed the Atlantic to play for an American club. Millar states Leonard is a very clever dribbler, with a strong shot in either foot.

Only 24 Years Old.

Although a regular with one of the leading clubs in Scotland for five years "Hocky" is only 24 years old. Last season he scored 23 goals for his club as an inside forward, later being moved to the center berth. Only six weeks ago, Burnley, the first division club in England offered Cownebeath $10,000 for Leonard's transfer, which offer was refused as being too low. As it is a custom that a player receives one-third of his transfer fee over there, one may be certain that Indiana Flooring has paid Leonard a larger sum than he would expect and Cowenbeath received plenty for his transfer.

Although Manager Millar refused to name the amount, it is certain the player received a sum that is a new record for a soccer player imported to this country. Leonard is expected to land here Saturday or Sunday morning.

If possible he will appear in the Indiana line-up against Bethlehem Steel on Sunday. He will, of course, play center forward, a position Bob Millar has been trying to fill since taking over the management of the Bronx crew. With Leonard at center, Millar and Carlson, inside forwards, and Gallagher and McGhee on the wings, the Indiana team will have one of the best forward lines in the country.

PRINCE OF WALES HAS IMPROVED AT SQUASH

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Although the Prince of Wales was eliminated in the first round of the squash racquets championship at Bath Club the other day, he has improved this year at his favorite game. He comes from the courts looking something like a schoolboy walking off a football field, with cheeks aglow and hair dishevelled.

Recently he entered the army squash tourney and enjoyed the first two rounds before he was eliminated. Garbed in dark flannel trousers and heavy sweater, he rolled up his sleeves and defeated his opponent in the first round, Lord Bingham, 9—3, 9—1, 9—10, 9—1.

Next day, however, Wales met his match in Capt. H. McCormack, War Office expert. While the Prince won the first two games, drawing much applause, Capt. McCormack took the next three. The score was 9—10, 2—9, 9—2, 9—3, 9—6.

Smith's Manager Plans to Protest Sharkey Victory

Lawrence Asserts His Protege Was Fouled in the First Round.

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 16.—A protest to the State Athletic Commission by George Lawrence, manager of Homer Smith, Michigan heavyweight, was threatened today as a result of the action of Referee Jack Michaels in stopping last night's bout between Smith and Jack Sharkey of Boston, conqueror of Harry Wills, and declaring Sharkey the victor in a technical knockout in the seventh round.

Lawrence said that Sharkey had fouled Smith in the first round by landing a blow to the temple while Homer was still on his knees. Sports writers agreed with him. Lawrence also complained that stopping the bout was unwarranted as, for the first time in the fight, Smith was battling on even terms with the Bostonian in the seventh and had landed several lusty rights to the stomach and jaw.

Lawrence conceded that Sharkey had piled up a big advantage in the preceding rounds, but asserted that the Michigan veteran was groggy from the effects of the punishment in the first frame and was defending himself only by instinct until the sixth, when he began to fight back.

SOLDAN WINNER OVER RANKEN BASKET TEAM

Soldan High defeated Ranken last night in a basketball game on the Ranken floor, 23 to 16. Constance, Soldan forward, scored 6 field goals for a point total of 12, the highest of the game. The score at the half was 15-9 in Soldan's favor.

Leacocks Defeat Stann A. C., 33-22 In Muny Leaegue

Santa Maria Council and Peters Hold the Lead in Other Divisions.

The Leacocks defeated the Stann A. C., 32 to 22, last night at Sherman Park Community Center in the feature game of the Wednesday night group of the Municipal Basketball Association. Members of the St. Louis U. quintet which won the city championship last season were in both lineups, Bill and Vern Bradburn playing on the Leacocks and Henry Hurd, Tom Stanton and Doc Young holding down positions on the Stann A. C.

It was the second straight victory for the Leacocks. The Werner-Werner squad also kept its slate clean by beating the Langans by the topheavy score of 49 to 8.

Santa Maria Council and the Peters won their contests in the other two divisions and kept the lead in their respective groups.

Robinson Will Be on Coaching Line Next Season

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Wilbert Robinson is going to put on a uniform and go back to the coaching line next season. The rotund manager said so before he departed yesterday to attend the joint meeting of the two major leagues.

At the annual meeting of the Brooklyn Club next spring, Robbie will resign as president. He already has said that he will not continue as president of the club and that he will devote all his attention from now on to managing Robins.

Robbie deserted the coaching line two years ago on account of illness. The coaching last year was left to Otto Miller and Joe Kelley. Next season Robbie will be back at third base. No doubt this will meet with the approval of Brooklyn fans who were disgruntled with the coaching last year.

8 Men Named on Bear Basket Squad

Two Others to Be Selected Before Game With Rolla Saturday.

Eight Washington U. varsity basketball uniforms were given out by Coach Don White yesterday. Three letter-men, three recruits and two reserves from last year's squad were given jerseys. Coach White intimated that two more would probably be issued before Saturday night's game with Rolla.

The veterans who return to their regular places are Stanford and Hutton, forwards, and Eckert, guard. Duncan, center, and Kurz, guard, from last year's freshman squad, complete the first five. Rippetoe, reserve forward; Pipkin, reserve center, and Heinrichs, recruit guard, were also given uniforms.

Of the remaining 17 men on the squad, Whacker and McCarroll are the leaders.

The possibility of a New Year's eve game with St. Louis U. is being discussed, although no official announcements have been issued. The student council at its regular meeting Tuesday night approved the substitution of an opponent, preferably St. Louis U., for Missouri.

ST. L. U. HIGH TO PLAY BELLEVILLE FRIDAY

St. Louis U. High will try out its strength Friday night against Belleville High on the Billiken basketball court preparatory to entering upon its prep league schedule. Tom Stanton, roving guard on last year's city title St. Louis U. squad, is coach of the youngsters.

Two letter men, Capt. Wetmore and Dawson, are on hand and Coach Stanton is trying out the other talent to find suitable running mates for the veterans. Eighteen games are on the schedule, which is as follows:

Dec. 17. Belleville; Dec. 30. Soldan; Jan. 7. Beaumont; Jan. 8. Evansville (Ind.); Jan. 11. Country Day; Jan. 18. Central; Jan. 21. Christian Brothers; Jan. 26. Western; Jan. 28. Chaminade; Feb. 4. O'Neill to Box Joe Ghnouly in S.B.A.C. Feature Schwake Opposes Walton in Another Special at Amateur Boxing Show.

One of the season's most important bouts in the amateur boxing game will be held tonight when Eddie O'Neill of Sherman Park Community Center meets Joe Ghnouly of the South Broadway A. C. in the flyweight special at the South Broadway club. O'Neill holds the Western A. A. U. championship in the 112-pound class. Gnouly has a total of eight straight victories to his credit, including a point decision over O'Neill.

The last match between these speedy midgets was held a short time before O'Neill annexed the district title. On that occasion Ghnouly won the judges' decision after O'Neill had floored him for a count of "nine" in the second round.

John Schwake of Webster Groves, Mo., and Jack Walton of Granite City, Ill., will meet in the heavyweight special. Schwake made an impressive showing in turney competition last winter, winning four successive bouts. His triumphant drive earned him a special match with Dave Knost the district titleholder, who outpointed him in a hard-fought contest.

Twenty-nine boxers, ranging in weight from 112 to 160 pounds, have filed entries for the open events of tonight's card. The prelim entries include eight local punchers who have won class A rating in the Western A. A. U. district.

Walter Heisner will referee the contests while Circuit Judge Robert W. Hall and Seneca Taylor are scheduled to serve as judges of competition.

The entries follow:

TILDEN

FORMER U. S. CHAMPION TO SAIL JAN. 20

Announces That He Will Quit Stage and Devote Himself Exclusively to Task of Regaining Honors.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—William T. Tilden, ruler of American tennis for six years until thrust aside by a mighty French invasion this year, will sail for Europe Jan. 20 to fight his way back to tennis heights in the land of his conquerors.

The former national singles champion plans to take with him John Doeg, junior national champion, of Santa Monica, Cal., and Warren F. Coen Jr., national boys champion of Kansas City, to prepare them for the assaults of Davis Cup invaders when the "Big Bill" of tennis and other senior players shall have been forced to step aside.

Tilden, now visiting Coen in Kansas City, has disclosed his plans to Samuel Hardy, former American Davis Cup captain, who is making the necessary arrangements for the trip abroad. Tilden, with Coen, will visit Doeg in California before heading with the youths for the Riviera, tennis playground of Southern France.

Wants to Play Lacoste.

Paul W. Gibbons, president of the Philadelphia and Middle States lawn tennis associations, says that Tilden probably will compete in title events in Germany and Italy and the Wimbledon championships as well as the Riviera tournaments. He says Tilden is in excellent condition and ready to assume the burden of regaining the tennis crown, and in his belief "no player in the world can beat him."

In France Tilden plans meetings with Rene Lacoste, who broke his string of national singles championships by defeating Jeon Borotra in an all-French final at Forest Hills last fall, and Borotra, who eliminated "Big Bill" in the national indoor championships last February. Henri Cochet, who put Tilden out of the national tourney, and Jacques Brugnon, fourth member of the French Davis Cup team, are other probable opponents. At the same time Tilden plans to pit Doeg and Coen against these same internationalists to gain them experience.

Their program, as outlined by Hardy, calls for entrance in tournaments at Monte Carlo, Feb. 21-27; the Riviera, Feb. 28 to March 7; Nice, March 7-12; Cannes, March 14-22; Beau Site, March 22-27; San Rafael, April 4-11; Monte Carlo, April 11-17, and possibly Nice, April 24-30. The French stars are expected to enter the same competition.

Will Quit the Stage.

Tilden, determined to regain his leadership of world tennis forces, will devote himself exclusively to that task in 1927, tennis authorities declare. He does not intend to be hampered by theatrical ventures that robbed him of sufficient time to prepare properly for major tournaments last season.

With Vincent Richards no longer eligible to represent the United States through professional activities and other stars past the peak of effectiveness, they point out that Tilden's racquet in finest form, as well as experienced youth, is needed if American is to regain her tennis laurels.

The absence of Tilden, Richards and the French stars from the national indoor championships in February is expected to detract interest from the tournament.

FREAK "HOLE IN ONE" PUZZLES GOLF STARS IN LONDON DISTRICT

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—British golfers are puzzling over a freak hole-in-one and a question of golf etiquette at the same time.

A player's tee shot rolled past the flag, up the sloping bank at the back of the green and into a rabbit hole. By a local rule, the ball was picked out and dropped without penalty. It rolled down the sloping green and into the cup.

Observing the time-honored custom, the player tipped his caddie handsomely and bought refreshments for his friends, only to be told later that a referee would not have allowed the holer because a golfer is supposed to gain any advantage other than fair lie, when dropping a picked up ball.

If the ball could not have been dropped without rolling, experts ruled, it should have been placed in a fair lie by hand.

NORTHWESTERN STARS TO PLAY ON COAST

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Bob Johnson, tackle at Northwestern University for three years and placed on many all-America teams this year, has accepted the offer of "Navy Bill" Ingram, Annapolis coach, to play with the all-star Eastern football team against the all-star Westerners at San Francisco in a charity game on New Year's day. Johnson is the first Big Ten star to join the Eastern squad. He has finished his conference football career and so the post-season rule in the conference has no effect upon his athletic standing.

Roper's Greatest Gridiron Thrill

Came When Slagle Ran Through Yale

In 1925 Game, Jake Receiving Ball on His 12-Yard Line, Races 88 Yards to Touchdown.

Diving Opponents Miss Back as He Switches Direction or Pace With Rest of Pack in Pursuit.

CHAPTER XIX.

"MY 25 YEARS ON THE GRIDIRON."

By W. W. "Bill" Roper.

The Most Thrilling Play I Ever Saw.

BILL ROPER.

DURING the 25 years of my career on the gridiron, as a player, fan and coach, I have naturally watched many thrilling and wonderful plays on football fields. Of highly spectacular nature was Don Lourie's 50-odd yards run against Yale with a half minute to play in the first half of the 1920 game when he assisted Keck in faking a placement kick before starting. To some it might be the most thrilling, for it practically assured us victory.

Or I might say that Sam White furnished my greatest thrill in either the Harvard or Yale games of 1911 when he picked up loose balls in the last part of each game and ran more than half the lengths of the fields for touchdowns and victories. Certainly each was soul stirring and filled me with something much greater than delight. Each is still more than a tradition in Princeton football history.

And there are many others. But when all is said and done and I measure the many individual performances of super-brilliance, the most thrilling single pay was Jake Slagle's 82-yard run against Yale at New Haven in 1925. To be exact, Jake made 88 yards for he received the ball on his 12-yard line in punt formation and did not stop until he had carried it through the entire Yale team for a touchdown.

Yale Plays Kicking Game.

A STRONG wind was blowing that day and in the first quarter Yale had its benefit and played a kicking game with Princeton holding the ball and praying for time. In the sec . quarter conditions were reversed. Princeton had the wind and the first two times she got the ball punted on first downs.

Here Yale showed great form by getting a runback of quite some distance on the second punt and followed it up with a kick which put the ball on our 22-yard line. Slagle dropped back 10 yards from the line of scrimmag and everyone thou. .t he woul' kick out of danger. Instead of this, Caulkins, the quarterback, crossed Yale with a signal for a run around the Yale left end.

A good pass gave Slagle the ball and he started on an end sweep. The Princeton interference checked the Yale end and tackle which gave Slagle his chance to get past the line of scrimmage. Quickly he was past this point, out in the open, but with the Yale goal line 80 yards distant. He dodged the Yale fullback as that player tried to tackle him. The wing backs were side-stepped in a phenomenal way. How he did it I have never been able to determine. But he did and was out there with only the Yale quarterback between him and a score.

Keeps Changing Pace.

McMILLAN, our center, smashed his way through after passing the ball; and with Gates, our right tackle, took the quarterback out of the play, giving Slagle a clear field. By this time two Yale men were on his flanks. He still had 50 yards to go for a touchdown, and it looked as if one of these blue chasers would get him from behind. However, each time one of the men after him got within reach Slagle changed his direction or pace. He must have done this three or four times. A sixth sense seemed to tell him the position of his pursuers.

As he weaved his way down the field first one and then the other opponent dived and missed him. Meanwhile the entire pack was in pursuit and the chase was as spectacular and thrilling as it is possible to see on any gridiron. By great effort Slagle managed to elude these chasers and finally crossed the line. It seemed a mighty long time while he was making the run, though it was only a few seconds.

As the crow flies Slagle made only 88 yards but as a matter of fact, with his dodging, side-stepping and reversing of his field, he must have covered much more than a hundred yards before he slid across the Yale goal line. I cannot imagine a more thrilling play.

$30,000 Profit For Golf Body During Season

$22,967 Paid by Spectators to See Bobby Jones Win U. S. Open.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—National championship golf was conducted at a profit of $30,000 to the United States Golf Association this year, reports to the annual meeting of the organization next month in Pittsburg will show.

The bulk of this sum was derived from the amateur and open championships. A statement received from the Scioto Club at Columbus, O., scene of the open tournament, shows that $22,967.50 was paid by spectators to see Bobby Jones win the championship. One-half of this amount goes to the U. S. G. A.

The U. S. G. A. also cleared more than $11,000 on admissions alone at the amateur championship, contested in September over the Baltusrol course. Additional profit was realized from entry fees of $5 for each player in the two tournaments. There were almost 700 aspirants for the open championship and 150 for the amateur.

3000 Courses in U. S.

To this income will be added the revenue from the Women's Amateur Championship at Haverford, Pa., figures of which have not yet been made available. The attendance was considerably reduced, by rain on almost every day of the event.

In its report on the open championship, the Scioto Club announces that its treasury was swelled by $9,029.91 profit. There was a total revenue of $43,415.56 from admissions, the restaurant, advertising, parking, concessions, programs and entertainment, while the expenses of the tournament ran to $34,385.65.

The flourishing financial condition of the U. S. G. A. is balanced by the growth of the game in all sections of the country. More than 200 new courses sprang up, increasing the total to 3032, of which 160 are municipal links.

AMERICAN OWNER TO HAVE ENTRY IN GRAND NATIONAL STEEPLECHASE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16. — Stephen Sanford, turfman, of Amsterdam, N. Y., who won the Liverpool Grand National Steeplechase in 1923 with Sergeant Murphy, will bid for the March classic again this year. His entry will be Blancona, an Irish gelding by Great Sport, which he purchased recently in England from Miss Edith L. Barbour, a school girl.

Blancona, considered one of the finest jumping prospects in England, has been beaten only twice in his racing career. The terms of the sale were not made known.

Footwarmers for Spectators at 'Pro' Grid Game

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.

THE South Park Board, host to the Army-Navy game in the Soldier Field Stadium, today promised to install individual footwarmers for the spectators at a professional league football game next Sunday for a Christmas charity fund. The thermometer today ranged from 3 below to 10 above.

HOCKEY BODIES FAIL TO REACH AN AGREEMENT

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—A conference of Frank Calder of Montreal, National Hockey League president, with A. H. Warren, head of the American Association, has failed to settle the dispute between the two groups over the two Canadian amateur players signed by the Chicago American club.

Warren said he expected to meet E. J. Livingstone, head of the Chicago club, today, and confer again with Calder, but meanwhile the whole American Association stands under the "outlaw" order of Calder. The Windsor and Ontario clubs of the Canadian amateur loop have not been paid for funds advanced the two players, Calder said, and Livingstone has refused to pay for their contracts, contending they were amateurs.

Illinois Tracks Form a Circuit

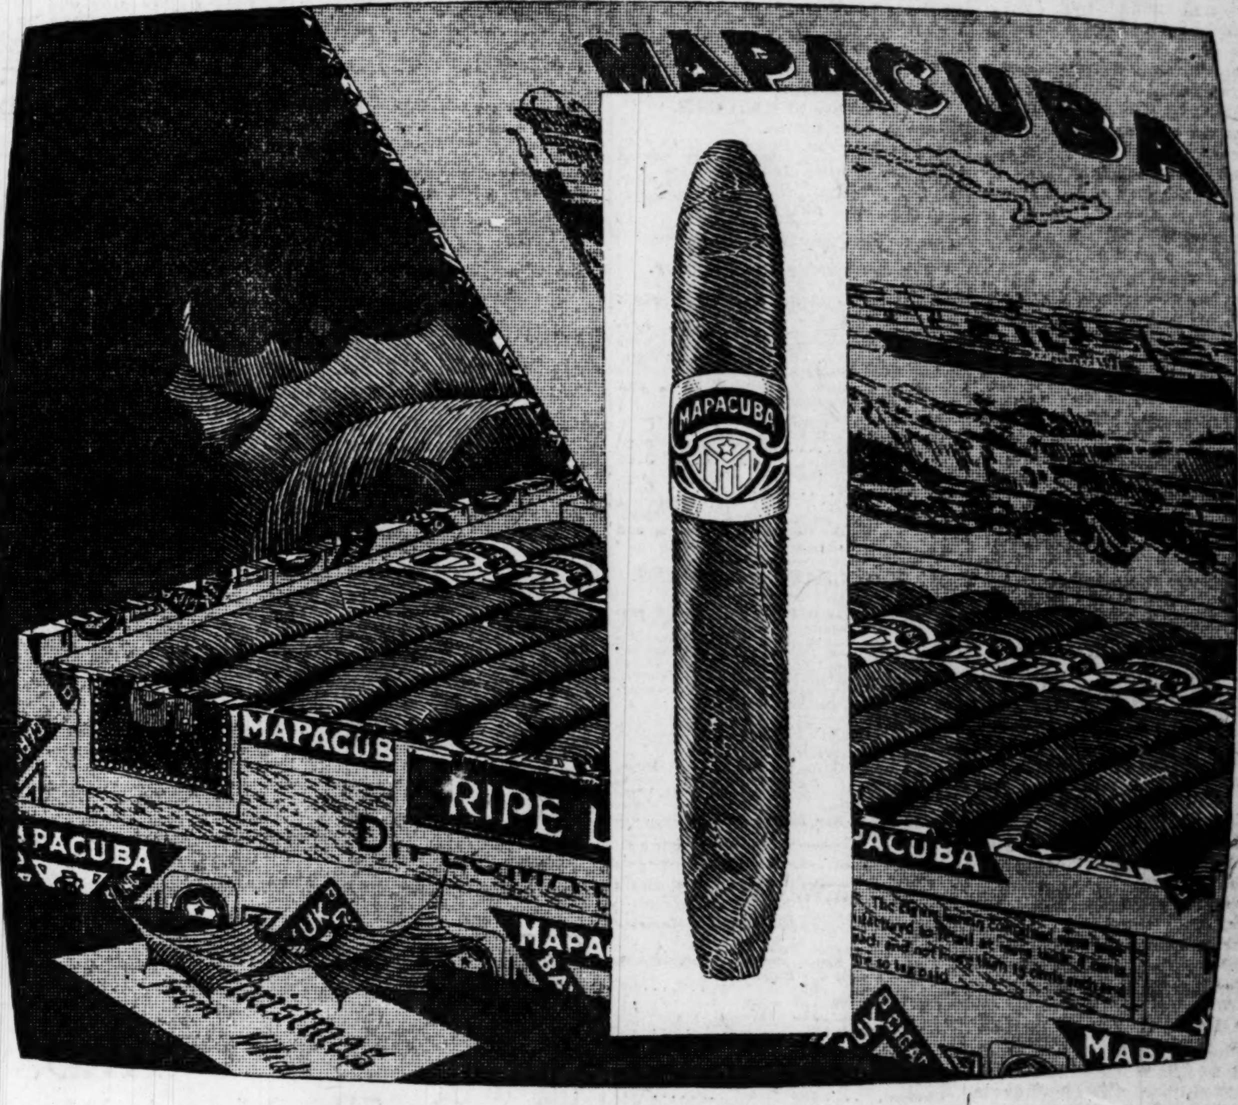
Six Racing Plants Will Each Hold Two Meets of 15 or 20 Days.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Organization of a racing circuit composed of the six tracks in Illinois, with two meetings apiece lasting 15 to 20 days, has been achieved at the gathering here of the turf representatives, with final agreement on the tentative program expected within two or three days.

A temporary governing body was elected, with Stuyvesant Peabody of Chicago as chairman and six members of the executive committee, which will assign dates and control the sport entirely. Robert M. Sweitzer of Chicago was chosen vice chairman and Charles W. Bidwill, representing the Hawthorne track here, secretary.

The dates of the meetings, to be decided upon soon, indicated that the racing season in Illinois would open around May 18, either at Aurora or Hawthorne, to start the swing around the circuit.



YOU CAN'T GO WRONG GIVING YOUR FRIENDS

MAPACUBA

It's Ripe Tobacco!

ALL the fancy names and fancy prices under the sun won't make a fine cigar. It's ripe tobacco that does it. Ripe tobacco—that's Mapacuba. The cigar you can be proud to give your friends for Christmas. The cigar they'll be tickled-to-death to receive.

Men like it. They buy it for themselves every day in the year. For it's smooth and mild and satisfying through and through.

There's not a single disappointment in a boxful of Mapacubas. Not one. They're all good. For they're all made of ripe tobacco.

Right now you can buy Mapacuba at any cigar counter, in an especial Christmas package, ready to give. No need for ribbons and wrappings. Just tie a tag to it. Mighty convenient. And a mighty fine gift. Buy Mapacuba—at any cigar counter.

American League Denies Hostility Toward Landis

Statement Terms as "Atrocious Libel" References to Naming of Johnson on Council.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Pennons of peace were fluttering as representatives of the National and American Leagues went into joint session today with K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball.

Both leagues separately had indorsed another term for the commissioner with the restoration of the advisory council composed of the two league presidents, who meet with the commissioner, and just before the joint session the American League issued a statement that publication of allegations that selection of Ban Johnson, its president, as a member of the advisory council, was "an expression of hostility" to Commissioner Landis, was an "atrocious libel."

Johnson and Landis apparently had buried the hatchet and the session opened auspiciously.

The American League statement follows:

"The publication that the selection of President Johnson for restoration of the advisory council was an expression of hostility to Commissioner Landis by the American League was an atrocious libel on the members of the league. It was the desire that the league representative should not be a club owner and it was understood by the league members that the action was entirely agreeable to the commissioner, who, in the interest of the general situation, is acquiescent to the arrangement."

Thus the majors, meeting with the commissioner, after erasing the Landis-Johnson feud of two years ago, when the commissioner ignored the council, were ready to renew Landis' contract at $50,000 a year, and then to turn their attention to the submission of the minor leagues relative to the draft agreement. Just what the minors proposed was not disclosed.

MOON WILL ALMOST PASS OUT NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT

Scheduled to Lose Some Luster on Way Through Outer Fringe of Earth's Shadow.

The moon, which has been under a cloud before, is mixed up in a shady deal the coming week-end. Astronomers say it will escape being eclipsed, but will only just escape. Next June, if it does not change its course, it will disappear completely for a time.

"Lunar appulse" is the scientific name for next Saturday night's escapade. Appulse means approach, and the moon will approach an eclipse so closely that it will lose much of its accustomed luster. At 10 p. m. the moon will begin to enter the half-lit outer shadow, or penumbra, of the earth. About midnight the moon will be all in the penumbra, and at 12:20 a. m. it will touch the umbra, or black inner shadow of the earth.

Passing out, it will leave the penumbra at 2:40 a. m. Presumably it will get a return check, as it is to go clear inside the umbra, for a total eclipse, on the night of June 15, 1927. The moon has not had an eclipse this year. St. Louis University astronomers and others will watch the coming appulse.

ROBBERS HOLD UP 11 PERSONS IN GRANITE CITY, TAKE $515

Force Dairy Proprietor to Open Safe; Saloon Keeper Is Robbed of $200.

Three armed robbers held up the Massey Dairy at Twentieth and Madison streets, Granite City, at 6 o'clock last night and escaped with $515 which they took from a safe after forcing Clay Massey, proprietor, to open it. Eleven customers and employes were held at bay by the robbers.

Earlier in the day four men robbed the saloon of Oscar Bergman at 2100 A street of $200. Bergman, his wife and bartender and several customers were ordered into the basement of the place and the holdup men fired a shot at one who was slow to obey. Last June 16 robbers got $1600 at Bergman's place.

BILL WOULD AID IMMIGRANTS

Measure Offered by Socialist to Permit Entry of Relatives.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Immigration restrictions now in force on the admission of near-relatives of aliens, who have declared their intention of becoming American citizens, would be removed under a bill introduced by Representative Berger, Socialist, Wisconsin.

"The operation of the present immigration law," he said, "has convinced me that it tends to destroy the human family far more effectively than all the liberalizations of the marriage and divorce laws that have ever been attempted."

WOMAN KILLS SELF WITH GAS

Mrs. Mary Gillette's Body Found on Floor of Kitchen.

Mrs. Mary Gillette, 40 years old, was found dead on the kitchen floor of her home, 4540 Bircher place, at 4:30 p. m. yesterday, the burners of a gas stove turned on but, not lighted. Her daughter, Hortense, 12 years old, arriving from school, found all the doors and windows locked and telephoned an uncle, Charles C. Gillette of 4413 Farlin avenue, who broke into the home.

Mrs. Gillette had been in ill health. Her husband, Thomas E. Gillette, is a traveling salesman, now in Chicago.

Man Dies of Auto Injuries.

LOUISIANA, Mo., Dec. 16.—M. G. Benning, 40 years old, a telegraph operator for the Chicago & Alton Railroad at Vera, five miles west of this place, died at his home at Bowling Green last night from injuries suffered yesterday afternoon when an automobile in which he was riding with William R. Lewis, also an operator at Vera, was driven by Lewis into an opening for a culvert on the highway near the western limits of this city. Lewis, who was driving rapidly toward Vera to go to work disregarded a detour.

RUPTURE EXPERTS COMING

Demonstrate the Famous Rice Method Free to Callers at Hotel.

If you are ruptured your big opportunity has now arrived. If you want to be free from the slavery of gouging, chafing trusses that make life a burden and misery, then HERE and NOW is the time to act. The Rice experts, trained under the personal direction of W. S. Rice, of Adams, N. Y., originator of the famous Rice (Non-Surgical) Rupture Method will be at Jefferson Hotel, St. Louis, Mo., Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 17, 18, 20 and 21, to give free demonstration and trial of his safe and painless Method to every man, woman and child who is ruptured.

You have, no doubt, heard and read much about this famous Rice Rupture Method and the wonderful cures which thousands have reported from it. Now you have the chance to find out all about it—to have it personally applied to your own rupture and learn just what it can and will do in YOUR OWN case. Just call at the hotel and these Experts will give you their personal attention, best advice and complete demonstration entirely free.

Are you tired of that binding, hampering, uncomfortable old truss? Would you like to be done with truss wearing forever? Then investigate the Rice Method and learn the wonderful opportunity for help and cure it offers. Remember it is different from everything else and is accomplishing wonderful results where all other treatments, and even operations, have failed. It is modern, up-to-the-minute, abreast of the latest scientific developments. It is the one Rupture Method you are not asked to take on faith alone—the one Method that is positively demonstrated to you right on your own rupture, without any charge whatever.

Don't let this great opportunity get away from you. Your call on the Rice Experts is sure to prove one of the best things you ever did. They will be here only four days, then your opportunity will be gone. Remember, you do not spend a penny unless, after having a complete demonstration, you decide this is the Method for you, and you—you alone—are the sole judge of that.

Call any time from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., or 7 to 9 evenings. Simply ask at the hotel for the Rice Experts and they will do the rest. Lady Expert attends all lady callers. Don't miss seeing these Rice Experts.

AALCO SUGGESTS THE GIFT PRACTICAL
Instead of paying a few dollars for some useless gift to hang on the Xmas tree, why not buy one of our special Xmas Cretificates?
Suggest this to the man of the house, who is not acquainted with the drudgery of wash day. Tell him that he can stop in at 3700 Olive and have one filled out for however much he wishes to make it. Better than that—let this paper lay where he can read it—maybe he will surprise you with a Certificate for Aalco service and carefree Mondays on Xmas Day.
For particulars, phone us or ask our representative.

Salesmen Seeking Advancement

Ambitious Men With Vision

The best thing any man can do for himself is to pick a winner, before the whole world knows it is a winner then stick with it and help it win

There are less than 2 per cent of the homes using electricity that have electric refrigeration. 1925 sales on electric refrigeration were greater than the combined sales of the 10 previous years. This year will see greater sales than the combined sales of all the previous years. The other 98 per cent are waiting to be sold.

The Lamson Co., a 50-year-old firm, with resources of $17,000,000, are manufacturers of the ICE MAID electric refrigerator unit. They will conduct an electric refrigeration training school. Compensation can only be determined by your personal qualifications to develop into an executive.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on named questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

FIGHT FAN.—Dempsey and Willard engaged only in the world championship match in 1919, which Dempsey won easily.

B. M.—The coins you list have no premiums, except the 3-cent piece, which may be worth 5c to 20c if it is a proof coin.

READER.—You may be able to find out the building owner's name through the agent or manager on the premises, or through the Real Estate Exchange.

PAT.—We cannot tell you the value of the violin. Consult reputable dealers and makers of the instrument about the instrument your own.

G. G.—You can obtain books at the Public Library on photography that will explain film developing. The details require too much space to be published in this column.

YOURS TRULY.—No one person is head of all the railroad companies in the United States. We cannot list all the stockholders and owners of the many railroad companies.

RAIN.—Consult the Weather Bureau, which is located in the Railway Exchange Building, about the various weather records you desire. They will be able to give you complete information not contained in our records.

C. L. L.—Write to the Department of Streets and Sewers, City Hall, St. Louis, Mo., for information regarding work on the city sewers and the names of the various contractors handling work of the type you desire.

MRS. F. S.—The longest bare knuckles prize fight lasted 276 rounds and resulted in Jack Jones defeating Patsy Tunney at Cheshire, England, in 1825. The longest glove fight was a draw between A. Bower and J. Burke at New Orleans, April 6, 1893. This contest went 110 rounds and lasted 7 hours and 19 minutes.

C. C. C.—We cannot work arithmetic problems in this column. You might consult the mining and metallurgy magazines on file at the Public Library. In the classified section of Ayer's Newspaper Directory you will find a list of such magazines. This directory is obtainable at the Public Library.

E. A. JR.—The President's cabinet is as follows: Secretary of State, Frank B. Kellogg; Treasury, Andrew W. Mellon; War, Dwight F. Davis; Attorney-General, John S. Sargent; Postmaster-General, Harry S. New; Navy, Curtis D. Wilbur; Interior, Hubert Work; Agriculture, William M. Jardine; Commerce, Herbert C. Hoover; Labor, James J. Davis.

CLEVELANDITE.—Your questions are obviously school work that you should find for yourself in the books at the Public Library. The vocational education books will help you, but some of the information can only be obtained from the records of the Board of Education. The music teacher of your school might be able to give you some of the information.

R. C.—Chocolate taffy is made as follows: Boil 2 cups light brown sugar, ¼ cup molasses, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons water, ⅛ teaspoon salt and three squares of unsweetened chocolate together until a few drops placed in a cup of cold water feels brittle. When the mixture is nearly cooked add ¼ cup of butter. After removing from the flame add 2 teaspoons vanilla. Pour the mixture into a buttered square or oblong pan until ½-inch thick. When cool and set mark the taffy into squares. When cool and firm break off the pieces.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

W. F. W.—A hunting license obtained this month would expire Dec. 31, 1926.

NATE.—Write to the Veterans' Bureau, Washington, D. C., for complete information regarding the insurance policy that is in the possession of the estranged wife.

THANKS.—You should take all evidence that you have which will prove your ownership of the automobile, to Room 18, City Hall, and ask for a new title to replace the lost one.

W. H. P.—You should call at Room 18, City Hall, taking all evidence you have that will prove your ownership of the automobile, in order to secure a proper title to the car.

M. U. G.—If your mother's will stated that her second husband should be allowed to live in the house during his life time, there is little you can do. You should consult a lawyer and show him the will. If your step-father has no legal interest in the house or lot you can force him to get out.

DAILY READER.—If the woman and man entered into an actual, mutual, marital agreement 15 years ago and lived as man and wife, then the woman could sue for a divorce and alimony now if she has grounds for divorce. If she can prove that the jointly owned property was originally hers she might get the court to award it to her. You should consult a lawyer to get the divorce suit filed.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

JAKE E.—Boys of your height and age vary so much in weight that it would be difficult to approximate the correct weight for you. Proper exercise and dieting will cause you to lose weight if you think you are too heavy now. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question if you want a proper diet list.

M. B.—You are now passing through the menopause, which in most women causes many different sorts of aches and pains, nervousness, mental depression and poor health in general. You should endeavor to forget your troubles, stop worrying about your condition, eat wholesome food, take fairly long walks on bright days, get lots of sleep and should try to interest yourself in some work or pastime that will not overtax your strength but will keep your mind occupied. As soon as the menopause is over you will be amazed by your feeling of general good health and if you look forward to that time instead of worrying yourself it will do you good. To relieve the nervousness take one or two 5-grain trional tablets at bed time. You may take one or two of these tablets during the daytime if you are very nervous.

FINANCIER, ONCE OPPOSED, NOW FAVORS PRIVATE FRENCH LOAN

Irving T. Bush on Return From Trip Abroad Says Conditions Have Changed.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Reversing his previous opposition to placing a loan to France, Irving T. Bush, financier and head of the Bush Terminal Co., in a letter to Vice President Dawes, advocates an American loan, from private sources and at an early date, to assist the French in stabilizing their currency and re-establishing their financial situation.

Bush, who has just returned from a visit to France, explains he has reversed his previous position because the conditions in France have changed.

"I have been in entire sympathy with the program of our Government, to frown upon further advances to France until they put their Government house in order," wrote Bush. "This reform is under way, and the condition is radically different from that which existed when our policy was adopted."

ARKANSAS FARMERS URGED TO PLANT BLACK WALNUTS

Area Favorable to Growth Extends From Pennsylvania, U. S. Bulletin States.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Farmers in Arkansas are in an area which promises unusual opportunity for institution of paying investments through the planting of black walnut trees on their farms, according to advice given by the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The crop of walnuts is large this fall, and the "favorable area" extends from Pennsylvania to Arkansas and Iowa. The upland and hill sections of the South, the O[illegible] River basin, and the central Mississippi Valley lands are inclu[illegible] in the area.

Dear Sirs.

Inclosed you will find a list of seventy five (75) radio stations which were received on the Freshman Masterpiece during Monday night November twenty second. This list has the time each was received and also what each had at that time. You will notice that there are only six Chicago stations and we are only one hundred fifty miles from there. The radio we have is on it's third year of service and still giving good programs very clear. Serial number of the set is A 7403.

Wishing you success in every way.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"With the greater part of the speculative activity confined to a small group of issues, today's market was not easy to analyze. Almost 50 per cent of the total transactions up to about 1 o'clock this afternoon were in United States Steel common, which was purchased in large blocks from the opening gong and which sold up to 157¼. At the price this morning Steel was less than 2½ points below its record high price. The buying in Steel came from several different brokers and it was accompanied by rumors on the floor that a special announcement was to be made by the Steel Corporation after the close of the market. Undoubtedly advantage was taken of the excitement in Steel to sell other stocks. In the afternoon Steel itself was hammered down about 2 points from the high.

• • •

Some of the Declines.

"Oil stocks which advanced rather sharply in the morning on the acquittal of former Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall and Edward W. Doheny on conspiracy charges, fell away quite easily in the afternoon. American Petroleum led the oil demonstration in the morning. Baldwin Locomotive was another of the high-priced industrials subjected to heavy pressure when the edge semed to have been taken off the steel market. Professional selling broke Baldwin to around 158¼, more than 7 points below Wednesday's highest price. General Motors and other industrial leaders experienced abrupt reactions. Commercial Solvents "B" broke nearly 8 points. International Harvester, Pullman Co., South Porto Rico Sugar, Foundation Co. and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe declined from 3 to 5 points. Industrial Alcohol was a weak feature. Advance Rumely preferred and common sold at new low prices for the year. It is believed that many of the railroad equipment, sugar, baking and farm implement stocks were sold this morning by speculators who wanted to switch into the fast moving issues. As a matter of fact in the absence of any adverse news developments the selling today was widely regarded as technical readjustment needed after a sustained advance. The money market was easy and call money declined from 5 to 4½ per cent.

• • •

Rails Active for Time.

"Rail shares were active for a time. Erie first preferred sold around the year's best price and Southern Railway and Southern Pacific were strong.

• • •

Franc to 4.01½ Cents.

"Franca reached a new high price for 1926 on an advance to 4.01½c for cables. Sterling was unchanged and Italian exchange was slightly higher. South American exchanges all were higher. On the whole business in the foreign exchange market was quiet, reflecting the holiday spirit abroad in the London market.

Bank of France Cuts Discount Rate to 6½ Pct.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—The Bank of France today reduced its discount rate from 7½ to 6½ per cent and its rate of interest on loans from 9½ to 8½ per cent.

The market lending rate on first-class collateral has been 10½ per cent, or 1 per cent more than the Bank of France. For some time, French business men have been protesting against the high rate which frequently was supplemented by a commission of one-fourth of 1 per cent every three months, thus making the actual charge on short term money 11½ per cent.

U. S. STEEL VOTES A $200,000,000 STOCK DIVIDEN

Directors Announce Stockholders Will Vote on [illegible] Per Cent Stock Distribution Next April.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—[illegible] Steel directors announced late [illegible] afternoon a 40 per cent stock dividend. Shareholders will vote at the annual meeting in April to increase the capitol by 2,033,210 shares in order to provide the necessary means for paying the dividends.

The United States Steel Corporation now has outstanding $508,[illegible]500 in common stock. The corporation in statement of Dec. 31, 1925, showed undivided surplus of $521,863,000. The 40 per cent dividend will represent distribution of over $200,000,000.

Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the corporation, said it was believed the property condition and earning capacity of the company justified the proposed action at this time. The following official statement was issued:

On the unanimous recommendation of the finance committee the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation has unanimously voted to recommend to the stockholders at the regular annual meeting of the corporation to be held on the third Monday of April, 1927, that the common capital shares of the corporation be increased by 2,033,210 shares which is equivalent to 40 per cent of the present outstanding common shares, for the purpose of distributing the same as an extra special dividend to common stockholders."

The big stock melon wasn't announced until after the close of business in Wall street. It was in line with the expectations of a majority of stock traders, but a considerable minority, taking its cue from the afternoon break in the steel shares, was not at all sure.

FRENCH BONDS ARE LEADERS IN TRA

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—French [illegible] were the leaders in today's trading [illegible] three foreigns of the central government sold at the highest prices reached this year and one of them, French 7s, higher than ever before in its history. The trading was most animated in the 7s and 7½s. The 8s were higher also but not quite so active. Probably because of the fact that they are not callable prior to maturity it took less buying to advance the 7½s to a new 1926 top than in the 7s. Selling at 103¼ the former was only a point and a half below the high for all time which was reached in [illegible] and still on a basis to yield about 7 per cent. Seine 7s were prominent on the advancing side among other French obligations. French National [illegible] 7s, the lowest priced French [illegible] made a new 1926 high at 94.

Elsewhere in the foreign list there were some reactions. Italian 7s, which have been so conspicuous on Wednesday, [illegible]tated above 93. German Government [illegible] at 106½ were down a point from the high of earlier in the month. [illegible] 6½s were in good demand for [illegible] around par.

FREIGHT CAR LOADINGS RETURN TO MILLION MARK

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. [illegible]—Freight loadings again returned to the million car weekly mark with a total of 1,058,151 cars for the week ending Dec. 4.

The loadings, the American Railway Association reported, showed an increase of 115,350 cars over the preceding week in which the Thanksgiving holiday fell, and an increase of 37,312 over the first week of December in 1925.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—As no sales were reported in the raw sugar market early today, prices were unchanged at 5.15 for Cuban duty paid. Inactivity in the spot market and the weakness abroad led to renewed selling pressure in raw sugar futures. Prices broke 2 to 5 points for active deliveries but at these levels new increased buying from houses with Cuban connection and partial rallies followed with the market at midday 2 to 3 points net lower. A prominent statistical bureau here estimates the Porto Rican crop now about to be harvested at 550,000 long tons or 20,000 tons more than its previous estimate compared with last year's outturn of 544,484 tons. There was no improvement in demand for refined sugar or any change in quotations which range from 6.20 to 6.40 for fine granulated.

Close barely steady; approximate sales 43,300 tons. Dec., 3.21c; Jan., 3.21c; March, 3.27c; May, 3.32c; July, 3.40c.

LOWER PRICES RULE ON THE COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The cotton market lost part of yesterday's advances under realizing by recent buyers and increased Southern selling today. Covering was less active after the buying of the previous day and a little selling on better weather prospects was probably a factor. The mid-season market was about 12 to 15 points net, with January selling at 12.11c.

The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 1 to 4 points under Southern hedge selling and realizing, which appeared to have been attracted by yesterday's advance.

Futures closed easy, 20@24 lower. Dec. 12.40@12.41c; Jan. 12.02@12.04c; March, 12.28c; May 12.49c; July, 12.69@12.70c. Spot quiet; middling, 12.60c.

January sold off to 12.16c and May to 12.60c toward the end of the first hour, net declines of about 9 to 10 points, but offerings were absorbed by further covering and a little trade buying.

Early cables from Liverpool were relatively steady on trade calling and covering and also may have been influenced by an advance in the market for Egyptian futures at Alexandria, but the English market eased off several points after the local opening.

Trading was quiet later in the morning and after easing off to 12.15 for January prices held fairly steady. There was some further Southern selling and realizing promoted by the prospect for better weather in the South which some thought would be followed by an increased movement to market and possibly freer spot offerings. It was in comparatively small volume, however, and there were rallies of 4 to 5 points from the lowest on renewed covering, with January selling around 12.20 at midday.

New York Cotton

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The cotton market came under pressure at the opening today and weight of contracts in conjunction with diminished buying power led to a steady loss throughout the session ending at lowest figures of the day.

Prices lost about a dollar a bale on the day. Spots were reduced ¼c to 12.60c.

U. S. STEEL VOTES A $200,000,000 STOCK DIVIDEND

Directors Announce Stockholders Will Vote on 40 Per Cent Stock Distribution Next April.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—U. S. Steel directors announced late this afternoon a 40 per cent stock dividend. Shareholders will vote at the annual meeting in April to increase the capitol by 2,033,210 shares in order to provide the necessary means for paying the dividends.

The United States Steel Corporation now has outstanding $508,302,500 in common stock. The corporation in statement of Dec. 31, 1925, showed undivided surplus of $521,863,000. The 40 per cent dividend will represent distribution of over $200,000,000.

Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the corporation, said it was believed the property condition and earning capacity of the company justified the proposed action at this time. The following official statement was issued:

On the unanimous recommendation of the finance committee, the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation has unanimously voted to recommend to the stockholders at the regular annual meeting of the corporation to be held on the third Monday of April, 1927, that the common capital shares of the corporation be increased by 2,033,210 shares, which is equivalent to 40 per cent of the present outstanding common shares, for the purpose of distributing the same as an extra special dividend to common stockholders."

The big stock melon wasn't announced until after the close of business in Wall street. It was in line with the expectations of a majority of stock traders, but a considerable minority, taking its cue from the afternoon break in the steel shares, was not at all sure.

FRENCH BONDS ARE LEADERS IN TRADING

Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—French bonds were the leaders in today's trading. All three foreigns of the central government sold at the highest prices reached this year and one of them, French 7s, higher than ever before in its history. The buying was most animated in the 7s and 7½s. The 8s were higher also but not quite so active. Probably because of the fact that they are not callable prior to maturity it took less buying to advance the 7½s to a new 1926 top than in the 7s. Selling at 103¼ the former were only a point and a half below the highest for all time which was reached in 1922, and still on a basis to yield about 7.15 per cent. Seine 7s were prominent on the advancing side among other French dollar obligations. French National Steamship 7s, the lowest priced French issue, also made a new 1926 high at 94.

Elsewhere in the foreign list there were some reactions. Italian 7s, which had been so conspicuous on Wednesday, hesitated above 93. German Government 7s at 106½ were down a point from their high of earlier in the month. Japanese 6½s were in good demand for a time around par.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Dec. 16.—Wheat ranged fractionally over to fractionally under the previous sales on the market today. Corn was lower affected by movement report. On the bullish side of wheat was the report that wheat coming this week from ports on the Black Sea was only 796,000 bushels, compared with 2,616,000 bushels the previous week. Argentine wheat exports although larger than a week ago were under the corresponding total last year. Both wheat and corn were lower late in day.

The close was lower all around, slackness of export demand for wheat from North America being a late factor in wheat trade.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was quiet and steady. Hard was scarce firm and wanted. Corn was steady to 1c lower. Demand was good. Oats were 1c to 2c higher. Demand was good.

The early range of wheat was limited as was also case in corn market. Liverpool cable was ⅛d to ⅜d higher early and Winnipeg was unchanged to ¼c up in the early trading.

May wheat opened at $1.39⅛ and May corn 83⅛c.

Black Sea shipments were said to have fallen off. On the other hand, it was said Argentine shipments were expected to be larger. Liverpool closed 1d to ⅜d net higher December showing the wide range.

Local wheat receipts which were 61,600 bushels compared with 49,000 a week ago and 93,800 last year included 25 cars local and 19 through. Corn receipts, which were 65,800 bushels compared with 106,400 a week ago and 126,000 last year included 44 cars local and 3 through. Oats receipts which were 40,000 bushels compared with 66,000 a week ago and 84,000 last year included 15 cars local and 5 through. Hay receipts were 19 cars local and 6 through.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 730 cars of wheat, compared with 1283 a week ago and 2506 last year, Minneapolis receiving 182 cars, Duluth 60 and Winnipeg 488.

Clearances were 92,000 bushels of wheat, 15,000 barrels of flour and 160,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

Primary receipts of wheat were 697,000 bushels, compared with 772,000 a week ago and 1,261,000 last year. Corn receipts were 749,000 bushels, compared with 794,000 a week ago and 1,178,000 last year. Oats receipts were 288,000 bushels, compared with 328,000 a week ago and 591,000 last year. Wheat shipments were 480,000 bushels, compared with 688,000 a week ago and 556,000 last year. Corn shipments were 229,000 bushels, compared with 335,000 a week ago and 471,000 last year. Oats shipments were 372,000 bushels, compared with 321,000 bushels a week ago and 410,000 last year.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Sales of cash grain made on the exchange Thursday were as follows: No. 1 red winter wheat, $1.40; No. 2 red winter wheat, $1.37@1.39; No. 3 red winter wheat $1.36; No. 1 red smutty wheat, $1.30; No. 2 hard wheat, $1.43; No. 5 mixed corn 65c; No. 6 mixed corn, 64@65c; No. 2 yellow corn, 85c; No. 3 yellow corn 78c; No. 4 yellow corn, 71@72c; No. 5 yellow corn 65½@70½c; No. 6 yellow corn, 64@65c; No. 3 white corn, ... St. Louis Hay Market.

Timothy hay was firm under moderate receipts with a good local demand for the better grades. Medium grades also in fair request, lower grades continue dull. Light clover mixed offerings scant. Heavy clover mixed hay scarce. Pure clover hay also scarce. Alfalfa situation unchanged. Prairie hay market firm.

Hay quotations: No. 1 timothy, $23.50@24; standard timothy, $23@23.50; No. 2 timothy, $20@21; No. 1 light clover mixed, $23@24; No. 2 light clover mixed, $20@21; No. 1 heavy clover mixed, $24@25; No. 2 heavy clover mixed, $22@23; No. 1 pure clover, $28@29; No. 2 pure clover, $24@25; choice alfalfa, $28@29; No. 1 alfalfa, $26@27; standard alfalfa, $24@25; choice prairie, $19@20; No. 1 prairie, $18@19; No. 2 choice prairie, $16@17.

WHEAT PRICES BREAK IN LATE CHICAGO TRADE

Special to the Post-Dispatch

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—There was a better tone in the wheat trade today, due largely to increased outside interest. A large number of commission-house orders, mostly for small lots, helped the market.

Prices held within a narrow range during early trade, with locals inclined to sell because of disappointing initial cables, but there was a steady absorption of offerings by commission houses and the effect of this was felt resting orders sales and offerings on resting orders were encountered on a moderate advance.

Buying power gave out in the wheat market during the late trade and prices broke badly under selling by local longs. Closing prices were near the lowest of the day, showing losses of ⅞ to ⅛c. December $1.38⅛, May $1.39 to ⅛, July $1.32 to ⅛. Corn closed 1 to 1⅜c lower. December 73⅝ to ⅝c, May 81⅝ to ⅝c, July 84¼ to ⅜c. Oats were ⅛ to ⅜c lower. December 45⅛c, May 50 to ⅛c, July 48⅝c. Lard closed 7½ to 15c lower, ribs 10c higher, bellies 5c higher. Local cash sales were 53,000 bushels of corn, 51,000 of oats, 6000 of barley. Cash wheat basis was unchanged to 1c higher and ½c higher to ½c lower.

Liverpool today closed 1⅛d to 2⅝d higher after starting slow. This was due largely to disappointing exports from countries other than America. Russian shipments this week dropped to 776,000 bushels and Danubian countries shipped only 200,000 bushels, while Argentine shipments were but a little under 600,000 bushels. Argentine reports continue favorable with harvesting started in the province of Buenos Aires. The Buenos Aires market was quarter higher on the second call.

Foreign demand for hard winter wheat continues slack at the moment. Milling demand also is quiet and both Northwestern and Southwestern mills report flour demand slower.

Corn trade was quiet with the undertone easy. There was a little pressure based on the increasing movement. Today's receipts were set at 304 cars. Country offerings are increasing but at prices above the present market and only 5,000 bushels were booked. Firmness in wheat checked selling. Shipping sales were slightly larger.

The price range was narrow in oats, but with the tone easy. The market has had a good advance and there is a disposition on the part of longs to accept profits on hard spots. Sentiment though remains bullish because of low prices compared with other grains and the small crop of good oats.

Provisions were under pressure from packers.

THE WOMAN OF IT

—By—

Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

The Worst Possible Sex!

"THAT this house disapproves of women!"
There's the fine, sweeping, scornful resolution
Just debated by undergraduates of the Cambridge Union Society—
University men in England appear to be almost as antiwoman
As are some little boys at Harvard and Yale!
After such a fatal sentence has been passed on our sex,
We fail, we faint, we die—
Or at least we probably should do so!
Nevertheless, with a few last lingering breaths
We must make answer, however feeble,
To the detailed charges against women
As brought by the secretary of the Cambridge Union Society,
A Mr. King-Hamilton.
(Did some English beauty
Promise to go to tea with him, and then turn him down?
Yes, we know that women always ascribe a personal motive,
But then, men often have one!)
(1) He charges that women
Have always sacrificed comfort to fashion.
On the contrary, the dress of the modern woman,
With her short skirts, light-weight garments, bare neck,
Is far more comfortable
Than the heavy wool and stiff starch
With which men encumber themselves.
And don't they sacrifice comfort to fashion?
Oh, don't they! Ask any man
If evening dress is his idea of comfort!
(2) Women today, says Mr. King-Hamilton,
Are as double-faced as their primeval ancestors.
If he means that they have one face, before going to the dressing table,
And another face afterward—
We think he underestimates women's progress in cosmetic art.
We're perfectly certain
That she makes up more and better than her "primeval ancestors."
If, however, he means that women
Were and are treacherous—
The whole female sex will answer,
"So's your old man!"
(3) Modern women, he says, would rather die
Than grow old and gray-haired.
But no such ultimatum confronts modern women!
They can dye without dying (excuseitplease),
And keep young always, in heart,
And nearly always in looks.
(4) The modern girl snaps a ruthless young man,
Bangles her arms, shingles her hair, bungles her face;
When she gets herself up, she looks like nothing on earth,
And is an object of envy and contempt among her own kind.
The answer is that tastes differ,
And that no modern girl is "an object of envy and contempt among her own kind,"
Unless Mr. King-Hamilton's kind
Admires her arms and hair and face,
And finds her looking better than anything else on earth.
(5) The scornful young man declares a university education for women
Unfits them for life.
That charge isn't even original,
It's been made by so many employers
Against young MEN!
(6) He says women had better concentrate on some useful subject,
Such as domestic economy, which means "husband."
Ah, but ever so many women
DO concentrate on "some useful subject such as . . . 'husband'!"
Why would Mr. King-Hamilton increase the area of concentration?
Is he afraid he'll be missed?
He needn't worry—
Any man who talks as he does
Gives a dare to every girl who knows him,
And she always takes it!
Furthermore, women will never vote censure on the male sex,
So long as it contains such comedy relief as Mr. King-Hamilton—
To make us all giggle!

IF I WERE QUEEN.

If I were Queen,
I think that I
Would constitute
A law whereby
The jails would ope—
Or there'd be the rope—
For every man
Who dared to pan
WOMEN!

EVELYN A. SOLOMON.

New York, says Edmund S. Cogswell, research director, is a young man's town. A Southern belle informs us that her researches agree with Mr. Cogswell's. "Why, New York young men," she asserts, bitterly, "even expect GIRLS to telephone THEM!"

If It Isn't One Thing, It's Another.

"The hazards of disruption of married life because of drinking have been reduced by about one-half since preprohibition days," declares Prof. Irving T. Fisher. But the hazards of disruption of married life seem to become more hazardous with each set of divorce statistics published.

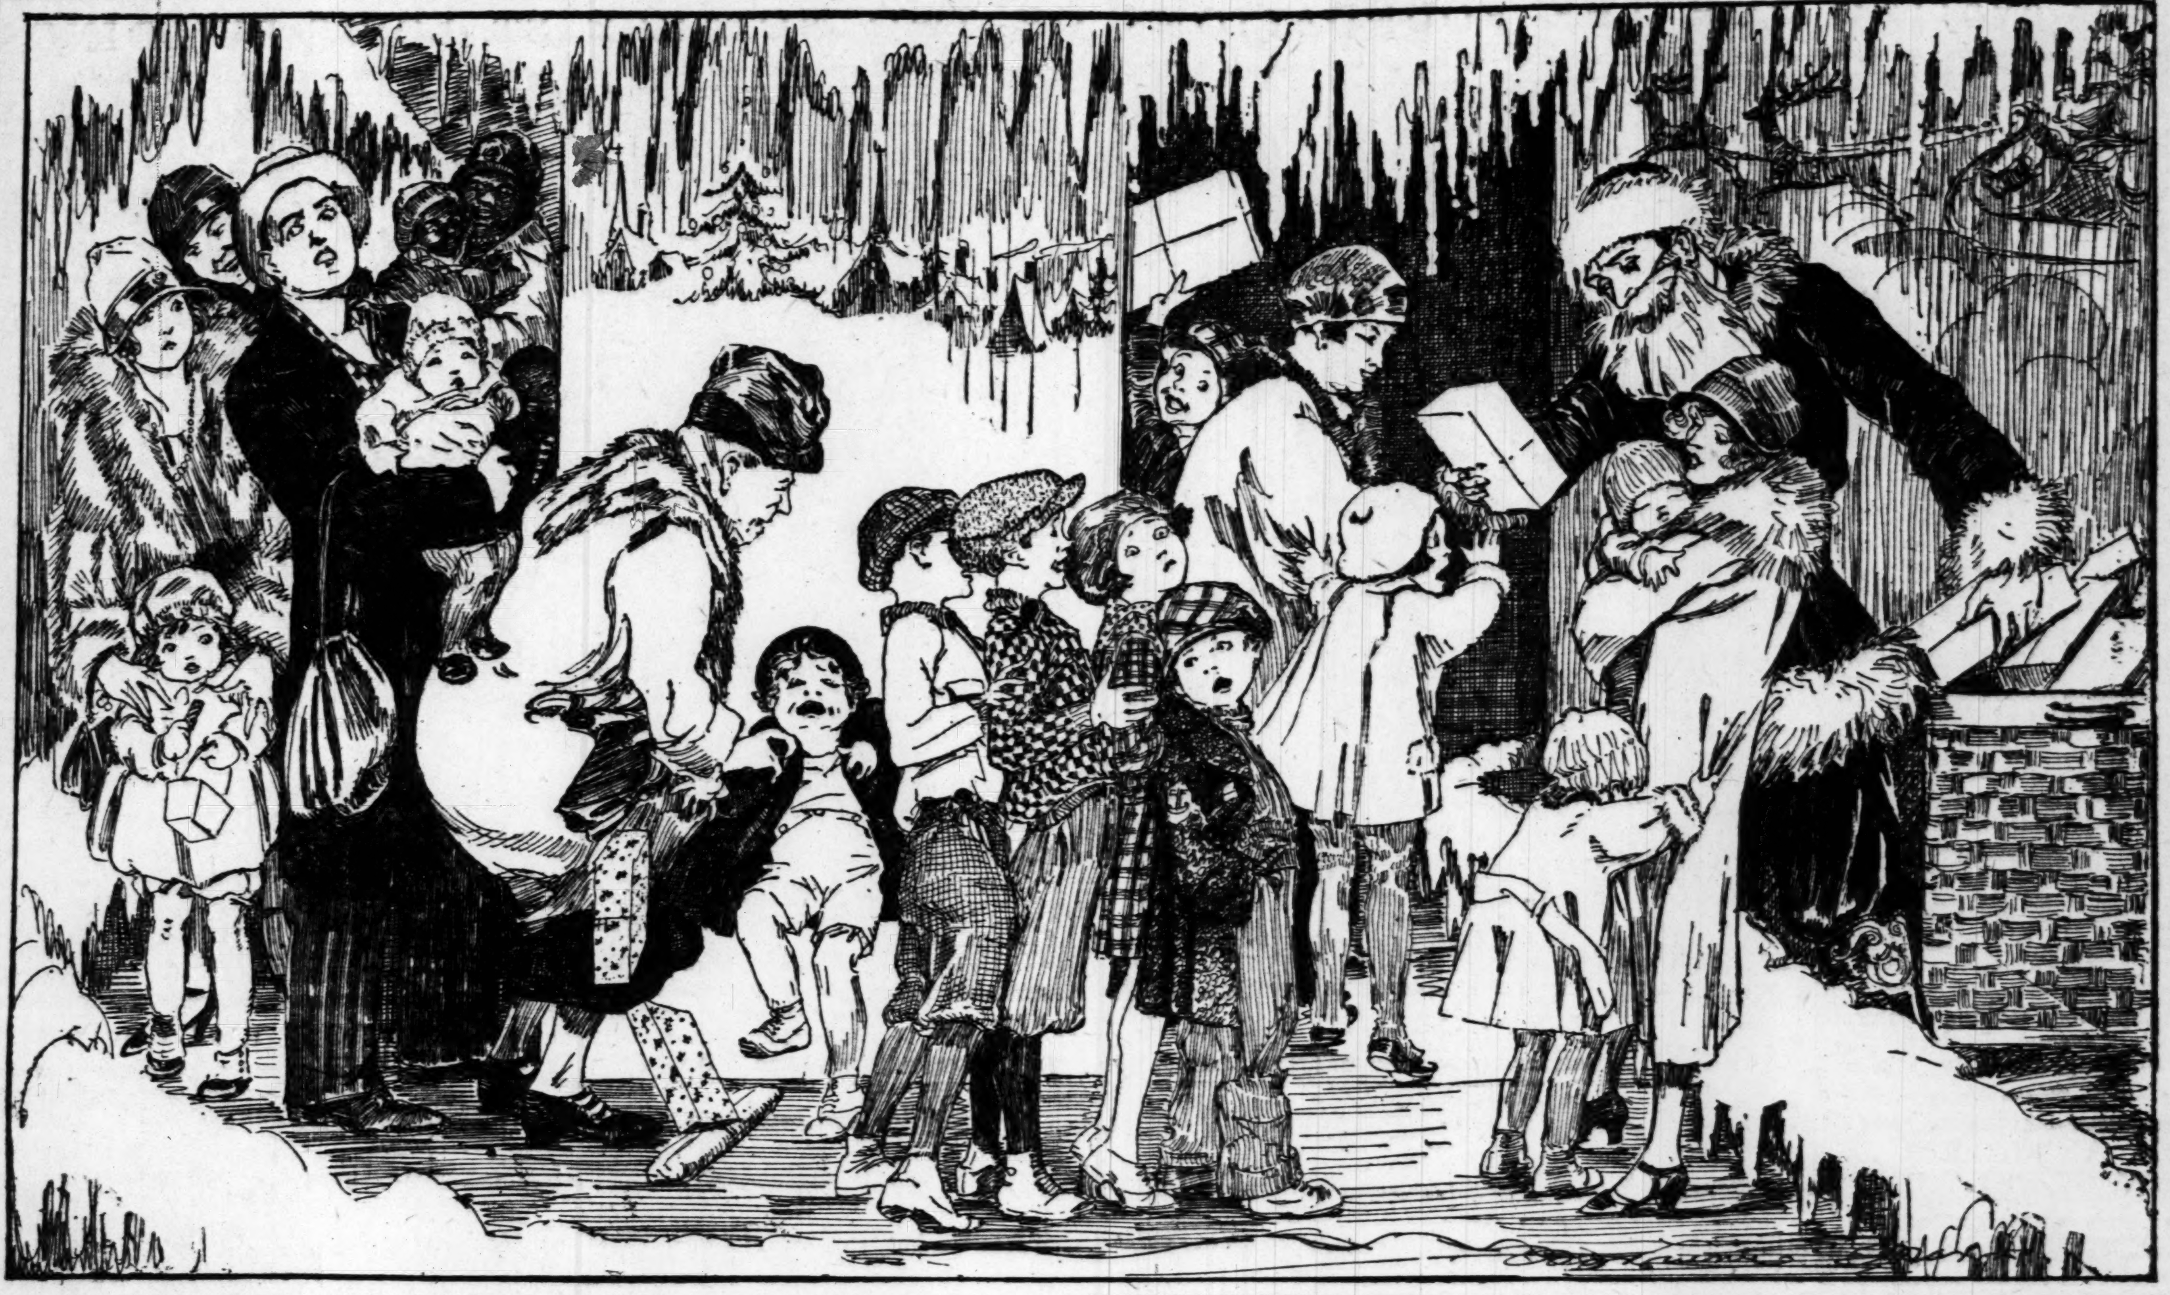
ROAMING AROUND ST. LOUIS ✦ The Department Store Santa Claus ✦

Sketched for the Post-Dispatch By MARGUERITE MARTYN



By J. H. ALEXANDER.

HERE is your ticket, madam. Twenty-five cents, yes—over this way and present the ticket to Santa. He will give the child a gift—

—How long we gonna have to stand in line? Mom, I'm gittin' tard. Is old Santy really here? I seen him once already, Mom. I don't want his old present anyway, Mom. I don't like his old whiskers, Mom—

—Be still, he might hear you! He's right around this corner, now.

—Mom, what they got that electric fan going for? Is it hot, here, Mom? This is the same way we came before, aint it, Mom? Look at that little boy, Mom, his mother aint taking his present back. Hello, boy—

—idea of giving a four-year-old boy a doll! What does he think I'm raising, anyhow. No boy of mine is going to be a sissy when he grows up, even if his father is afraid to argue with a vacuum-cleaner salesman. Ernest, tell Santa what you are going to be when you grow up—

—hard guy like Uncle Bill—

—and what you'll do when some man sasses mother—

—wreck him, like you do Pop. Hello, boy; I can beat you—

—how old is the little boy, madam—

—Santy, I think it's terrible for you to give my boy a doll. He's been such a good child (giving Santa the wink)—

—well, well, well, well, here's a real present for him, a regular man's present. Four years old, hey? Well, well—

—never had a bit of trouble until her third summer. Such a time! Ruin her disposition? Not a bit of it. Still as sweet and angel-like—Millie! If you poke another hole in that scenery——such crust! Takes me to see Bradley the Magnificent and loses his tickets—

—you shouldn't kick, Hon. My husband says the market is flooded with football pictures. One is just like the other—

—pay twenty-five cents to wait in line in this stuffy cavern for half an hour. Fine stuff! Hang on tight, Esther. Where's Henry and the baby? Went in the other way, I bet. That man is as goofy as the day he asked me to marry him—

—oh, it's not that bad, mother. That was my best effort. Here I am up here around the corner. Heard every word you said. That's the stuff, tell everybody our family history—

—present for a boy six years old! In the first grade, I'll bet a cookie. No? Well, here's your present. Don't cry, didn't mean to scare you. Fine child, madam—

—Oscar! Oscar! My God, Oscar! My child—Oscar—disappeared—fell through scenery—thought it was rock—fell—probably fifty feet—

—here he is, madam, hale and hearty. Have to brace that spot there. Little devil-bit my finger, look at it bleed! Tore the clothes half off my body—

—Quit shovin, Angelo, dis aint a delicatessen—

—you got that ticket, Irisher, don't ferget that. Whatever that present is, you get half, I get half, my little brother gets half and so does Chink. Or maybe you'd like to spend Christmas over to Captain Nally's—

—if you'd went to school, Angelo, and learnt some arithmetic—

—quit shovin'—

—Pop, why do we have to stand here, Pop? It looks cold in here, don't it, Pop? But it ain't, is it, Pop? Pop, I heard Mom tell Missus Niemeyer you was Santa Claus last year. How could that be, Pop? You was home all summer and Santy makes his toys up at the North Pole all summer, don't he Pop? Willie Murphy says there aint any Santa Clause but there is, huh, Pop? Cause I got toys from him, huh, Pop—

—thank heaven we're out of that hot place! My poor feet are swollen frightfully. Open your package, Ernest, and see what Santa gave you this time—

—ooh, Mom it's a book! Read it, Mom—

—Grimm's Fairy Tales! For my boy! Never! I'll throw this book in the manager's face—

—beat him, Mom, I'll help you—we'll get Pop, too—

(SMACK).

The Diary of a New Father

Thursday afternoon.

WHEN I reached the office this morning there was a telegram on my desk and I dashed over, but before I could get my hands on it the boss hollered for all of us to come in his office. He told us we were to have a half-holiday this afternoon because of the civic celebration in connection with the opening of the new Grand avenue viaduct. We all said "Hurray" and I ran back to my desk and opened the telegram, and dog-gone, I'd have liked to buy brother-in-law Bill a drink right then and there.

His wire said, "Boil it, of course. Has your doctor no sense. Are you going to raise that kid on advice from 500 miles away."

Well, I didn't go to the bridge opening. I had plans of my own. I went home as soon as the office closed at noon, and I took the telegram right in to where Joan and her mother were eating lunch, and I put it down in front of them and said, "Well, what's the argument now?"

Mother-in-law read it and said, "I like your method only slightly less than your manner."

How can you argue with a woman like that?

She went out after a bit, though, and Joan was pleasant to me again. She seemed to have forgotten that I called her brothers bums when we were arguing Monday night, but later she said, "You don't think they are bums now, do you?" and I said, "Well, I'll have to admit Bill is all right."

THE pointer for today is:

Declarer should finesse to catch a Queen whenever he has less than nine cards of the suit in his two hands; with nine or more he should not finesse.

This pointer, like that of yesterday, must be qualified when conditions resulting from the bidding or the previous play indicate that the finesse should be made or refused. It does not pay to guess or to follow a hunch; the thing to do is to follow the mathematical chances. With Ace-King-Jack in one hand or with Ace-King in one hand and Jack-10 in the other, or with one of the two top honors in one hand and the other top honor and the Jack in the other, the finesse should be tried when the total holding of the suit in the two hands is less than nine; but with the total of nine, the Ace and King should be led, with the hope that the adverse Queen either will be alone or but singly guarded.

The double tenace—Ace-Queen-10—presents another special problem, the question being whether to play the Queen or the Ten on the first trick. Again the answer is determined mathematically. If Declarer's two hands contain a total of eight cards or fewer, the double finesse (i. e., playing the Ten) should be taken; but with a total of nine or ten cards, the single finesse (i. e., playing the Queen) should be selected. It goes without saying that the lead should be toward the hand containing the double tenace, and that the play should be suitably varied if the Second Hand play an honor.

Holding	Total cards of Suit in Declarer's Two hands	Pla
Ace-Queen	11	Ace
Ace-Queen	10 or less	Queen
Ace-King-Jack	9 or more	King

A Wife's Transformation

By MARY CULBERTSON MILLER

INSTALLMENT XXI.

HELEN SELECTS IMPORTANT ACCESSORIES.

"THIS," said the shopper, the following day as Helen continued her tour of shops, "is an awfully attractive model." She was displaying a crepe frock, the stock girl had just brought in. "The material is called crepe Elizabeth. Do you notice the very pink cast, Mrs. Crane?"

"It's a sort of champagne, is it not?"

"Yes, but much more flattering. It tends to give you color rather than eliminate it. Shall we try it on?" Helen agreed. "If you decide on it, I'll arrange for both fittings tomorrow." A few minutes and the becoming frock was adjusted. "Please notice the group of tiny tucks at the neck line in the back. They mitigate the usual severity. And the neck line of this frock is very intriguing, I think. You see, you have a choice of wearing it high and tying to the side back of the neck, or bowing it in the center front with small loops and long ends."

Helen was fussing with the sleeves.

"You may think the sleeves are too long, but it really is the proper taper to wear a very snug cuff so that the puff overhangs. I think the variation in this puff is most attractive. I want you to notice the way it is cut out and the edges picoted. Although the skirt has the appearance of a circular flare—the front is in reality a straight line mode with an applied circular flounce. Another style feature of it is the wide crushable girdle which gives a very low waist line."

"I think I shall like it very much," Helen smiled.

"You can look at these other models, but that would be my choice for you."

"I'm quite satisfied," she returned, her eyes on her wrist.

"Will you have times for hats and the rest of our schedule?" the shopper asked.

She looked up brightly. "Two full hours before I'm due at the rhythm school."

"Come along—we'll finish in that time. We'll go to the Gold Room first and select your hats. I was looking them over early this morning and put aside just what I want."

A few minutes later Helen was watching the shopper adjust a Belting Beret on her head. "I think this would be very smart with your frock. It has an ombre effect."

Helen was studying the effect in the mirror. Studying it from all angles as the professional shopper was urging her to do. "In wearing this hat," the shopper impressed, "be sure to get it well down on your head and over one eye. I want you to notice the workmanship, too. The construction of the crown is like a series of disconnected circles. The Tam-Shanter effect with the visor turning back is quite unusual. And notice the shading of the pearl pin stabbed in the visor so carelessly. I like it because it is all so harmonious."

Helen thought the headband was a little loose. "It has individuality, has it not?"

"It's very distinctive. I shall have the headband altered." That was put aside. "And now," said the shopper, "I'll get the felt mode for your shell pink costume."

Reappearing she remarked, "This is the very thing." A large felt mode was placed on Helen's head. "This is exactly the same color as your shell pink costume. I shall have the designer cut out and fit this to your head if you really think you'll like it."

"It is what you think," Helen observed very quietly.

"Well, then—my idea is to keep it very simple. I should like it turned up in the back, trimmed and bound in rose pink velvet ribbons—the binding to be an inch wide. The line of the crown I'd like broken by crushing it down toward one side. Then we'd use a two-inch wide velvet ribbon to match the binding around the crown, finished in a series of loops and ends where the crown is broken." Helen agreed to that, and a few minutes later they were standing at the elevator.

"Just a word in general about shoes and sheer silk hosiery before we make our selections," said the shopper. "Don't wear chiffon hose with sandals that have just enough sole to keep the contraption on in winter. No matter what their attraction may be on a warm sunny day, on cold slushy days, they are ridiculous. Not only is the wearer foolishly unfashionable, but she is courting ill health as well. Sensible oxfords, or strapped slippers, that offer some support and protection to the foot should be worn with heavy silk hose. And that sort of footgear is vastly more sensible on a raw day."

"That's quite true." Helen seemed to be indulging in an inward chuckle. "But I feel as if I never wanted even to see a heavy silk stocking again. I used to insist upon them."

"Just be sensible—that is all that is necessary. Now then—for the coral gables we'll consider blonde kid with spike heels and bronze beaded oval buckles." To the salesperson in attendance the shopper told the size required and also asked for the same size in high-heeled white kid pumps, lizard trimmed.

"The white kid pumps, lizard trimmed, will be the very thing for your shell pink. We'll want flesh chiffon hosiery, too, also the nude for your blonde kid pumps."

They were on their way down to the first floor to select the accessories for the two costumes. They proved to be—a small white kid pouch bag, white doe-skin pull-on gloves, pink beads and earrings. That was for the shell pink ensemble. For the coral gables they decided on French suede pull-on gloves in baize, and a tan faille silk bag with covered frame and an amber knob.

Our six weeks with Helen Crane are almost over. Tomorrow will come the story of Bob's return from Texas.

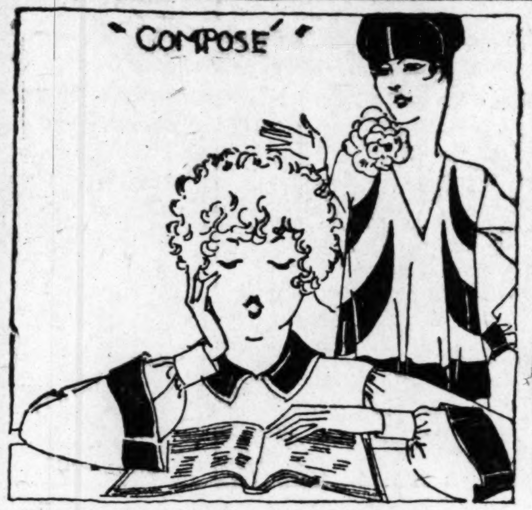
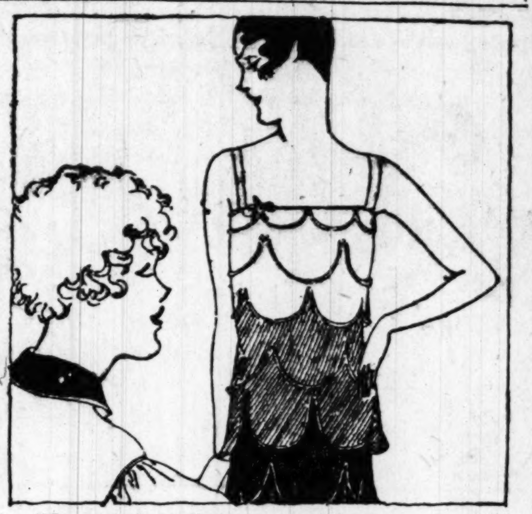
MODISH MITZI

Compose Effects Are Newest

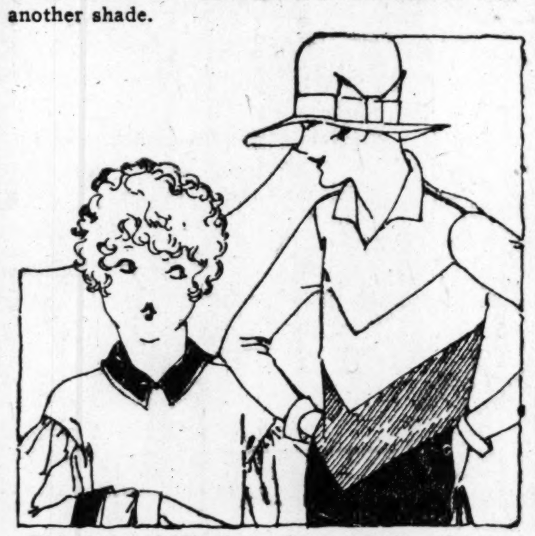
By Jay V. Jay



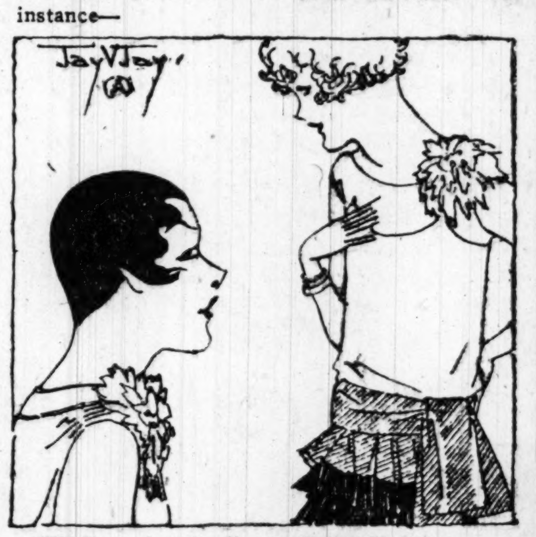
"Such a waste of time," says Mitzi to Polly, "learning French, there's only one French word you need this season—that's compose." "Compose" applies to Mitzi's frock, too, which is made of one shade of silk crepe and then banded with another shade.



"Compose" applied to materials means a combination of different colors in the same fabric. This step-in of Mitzi's is of flesh, pale rose and deep rose georgette. It can also mean three shades in the same color and the same material. For instance—



This dress of Mitzi's is of three shades of green wool jersey. The term doesn't apply to combinations of colors that contrast each other, but only to combinations of colors or shades that harmonize in a subdued and quiet fashion.



"Well, as for that," says Polly, "I have a compose dress of my own." And so she has—a silk crepe frock made of three shades of grayish blue and bluish gray with a blue flower on one shoulder. "Compose" is, at least, the word of the season.

Theory About Eyelashes.

LONDON. — English eyelashes again are being sacrificed. The vogue in London is to have every other eyelash pulled out on the theory that the ones left in position become longer, thicker and more conspicuous generally.

"Caviare" a Color Now.

LONDON.—Two new colors are being featured in Mayfair, and its neighbor, the Royal Borough of Kensington. One is "caviare," which is exactly the gray-black its name suggests, and the other is "cassis," a purplish black currant shade.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

I SHALL not hunger any more, nor shall I thirst again, my need was great, my want was sore, my spirit racked with pain; thirst is not always quenched with wine and hunger may be fed with subtle essences divine, a finer meat and bread. For loneliness is hunger, too, and loneliness is thirst; the man whom wants like these pursue knows living at its worst. But as for me, my thirst is past, my hunger satisfied, my spirit dwells in peace at last and all my griefs have died. For after all the empty years a friend has come to me and now once-barren ways of tears have bloomed to ecstasy. No thirst, no hunger any more, life holds no sting or smart; a friend has opened wide the door and stepped into my heart.

YOU SHOULD SERVE

Horseradish sauce with stuffed filets of fish.

• • •

Dried lentil soup, these cold days with bacon or frankfurters cooked in it.

• • •

Onions and celery frequently for those suffering with nervous disorders.

• • •

Potatoes in various ways. Escalloped Lyonnaise, "on the half shell" and baked with cheese and green peppers are just a few of the many appetizing forms in which to serve them.

Casserole of Veal and Mushrooms.

Peel and coarsely dice one-half pound mushrooms. Cut one and one-half pounds of stewing veal in good-sized cubes and mince two medium sized onions, a green pepper and enough celery to make a cup. Simmer the celery, pepper and onion five minutes in two tablespoons butter, add the veal, over which two tablespoons flour should be sifted, and place in a casserole with water to barely cover, one and one-half teaspoons salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Cook until almost tender in a moderate oven about an hour and a half. Then add mushrooms. Cook thirty minutes longer and serve on boiled rice or mashed potato.

Jerry Muskrat Has a Fright

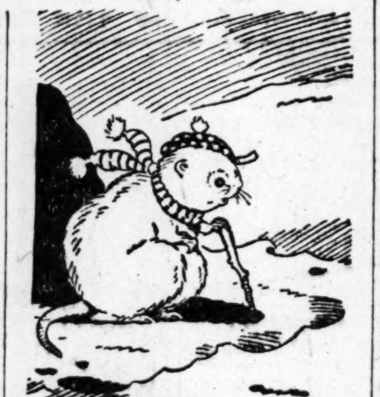
When no danger is in sight,
Then watch out for sudden fright.
—Jerry Muskrat.

IT sounds queer, but it often is true that the safest time is the most dangerous time. The reason is that when you feel perfectly safe you are very likely not to be watching out for danger. It is just as necessary to watch out for danger when you feel perfectly safe as it is when you don't feel so safe. The little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows know this, but just like little human people, they forget sometimes. It was so with Jerry Muskrat.

If there is any time of year when Jerry Muskrat feels safe it is in winter after Jack Frost has frozen the Smiling Pool and the Laughing Brook. There is only one enemy that can get to him then, of whom he is really afraid, and that is Billy Mink. Billy can, of course, go right into Jerry's house. But Billy isn't likely to do it. Billy isn't looking for trouble, and when he faces Jerry Muskrat he faces a whole lot of trouble. He would have to be pretty hungry.

You see, with ice on the Smiling Pool Jerry Muskrat can go and come under the ice as he pleases. He has his nice, warm house out in the Smiling Pool, and he has his castle in the bank. He can go from one to the other, and as he always has plenty to eat, he lives a very comfortable, easy life while some of his friends are having a hard time of it. Storms and cold mean nothing to Jerry Muskrat. If the weather is unusually cold Jerry knows nothing about it. It isn't unusually cold down under the ice. It is always just the same. The ice may grow a little thicker, but that is all. If there is a bad snowstorm Jerry knows nothing about it. It can snow and snow and snow without making the least bit of difference to Jerry Muskrat.

So Jerry Muskrat had become somewhat careless, as is the way of people who are too long in security and peace. He forgot it was possible for any of his enemies to be hunting for him. Having grown tired of staying in his house and in his castle, he burrowed under the snow. You see, he had a back entrance to his castle in the bank, and this entrance was up on the Green Meadows. He dug the snow out of this entrance, and then from it made a tunnel, just as Danny Meadow Mouse makes tunnels under the snow. It gave him something to do and a chance to explore around a little. He was still out of sight under the snow and above him was a crust. Underneath that crust he felt very much as he did when he was under the ice in the Smiling Pool. He felt just as secure. No sharp eyes could see him there.



"Who could it have been?" muttered Jerry

So it was that Jerry was taken by surprise. Without any warning there was a thump above his head. For a startled second Jerry didn't move. Then he turned and started back along that little tunnel for the safety of his castle in the bank. At the same time there was another thump on that crust above him, and it broke. Down came something on his tail. He knew that something was a paw. Whose paw it was he didn't know, but it was somebody's paw, for he felt the claws in it. Jerry squealed, and how he ran! My goodness, how he ran! He could hear some one frantically digging behind him. He popped down into his hole at last and was safe. There, quite out of breath and wondering what it was all about, he realized that a little more and he would have been caught. He realized that he had the narrowest of narrow escapes. "Who could it have been?" muttered Jerry. "Who could it have been, and how did he know I was there? He couldn't have smelled me through that snow, and he couldn't have seen me through that snow. Yet, whoever it was, he seemed to know exactly where I was. Well, anyway, he didn't get me, and that means he never will, for I'll never, never be so careless again. No, sir, I'll never be so careless again."

Modern Dances

By Lucy Lowell.

THE other evening I sat on the side lines and watched a group of young people interpret the latest dances. There were clicking heels, the stamping feet, the swinging arms, the slapping of the hip and against-the-beat tom-tom rhythm that some people find so "abandoned." I found it rather good fun and excellent exercise.

I have come to the conclusion that much of the evil that is read into modern dances is to be found in the minds of the people who find them depraved. They are primitive, of course. But what form of dance expression through the ages has not been that?

I think it is well to remember that the modern dances are not the machinations of designing dancing teachers foisted upon an unsuspecting public. Neither are they the spontaneous expression of a people seeking an outlet for the terrific tension that has gripped the world in the last 25 years—particularly since the world paroxysms of the recent war.

Life in Twentieth Century America is particularly trying to the nervous system. The Charleston and other dances of its ilk are excellent safety valves for stored up nervous energy. It is just as good for tattered nerves and sluggish blood as a good mile's run or a stiff game of tennis. And because it can be executed anywhere to the tune of a radio or phonograph or piano, it is rather more convenient than a cross-country run or tennis.

For these and other reasons the wise mother should encourage rather than discourage the impulse that inspires her young son or daughter to seek expression in the dance. Surely it is far more healthy than if the energies that go into the intricacies of the new dances were diverted into other unwholesome channels.

I would like to remind those mothers who see the dance as the invention of the devil that the rhythmical expression than the look upon with abhorrence had its inception in the religious ceremonies of early civilizations. The pantomime and the dance were used to express all the emotions that stirred in the primitive breast. There was a dance or pantomine for each emotion. Most important of these was the dance of worship.

The dance as means of worship passed out of religion with paganism. But it must be remembered that the choir or choral, no less a rythmical expression than the dance, has come down to the present day.

If modern mothers would teach their children the beauty and healthfulness of the dance as a means of expression, instead of pointing out its imagined sinfulness, they would do much toward giving them physical and mental balance, as well as a poise and assurance that would stand them in good stead through life.

RECIPES FROM "My Old Virginia Cook Book"

Lemon Ice.

TAKE 6 lemons, grate the rind of 3 of them and squeeze juice from all 6 lemons. Grate the rind of 1 orange and squeeze the juice from it. Mix all the above together and let stand for about 1 hour, then strain out the rind. Now add to the juice 1 pint of water, 2 cups of sugar and a pinch of salt. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Put in freezer and freeze.

Sneaking Their Snuff.

LONDON.—Snuff taking is again popular in England society, although it has not yet reached the open-and-above-board stage. "Persons of a high social standing are now our most regular customers," said the manager of a West End snuff manufacturing firm. "They are still shy of performing in public but very soon some strong-minded person of note will flaunt his snuff box in his club."

The magic of "baked"

For four thousand years the word "baked" has meant to us human beings "something good to eat". The word "baked" has come down through the ages—a word to make the mouth water.

And so with beans: It's the baking, which gives them that taste you and I mean when we talk of baked beans. Heinz Beans are baked—baked in ovens—baked with dry heat. It's the baking, more than all else that makes them taste so good. Only beans that are baked can be labeled baked beans.

PHIL NOTIFIES THE JUDGE

WELL, Judge, old boy, we wish you joy,
(I hope you strip your gears)
We trust you'll stay in our employ
Another seven years.
We hope with us you will remain—
In fact we plead and beg;
We'll never see your like again.
(I hope you break a leg.)

You've simply been superb and grand
(I hope you catch the mumps.)
You've had us eating from your hand,
And put us o'er the jumps.
You taught the wilful magnates how
To take a little joke,
And to a man we're with you now—
(I surely hope you choke.)

It's Different Now.
